

WAR ON TREATY ALARMS G. O. P.

HAROLD NIERENGARTEN ON TRIAL MONDAY

DEATH TRAIN MEN ARE TO BE ARRESTED

Outgrowth of Fatal Collision With Motor Bus at Painesville

15 LIVES ARE LOST

Engineer and Conductor Charged With Violation of Speed Limit

PAINESVILLE. — Following a thorough investigation to fix responsibility for the crash between the New York Central fast mail and a charter-bound motor bus, in which 15 persons were killed, authorities Saturday night announced that further hearing of witnesses will be
noon.

Taking of testimony by County Judge Dr. H. H. Bradley, was delayed in hopes the injured would recover sufficiently to testify Tuesday.

At the hearing Saturday, City So-ciator Tuttle announced warrants would be issued for the arrest of the engineer and conductor of the flyer, charging them with violation of the Painesville city ordinance that limits the speed of trains within the city to 12 miles an hour. This action, however, is expected to be delayed pending further investigation.

WITNESSES HEARD

At the hearing Saturday afternoon, A. W. Barnes, flagman at the crossing, was the first to testify. He claimed he attempted to flag the train to stop, but the driver failed to heed his signal and increased speed across the tracks directly in front of the speeding train.

Engineer F. S. Fernandez, Buffalo, followed. He told authorities the train was running approximately 40 miles an hour. The bus, he said, came in from the headlights when the train was ten feet away. It was impossible to stop and the driver smashed through the crowded bus.

15 VICTIM DIES

Miss Martin Steinback, the 15th victim of the accident, died Saturday afternoon. Nick Vanno, injured internally, physicians declared, has little chance for recovery. He was picked up unconscious after the crash. Two others seriously injured, may recover.

Charles Sullivan, is the only one of the 15 persons in the bus to escape. He was standing near the locomotive and leaped as the locomotive crushed the crowded jitney high in the air.

Fairport and Painesville, the towns in which most of the accident victims lived, were in mourning Saturday night.

PATHETIC INCIDENTS

Many homes were in tears. The sorrow was bitter.

William Kelito and Hilda Braski, turning home after a happy evening with friends in Painesville, had been waiting for years. Their bodies, severely cut by glass and burned, were only a few feet from where they arrived. They had been unknown several feet.

Clady-Luko's bridal veil, on which she had been sewing, for she was to have been married this spring to her shroud. She was working on it in Painesville and was returning home on the late bus.

John Bartish, Martin Stein-back, Mrs. Oscar Cooper and Mrs.
L. J. Pfeiffer were in Painesville for the meeting of the Lake-Columbia of K. of C. Neighbors. They were talking happily when the train crashed down on the ill-fated bus. The bodies of Mrs. Cooper and Mrs. Pfeifer were mangled horribly. Mrs.
Bartish is survived by six small children. She had tucked them into bed before she came to Painesville.

Police the hospital floor anxiously watched the bus. Saturday night was a constant vigil over his son, who was suffering on a bed, injured in the crash. Physicians do not believe he will live.

TRIUMPH SCORED BY LLOYD GEORGE OVER HEAVY ATTACK OF HIS ENEMIES

British Premier Will Not be Forced to Resign as Opposition Crumbles and Political Crisis Is Averted—Sir George Younger Expresses Regrets for Assaults

(BY ED. L. KEEN)

LONDON—Three developments Saturday showed that the British political crisis, threatened Thursday, has been averted, and that David Lloyd George has once more escaped by a narrow margin, the necessity of resigning his premiership.

1—Sir George Younger, whose attacks on the premier were responsible for Lloyd George's flare-up and threat to resign, has made a complete retraction, according to the Cardiff Western Mail.

2—A conference of conservative leaders, called by the premier for the week-end at Chequers, his country estate, has been proclaimed unnecessary in view of the easier situation.

3—Winston Churchill, Austen Chamberlain and Sir Laming Worthington-Edwards, in further speeches, supported the coalition and the premier minister.

CHANGE IN ATTITUDE
The statement of Sir George Younger, who as leader of the "die hards" within the conservative party ranked, was Lloyd George's most bitter opponent, was most significant.

According to the London correspondent of the Western Mail, Younger now agrees his assertion of conservative independence was a mistake. It was the demand of Younger and his followers for separation from the coalition and a return to party politics that precipitated the crisis of Thursday.

Sir George has expressed regret that recent speeches of his have been interpreted as challenging Lloyd George's authority and hopes the coalition will continue until the time for a general election arrives, after which liberals and conservatives can cooperate, according to the Mail's correspondent.

VISIONS OF NEW PARTY
Winston Churchill, speaking at Loughborough, praised the excellence of the coalition government.
Churchill, however, expressed the hope that the coalition would eventually become the national party, which he for some time has had under his hat. The energetic minister for the colonies has visions of a new party, led perhaps by Winston Churchill, with progressive liberal tendencies.

Also the day's developments brightened the immediate political horizon. Lloyd George is by no means out of the woods. The political wolf of labor and liberalism like him little better than those of the extreme right. It is only a question of time before he must go down beneath the pack. Those who are waiting for the end of the hunt, however, half expect to see the premier come squirming from beneath the pack with a brand new party on which he can ride again to power.

PREMIER WANTS TO QUIT Lloyd George has had times when he sincerely wished to resign. The premier's enemies increase with each political situation which arises.
His friends say he would be heartily glad to quit now.

Lloyd George was ready to seize upon the Younger attacks as an excuse to end his leadership.

The real reason why Lloyd George has clung to the ship is that he and called on his friends Balfour and Chamberlain to assure him of conservative party support, is that he wanted to take the initiative in world politics at Genoa. Lloyd George was in the midst of important successes at Cannes, when the supreme council meeting was suddenly cut short by the downfall of the Briand government. It is believed that the premier wants to negotiate with the Russians face to face at Genoa, start Europe on the road to rehabilitation and then retire once and for all to a well-earned rest.

FIUME UNDER GUARD OF ITALIAN WARSHIP

FIUME. — A general election with Italian government troops maintaining order, will probably be the outcome of the Fascist coup d' etat, which resulted in the flight of President Zambella and the establishment of a provisional revolutionary government at this war-torn port.

The city was quiet Saturday night,
under the guns of an Italian warship.
The Fascists, who had stormed the palace and routed the feeble opposition of Zambella's troops and Croatian police, had established order almost immediately with the aid of carabinieri.

The port's electric lighting and power systems, cut at the moment the revolutionaries struck, were in operation.

SITUATION EMBARRASSING
Arrival of the official representative of the Italian government, who would bring the decree of the new Fascist government concerning the fate of the revolutionaries, was awaited with anxiety by Fiumeans.
It might mean a renewal of the brief but fierce fighting which Fiume has

NEWBERRY CASE MAY BE AIRED

Reopening Threatened in New Investigation Demanded.

DATA SOUGHT BY CARAWAY

Wants Poindexter Explain Charge of Corrupt Influences.

(By LAURENCE M. BENEDICT)
WASHINGTON.—An investigation of statements of Senator Poindexter of Washington, that "malign and corrupt" influences were brought to bear on the senate during consideration of the Newberry case, was demanded in the senate late Saturday by Senator Caraway, of Arkansas.

Should this investigation be ordered, it would be a partial reopening of the case. The prevailing opinion in the senate is that no second attempt to oust Senator Newberry would be made until after the election. It is apparent that the Newberry case will be one of the main issues in several states, particularly those near to Michigan.

KEELY IN RACE

Representative Patrick Kelley, of the sixth Michigan district, Saturday announced his candidacy for the Republican senatorial nomination against Senator Townsend, incumbent, and in a statement made the Newberry case the issue. He will ask the nomination on a platform opposed to the large use of funds in campaigns.

Townsend supported Newberry, claiming that there was no evidence of corruption in his campaign.

THREATS CLAIMED

Poindexter's statement, Caraway said, was made in a letter to a constituent. Caraway said if Poindexter knew of any such influences, he should tell the senate and the country about them.

Replying to Caraway, Poindexter said his reference to influence brought to bear on the senate concerned "insolent editorials" in many newspapers, which he said, tried to tell senators how to vote on the Newberry case and contained threats.

Kelley in his newspaper statement, struck directly at the argument of many of those who supported Newberry in the senate—that there was no corruption in the large expenditures.

DETECTIVES WOUNDED

NEW YORK. — A running gun battle between police and alleged Italian bootleggers in downtown streets Saturday night, capped a day replete with payroll robberies and shootings. Two detectives were seriously wounded in the battle Saturday night, and one man was captured.

known too often since President Wilson's day.

Premier Facta and his newly formed cabinet, it was known, found the situation created by the Fascist uprising extremely embarrassing. The new premier's dealing with the situation would be his first test of strength. If he threw out the revolutionaries and restored President Zambella, who fled to Buccari, he would be overthrown in the chamber by Fascist and other groups of nationalist tendencies. He could not leave the situation in the hands of the local Fascists.

A general election therefore, seemed to many the best way out for both the government and the local authorities.

STREETS PARADED

The revolution, which was accomplished in a few hours with few casualties, resulted from hostility toward Croatian police appointed by Zambella.

Italian spirit ran high here, following the success of the coup d' etat. Excited men and women, waving Italian flags paraded the streets.
Harbor craft suddenly bristled with arms as potential war craft in case

SLAYER OF KERSHAW TO FACE COURT

Defense May be Based on Testimony of Dr. God-

25 WILL TESTIFY

First Murder Trial In Auglaze-co In Period of 30 Years

Behind the steel and iron enclosure of the Auglaize-co jail at Wa-pakoneta there awaits for trial the first person charged with murder in the last 30 years of the county's history. He is Harold Nierengarten, 30-year-old Lima boy, charged with slaying his pal, Joseph Scott Kershaw, while the two were riding southward in a B. & O. freight car, November 20, 1921. Nierengarten goes on trial Monday at 9:30 a. m.

Conjecture is rife in Wapakoneta as to the outcome of the trial. Wild rumors and gossip have been provoked to a keen edge by the appearance of an alienist, Dr. Goddard, of the Ohio bureau of juvenile research, who made an investigation of Nierengarten's mentality.

ALIENIST MAY TESTIFY

Whether his testimony will be introduced at the trial is problematic.
Officials refuse to commit themselves on the subject, or, in fact, permit anyone except the accused's counsel to see him at the jail.

Goddard has made no report,
however, and it is said Nierengarten's attorney, former Probate Judge C. A. Stueve, will build his defense about the alienist's report, which is expected by some to indicate insanity.

Stueve, however, refused to discuss his plans for defending the former henchman. Nor does Prosecuting Attorney Karl Timmermeister have anything to say.

Sheriff George L. Ewing maintains a strict watch over the prisoner. His policy of keeping the accused in seclusion, away from everyone, extends to the press. A list of the witnesses who will be called in the case is withheld under lock and key in the office of the county clerk.

WITNESSES LIST SECRET

It is stated unofficially that 23 persons will be called to testify, among them ten residents of Lima.

The Monday morning is the time set for the opening of the trial, it is not expected the case will get under way much before Tuesday. It is anticipated the greater part of Monday will be consumed in selecting a jury.

MISS OLIVE CLARK

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—Plenty of

Many White House Dreams Fail To Come True, Harding Says

President Reveals Some of His First Year Experiences.

WASHINGTON.—The outstanding achievement of the administration in the progress it has made in traversing the road back to normalcy, President Harding told Washington newspaper men in an amazingly frank talk at the National Press Club Saturday night.

Harding, celebrating the anniversary of his first year in the White House, gave the correspondents an intimate picture of his thoughts in a "heart-to-heart" talk.

The president said:
"The hardest thing to do in this White House job is to keep humanity never done.

"I never find my work done and I have argued with my genial secretary that the trouble is I am unable to keep myself aloof. I don't believe there is any human being that can do all the work that is expected of the presidential office.

"A man can't be president and keep aloof. He wouldn't be fit to be president if he did.

"I suppose you are wondering what my impressions are tonight after a year in the White House.

"It seems to me tonight that I may have been president for 20 years. Life has been so full that I have scarcely any recollection of the period prior to my becoming president, except one. The outstanding thing that I can recall is my conception of the senate of the United States as compared to that I have today.

"I do not mean to be disrespectful to the senate in saying that.

OPPOSITION TO PACIFIC PACT GROWS

White House Conferences Held as the Situation Becomes Critical

FOES ORGANIZING

Republican Bolt Against the Proposed Reservation Is Threatened

(By LAWRENCE MARTIN.)

WASHINGTON. — Seemingly danger in further delay, President Harding has suggested to Senator Lodge that the four-power Pacific treaty be pressed to early ratification in the senate.

As a result of this suggestion, Lodge Saturday night announced he would call up the treaty Monday.

As a means of keeping the treaty before the senate and breaking what Republican leaders suspect is a Domocratic filibuster against it, arrangements have been made for a series of speeches next week by Republican senators.

This is a complete change of plans of administration leaders, who had intended letting the treaty's opposents do most of the talking. But the opposition senators have talked about everything but the treaty.
The result has been delay instead of the progress Lodge hopes for.

OPPOSITION ORGANIZED

To make matters worse, the opposition has been quietly organizing and Saturday night claimed a total of 30 votes against the treaty text, three less than the number necessary to defeat ratification without reservation.

While administration leaders scouted this claim, they admitted that the opposition has gained strength this week under cover of prolonged debate on relatively unimportant change in senate rules.
New and others grew disturbed over the situation earlier in the week and New urged Harding to appeal to Lodge to beseech himself. Lodge was called to the White House Saturday and after talking with Harding, held a series of conferences at the capitol with Republican members of the foreign relations committee.

It was decided that New shall speak Monday on the treaty and Senator Kellogg, Minnesota, on Tuesday with other pro-treaty senators to follow.

The strategy now to be adopted, is an offensive-defensive, and within a few days Lodge will request the fixing of a date to vote.

KEY PLAYERS SPLIT

Lodge refused to grow excited over an attempt by some Republicans to organize a revolt against the Brandegee-Lodge-Harding reservation to the pact, which the foreign relations committee adopted. A number of Republicans discussed an organized demand on Lodge that he repeal the reservation and help defeat it.

Lodge, however, said the reservation would be adopted without amendment, and that all other reservations, whether offered as new propositions or as substitutes for the Brandegee resolutions would be rejected.

While he declined to estimate the number of votes he could command, he was confident there were enough.
Absenteeism of a number of pro-treaty senators, Lodge indicated, is giving him concern. The Republican absentees are Crow, Pennsylvania, who is ill; Dupont, Delaware, also ill; and La Follette, Wisconsin. Of these three, La Follette alone would vote against ratification. Senator Owen, Oklahoma, Democrat, also a treaty supporter, is absent. The fact that Lodge is disturbed over the absence of so small a group of senators is significant, treaty foes said of the closeness of the vote.

Senator Underwood, whose leadership was counted on to keep the Democrats in line for the pact, also is away on account of illness, but it is expected he will return in a few days.

Lodge told questioners Saturday that there will be "a real debate" on the pact, and that he had no desire "to jam it thru." But, he made clear Saturday night, he will no longer yield to senators who wish other matters disposed of.

MYSTERIOUS FIRE AT CINCINNATI IS PROBED

CINCINNATI.—State fire marshal, assisted by the police, started an investigation Saturday of the fourth mysterious fire in the building at 1957 Linn-st. The first floor is occupied by Burger Brothers Meat company. Four families occupy the flats above. Police were told the landlord did not raise the rates since the beginning of the World War. The fires have occurred within the last two months. Tenants were trapped on upper floors during the first fire and had to be rescued by firemen with ladders.

Work of Mercy for Children Is Prosecuted in Allen-co

Homes for Sixty Found by Welfare Association.

GOOD RESULTS OBTAINED

Boarding Home Division in Charge of Eunice Trumbo.

BY N. W. RALSTON

Child welfare work has been greatly promoted in Lima the past few months, since the formation of the Allen-co Child Welfare association, which this institution is comparatively in its infancy and has just begun to do things, heads of the movement, state.

Sixty child have been placed in homes by the association since it was formed January 17, 1921. Of this number, 31 are still in homes, a report compiled by Miss Eunice Trumbo, director of the Boarding Home division, shows. Miss Trumbo takes more than usual interest in her work. It is not a bed of roses, either, the task of settling home problems, of putting children in the proper homes where they will receive the best possible treatment, she asserts.

Miss Trumbo's daily menu is a varied one; each problem must be solved a little different. The telephone rings. It is a mother who is seeking a home for her child. Perhaps the father has left, possibly it is a divorce case, maybe the hand of death has called home the masculine side of a family that has no big purse to fall back on. Then, too, the wife may be to blame.

"We find many times that it is the woman," said Miss Trumbo. "Perhaps she is irresponsible. Possibly there has been family trouble or relatives have been interfering with a newly married couple. That is one thing that is breaking up a number of homes, outside folks trying to give advice to couples who have been married a few years and probably have a child or two. Sometimes it is a mother-in-law. We find many homes that have been broken up by this means."

Then the phone rings again. "Have you little girl or boy who wants a home?" That's the welcome word that brings a smile, for probably Miss Trumbo has just told a mother that she has been unable to care for her child right now. Work well done always brings a feeling of satisfaction, and Miss Trumbo is only human when she is glad after a child has been given a home.

One child only 22 days' old has been placed in a home by the association. The oldest one to be given a home was an 18-year-old crippled girl who had no means of supporting herself. The majority who are given boarding homes range up to 13 years of age. Very few older than this are taken care of by the association although none are rejected. Efforts are made to locate all.

It is a difficult task to judge whether an applicant for a child can give it the proper kind of care. Some, although very few, plan on taking a child so it can be required to do the work about the house. That is why, Miss Trumbo states, who would rather place a child with a young married couple. Older couples are apt to want someone who can work and relieve them.

Many families that temporarily "adopt" a child have had several children who have moved away from home, are away at college, are married or have died. One girl has just been placed in a family where the oldest daughter is married and where two children are away at college. The new addition to the family is now leading her class in studies, is taking music lessons and is developing a wonderful voice, showing that many children who apply to the association for boarding homes have talents, if only they can be developed.

Another family that has taken a child has two boys who are away at college, while a daughter is attending high school in Lima. Their home was made lonely and so they took a child to board.

Once in awhile a father brings a child to the association, asking that it take care of the little one until a family dispute has been settled. Sometimes it is a mother.

"Do you ever have trouble with bad children? That is, do you get children to place in boarding homes who are troublesome and ill-tempered?" Miss Trumbo was asked.

"Very seldom," was the reply. "Of course," she continued, "all children are human and have different temperaments. Often times we will place a child in a home where the mother or father does not react to the mind of the child. They think different and the mother may lose her patience. This does not occur very often, however. Usually there is little trouble and we find that it is very true that the mother or father who takes a child will have more patience than if the child was their own."

Once more the phone rings. A mother who has had family trouble finds she will be unable to pay only a little a week toward a "and to keep her child in a boarding home. Here another angle of the Child Welfare association reveals itself. Miss Trumbo informs the worried mother that the association will look after the balance of the financial matter until the mother finds she is able to help pay the full amount.

Thus the philanthropic work which is saving many a boy and girl in Allen-co from going, literally "to the dogs"—or probably worse—goes on. It is a big task, a job in which there are very few "thank you's," but one in which the satisfaction of seeing the youth who hasn't had a chance started right is, in a measure, its own reward.

AUTO PRICES CUT

Overland and Willys-Knight Cars "peppery" say TOLEDO.—Shades in prices on all models of Willys-Knight and Overland automobiles were announced by officials here Saturday night. Reductions range from $50 to $250. Greatest cut was on the Willys-Knight sedan which fell to $2,095. The new price for the touring car is $1,375. The Overland touring car dropped to $550.

depend, it is said, upon the number of women who will be implicated. But the others worry about his fate. Nierengarten himself is seemingly unconcerned, according to information obtained from the sheriff. Apparently is indifferent to his fate.

Interest in the trial is at fever heat and standing room will be at a premium in the spacious courtroom. It is believed regulatory orders have been issued regarding the crowd of spectators.

Judge F. C. Layton, of Auglaize-co common pleas court, will not hear the case, because of illness. He has been confined to his home for three weeks.

Judge Joseph D. Barnes, of Shelby-co, will sit on the bench. He may have another Auglaize-co murder case to try in event Judge Layton's illness becomes protracted, for in a cell adjoining that of Nierengarten in the Auglaize-co jail there awaits another man charged with first degree murder. He is Charles Piening, Minister, who three weeks ago slew the Rev. Richard Schweidenman, Minister priest, while the latter was ministering to him in an illness. It is charged.

FIRST MURDER TRIAL IN YEARS They are the first persons charged with first degree murder for more than 40 years in Auglaize-co. There has not been a murder trial in the county for 20 years.

Slain Nierengarten escaped from the county jail on February 10 and was recaptured two days later on a farm five miles east of Wapakoneta, nearly frozen, he has taken little interest in the charge laid against him, that of slaying his church in a cold-blooded manner.

Law enforcement agencies have been taken to prevent a repetition of Nierengarten's getaway. The exciting incidents attending the disappearance of the prisoner from the jail and his consequent recapture are apparently practically forgotten in the public mind.

SUSPECT IS TAKEN

Prisoner Quizzed in Murder of Teachers at Parma.

NEW BOSTON, OHIO.—On advice from Prosecutor Edward Stanton, of Cleveland, Norman Link, 20, a Canadian, was questioned by authorities here Saturday night, in connection with the murder of two school teachers at Parma, Ohio, a year ago. Link was taken into custody late Saturday, following receipt of an anonymous letter in Stanton, declaring Link is thought to know "something" about the murder. Cleveland authorities will investigate, the little residence is placed in the elite, Stanton reported.

Link never taken back to Cleveland alive. Link is said to have told police when apprehended. Mabel Foote and Louise Wolf, the slain teachers, were found brutally murdered along the side of a lonely roadway near Parma. They were returning from school when attacked.

ADOPT NEW PLAN

Fair Board Votes for Uniform Classification of Stock.

Members of the Allen County Fair board met and acted yesterday in favor of the uniform classification of live stock exhibited here. Their meeting was held in conjunction with a large number of breeders and exhibitors in this part of the state who had been invited to express their views.

The change to the uniform system, which is being advocated throughout the state to eliminate confusion when breeders and exhibitors go from one exhibit to another, will necessitate a revision of the premium lists. A committee to make these changes composed of Charles Sprague, Shawnee-twp.; H. L. Williams, Auglaize-twp.; Harry Patterson, Richmond-twp. and G. Dale Creeman, Lima, was named by President M. L. Roeder. The committee will report at a meeting to be held soon.

Among the visitors at the meeting yesterday was Frank Harding, Chicago, president of the Shorthorn Breeders' association of the United States. He was favorably impressed with the uniform classification plan adopted by the board.

VAN WERT MAN AWARDED $145,043 ROAD CONTRACT P. B. Putman, Van Wert, has been awarded the contract for building six miles of re-inforced concrete road on the Van Wert-Panola main market highway. The contract was let at his bid of $145,043.43, by the state highway department.

The road will extend north from the Van Wert-co line to the north line of Blue Creek and Lattv-tps. Concrete was selected by the highway department as the most durable type of paving. Out of various materials submitted, bituminous concrete, blumorous macadam and Kentucky Rock asphalt were other road materials on which bids were received.

OHIO STEEL FOUNDRY PLANT TO REOPEN SOON Two hundred employees of the Ohio Steel Foundry company will not start to work again Monday, but will probably resume Wednesday, at the officials say that it is possible that the plant will not be reopened until March 13. The shutdown Thursday was due to the non-arrival of a supply of patterns.

STATE RESTS IN MURDER CASE

L. J. Wittman on Trial for Killing of Harry Hamman.

HAMILTON.—The state rested Saturday in the trial of Lou J. Wittman, charged with first degree murder of Harry Hamman, Oxford, Ohio, on November 14. Wittman claims he warned Hamman to remain away from his wife. Hamman was shot dead in his own automobile while riding with Mrs. Wittman, it was testified.

Mrs. Bert Reynolds, state witness, testified she heard Wittman say: "I've killed him."

"Then Wittman turned to his wife," Mrs. Reynolds testified, "and shook the gun in her face. 'You caused all this, Sarah. You had good clothes, home, money and everything.'"

"Mrs. Wittman walked over to Hamman's car and asked her husband to do something for the wounded man. 'I want him to die,' Wittman replied."

Defense will start its case Monday. Wittman claims self-defense.

ADMITS MURDER

Unknown Person Confesses Killing William D. Taylor.

LOS ANGELES.—Postal authorities had and will police through the New England states were asked Saturday night to institute a strenuous search for a mysterious individual who asserts himself to be the slayer of William Desmond Taylor.

Captain of Detectives David L. Adams was in telegraphic communication with officials in Connecticut and the New England states broadcasting a request for the apprehension of the unnamed author of a remarkable "confession" received by special delivery Saturday afternoon.

Adams expressed the belief that the letter was genuine, despite the fact that other letters from fanatics are received here at the rate of dozens a day.

The letter asserted that its author had killed the famous movie star and was the author of trouble that had his impendency in the days when Taylor was known as William Deane-Tanner in his "other past" in New York.

The "confession" was written, it said, so that officials here could not pin the crime on an innocent person.

LIMA WOODMAN CIRCLE IN DEGREE WORK AT WAPAK

Ritualistic work for a class of candidates was exemplified by Cedar Grove lodge No. 24, Woodmen Circle, at Wapakoneta, the Lima order accepting an invitation from the out-of-town lodge to put on the degree work.

Two of the candidates were from Lima, Mrs. Bernice Fisher and Mrs. Rose Shaw.

The Supreme Guardian, Mary E. Lallocca and State Sovereign, Manager Reuss, of Cleveland, were guests of honor.

THREE RESIDENCE DEALS INVOLVE TOTAL OF $16,000

Real estate deals to the amount of $16,000 have been closed by Tompkins & Wilber, realtors, in the Sherwood building.

A new square house on S. Scott-st. has been sold to Guy Neely, of the firm of Neely Bros., S. Elizabeth-st., consideration, $5,500.

A residence on S. Scott-st. has been sold to Clyde L. Custer, of the Michael Clothing company, for a consideration of $5,500.

The O. H. Hoffman residence, Dewey-av., has been sold to A. O. Pender of the Hoover-Bond Furniture company for a sum of $5,000.

KNEE PANTS TO COST AMBASSADOR HIS JOB?

LONDON.—Has Ambassador Harvey shortened his diplomatic career with his "pants?" The Sunday Express, beneath a picture of the American envoy in a top hat and knee breeches on his way to Princess Blary's wedding, made this query, referring to published reports here Saturday that Harvey was to be asked to resign.

"The charge against Mr. Harvey seems to hinge on those knees that show in the picture," says the Express humorist. "They have given offense to many Americans who claim a frock coat on their ambassador is inseparable from the true spirit of democracy."

The American colony is inclined to defend the ambassador's appearance in "short pants."

Harvey Saturday declined to comment on the story in the Daily Herald that President Harding would shortly ask his resignation.

AUTHORITY ON KOREA WILL ADDRESS LIONS

F. A. Beck, who for 20 years has traveled thru Korea, will be the speaker who will address members of the Lions' club at its noonday luncheon in the Elks club, Wednesday. His travels were full of interest and he is expected to disclose some thrilling stories of life in that country.

His subject will be "Habits and Life of the People of Korea." Elmer McClain and Frank McClain are on the Lions' program committee. A musical program will also be a feature of the Wednesday meeting.

CITY TO PAY FOR GYM OUTFITS

Purchasing Agent Goes Shopping for Safety Men.

Athletic outfits to be used by Lima police and firemen, who are to exercise twice each week at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium are to be paid for by the city. The cost will be about $175 for each man, a total of $124.25.

Purchasing agent Harry N. Osgood, who is shopping for the uniforms, states they will probably be made of white material. Shoes are difficult to obtain, he says, because of the proportions of the feet of some of the safety men.

"Some of 'em take better than a No. 12," Osgood said. As soon as the uniforms arrive, they will be distributed and calisthenics will commence in dead earnest. The city is to bear all expenses connected with the innovation. About 71 firemen and police officers are to participate.

Firemen and policemen interviewed say the exercises are going to be a little tough on some of the corpulent members—at least for a while.

FOREMEN OF D. T. & I. SECTION DEATH VICTIM

Thomas A. Ford, 57, foreman on the D. T. & I. railroad, died at his home, 910 Bellefontaine-av., Saturday at 12:15 p. m., after an illness lasting only two days. Death was due to heart disease.

Surviving are his widow, two sons, four sisters and two brothers. The sons are John, of Dundee, Mich., and Thomas, Jr., at home. The sisters are Kate and Elizabeth Ford, of New York city; Mary and Nan Ford, of Greensfield, Ohio. The two brothers are John and Rodney, also of Greensfield.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed pending arrival of relatives.

AUTO REPORTED STOLEN

Automobile thieves stole a Marmon car property of Dr. A. Jones, from in front of his residence in 655 W. Spring-st., at 11 p. m., Saturday, he reported to the police.

of a counter-move on the part of the Croats. From all parts of Italy came congratulations on the Fascist success.

With the arrival of the Mirabella, an Italian warship, Saturday morning, the Italian garrison of Fiume was increased by 200 carabinieri. Troops deployed along the border to prevent incursions on the part of the counter-revolutionist forces.

The provisional government took possession of the government palace Saturday. Signor Attilio, acting in the name of the "committee of national defense" issued a proclamation to this effect:

"After bitter engagement and the capitulation of President Zambella, this committee declares itself a provisional government, displacing temporarily the constituent assembly. It assumes full powers which were delivered to it by official deed by the former head of the government."

ROAD PROGRAM IS BEING HELD UP

Highway Enthusiasts Will Meet to Find Out Why.

What is holding up Allen-co's 1922 road building program? To discover the reason will be the principal object of a meeting of the Allen-co Good Roads council, called by J. C. Hartline, chairman, in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium, at 7:30 p. m., Monday, March 13.

County commissioners, W. W. Craig, A. J. Gray and J. W. Thompson, will talk for their office. County Surveyor Walter Toy, will outline his opinion on the cause of the trouble.

District engineer G. F. Clements, successor to J. P. Shumaker, will present the status of the program in the office of the state highway commissioner.

Allen-co's 32 miles of state aid highway must be pushed thru this year, Hartline declares. One year ago, thru failure to prepare plans, federal aid amounting to $209,000 was lost. This year's portion of a five-year program is dropping, Hartline says. Road enthusiasts should dig in and find the trouble, he asserts.

TRUSTEE CHANGES

Three New Members of Children's Home Board Named.

Three changes in the personnel of the board of trustees of the Children's Home were announced Saturday by A. J. Gray, president of the board of county commissioners.

At a meeting held Saturday, W. C. Brennenman, Lima, was appointed trustee to succeed Dr. H. Sullivan, whose term has expired.

Two resignations were presented to the commissioners. D. E. Hoyer, Shawnee-twp., whose term expired March 1, 1924, resigned because of ill health. Clarence Brees, Shawnee-twp. farmer, succeeds him for the unexpired term.

W. J. Jenkins, Lima, who has been in failing health for some time, will be succeeded by Thomas Grubb, Delphos, for the remainder of his term, expiring March 1, 1923. Jenkins resigned.

MARKET HOUSE EARNS $211 IN FEBRUARY

Report of J. W. Sherkey, market master for February, filed with City Manager C. A. Bingham Saturday, shows that the market house earned $211 during the month.

The receipts were: Weighing $19.80; testing scales, $33.35; rent of stalls $158.25.

WEATHERMAN IS TENACIOUS

Clinging to his convictions that weather conditions should be fair and warm, as predicted for two days past, instead of cloudy, cold and snowy part of the day, the forecaster asserts the outlook for Sunday and Monday is fair and warmer.

He may hit the nail on the head this time, but there is no assurance along that line, taking into consideration the state of the weather in the early hours of this Sunday morning. The forecaster must be admired for his tenacity in sticking to an opinion, however.

Long range forecasts also missed it badly during the past several days. Scientific calculations and indications obtained from delicate instruments that are supposed to faithfully forecast conditions, often-times fail, but that's all the weatherman has to go by, hence he cannot be blamed when failures result.

GOVERNOR TO BE COMER GUEST

Davis Principal Speaker at St. David Day Event, Monday.

Governor Harry L. Davis will be the guest of honor at the annual St. David Day banquet to be held at Comer in Sugar Creek-twp., Monday. The event which will be held at the Congregational church, is under the auspices of the Ladies' Loyal Legion class. Mrs. M. L. Morris is president.

The annual celebration is given by the Welsh of Comer and is a big event in the village. Governor Davis will arrive in Lima on his way to Comer, Monday, and will be met by a reception committee composed of the following: Rev. and Mrs. T. J. Jones, Dr. and Mrs. O. L. Roebuck and Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Morris of Comer. The exact time of his arrival is not known at present, although the committee will be wired later the hour he is to reach this city.

The Governor is scheduled to give an address on the evening program. A banquet will be a feature at 3 p. m.

JURY FAILS ON VERDICT IN THE McDOWELL CASE

TOLEDO.—The jury trying the case of Jesse C. McDowell, Pittsburgh millionaire, on charges of misuse of the mails, was discharged by Federal Judge Killit. Saturday, after futile attempts to reach a verdict. The balloting stood 9 to 3 for acquittal. The trial had been in progress for eight weeks.

RESCUE HOME STARTS ON MARCH WORK WITH $7.82

Lima Rescue Home started March 1 with a balance of but $7.82 in its treasury, report of Superintendent A. D. Welby shows. The home commenced February 1 with $96.92 and received $664.99 during the month, making a total of $761.83. Expenditures amounted to $754.01. Some 754 free meals were served and 776 free lodgings provided.

TWO WIVES SEEK COURT RELIEF

Failure to Provide and Desertion Are Charges Made.

Two petitions for divorce were added Saturday to the grist of matrimonial disagreements awaiting adjustment in common pleas court. Incompatibility and lack of understanding separated Blanche H. Kerman from her husband, Eugene F. Kerman, 1175 Bri-e-av, she charges in a petition filed Saturday.

Mrs. Kerman was formerly housekeeper in the Kerman home, but in 1910 they were married in Plymouth, Mrs. Kerman's former home.

Mrs. Kerman alleges that her husband failed to support her and that she has been forced to earn her own living. The petition recites that the temperaments of the husband and wife are not compatible, making their home life unhappy.

There are two children, Thelma and John. Restoration of her maiden name, Cecelia Spencer, is asked in a divorce petition filed by Cecelia Hatt, wife of Ralph Hatt.

They were married in Chicago in 1912. Three years ago, the petition recited, Hatt disappeared. His whereabouts are unknown. They have no children.

SON INJURED, DAUGHTER OPERATED ON, IS WORD RECEIVED BY A MOTHER

Mrs. George Wolf, Spencerville, R. D. 2, received word Saturday from Detroit, that her daughter, Mrs. C. C. Runyan, is recovering in a hospital there, following an operation for relief from appendicitis. Mrs. Runyan formerly resided in Lima.

Mrs. Wolf's son, Smiley Wolf, also formerly of Lima, injured by falling from a bridge on which he was working at Dayton, Kentucky, is recovering, his mother is informed. He is able to sit up part of the time but is still confined to a hospital.

COLORED WAITER TAKEN ON NON-SUPPORT CHARGE

Harvey Jones, colored, arrested by Pittsburg police on a charge of non-support, was brought here Saturday by Deputy Sheriff Clarence Fraunfelder, and lodged in jail, to await arraignment.

Jones was employed as a waiter in a Pittsburg hotel. He has failed to provide maintenance for two children in Lima, it is charged.

KIWANIS TO HAVE "Y" MAN FROM CHINA AS SPEAKER

Arthur Rugh, for years secretary of the Y. M. C. A. in China, will be the speaker at the Kiwanis club luncheon in the Argonne, Tuesday noon. Rugh is a prominent figure not only in the American life in China, but also in the lives of the Chinese who who has come to know intimately. His talk is expected to deal with America's relation to that country.

No other speakers are listed on the program.

BUSINESS BETTER

Garford Head Sees Improvement in Motor Truck Prospects.

Conditions at the plant of the Garford Motor Truck company are slowly improving. E. F. Sayer, assistant to President E. A. Williams stated Saturday.

ago," Sayer said, "but I believe the bottom has been reached in the industrial slump and that times will be better from now on. There is a better sentiment all around."

It is not known definitely when a bigger force will be added, Sayer declared, although indications are that the working strength will not be materially changed for a time. Dealers in various parts of the country report slight improvement in the industrial aspect, Sayer said, and of course when the dealers' trade improves that of the manufacturer is bettered.

Business has weathered the worst part of the storm, is the belief expressed by the company official.

VIC DONAHEY HAS LIFTED LID

Makes Formal Announcement as Candidate For Governor

DAVIS COINS NEW PHRASE

G. O. P. Troublemakers Busy—Political Comment

(By J. W. FISHER.)

He's in. Vic Donahey, New Philadelphia, Former State Auditor. Defeated candidate on Democratic ticket in 1920 for Governor. That tells the story. You understand. Donahey's announcement during the past week that he will seek again the Democratic nomination in the August primary, is no surprise. It was expected all the time.

Vic paved the way during the past several weeks. The situation was such that had he announced his intention to stay out of the fight, the surprise would have been of an acute character. Now that he is in, the display of fireworks is expected to start any minute.

Donahey delayed an official statement until he was good and ready to release it. Whether intentions of any kind existed, Vic can best tell. But everything seems to be all hunk now. Other candidates are expected to declare themselves and the political marathon will soon be on in earnest.

This platform is right to the point. Donahey asserts he will stand for lower taxes, economy, constitutional government and common honesty. Those who have kept in touch with the progress of events under the present administration can easily read a column in those few words.

The platform takes a crack at the inability of the Republican General Assembly to pass a tax measure, as promised, to reduce instead of increase the tax burdens on the people. Costs to the people have increased. The word economy is particularly apropos in view of the fact that instead of reducing expenses, the Davis administration has increased them.

The reorganization measure is generally accepted as a departure from constitutional government and Donahey pledged himself to restore to the people of Ohio the rights that are theirs under the constitution. Then as for common honesty, which Vic speaks of latterly, scandals in state departments are recited with a rush.

So, dear friends, when Vic Donahey says he stands for "lower taxes, economy, constitutional government and common honesty," he hits the Davis administration in four places at one time. Vic's positive announcement was not released until after he consulted with leading citizens in the state and conferred with many of the rank and file of his own party.

The former Auditor of State, who won the ill will of many by his refusal to stand by and see the state treasury looted, was honest about wanting his party to have the opportunity to declare for another if it so desired. The result of his plan, of delay has apparently proved to Vic that he is wanted. Therefore, his hat is in the ring.

The official announcement pilloried the Davis administration for sponsoring and crowding thru the ripper bill reorganization with its emergency clause to increase the cost of government, create more jobs for party henchmen and disorganize government as it has never been before in the history of the state. He asserts that the best laws placed in the hands of incompetent officers for administration will spell failure; that the weakness of government is in its administration; that economy in government will not alone come thru the law, but thru capable and unselfish administration of the law.

Donahey is pledged to resist the enactment of any legislation as an emergency, unless an emergency actually exists. He also declares for the untrammeled right of the referendum. Vic could not resist the opportunity to say to the people of Ohio that so long as the Governor of Ohio in his biennial budget recommendations and the General Assembly appropriates one million dollars more for jobs and traveling expenses for state employees and six hundred and fifty thousand dollars more for incidental emergency purposes than the previous General Assembly appropriated, expenditures of our state government will rapidly increase and economy will never materialize, all promises to the contrary notwithstanding.

As a parting shot he declares for the administration of the workmen's compensation law by non-partisan body and the rescue of this and other departments from political spoils-men.

Many mourners there are at the "burial" of the old Nell-House at Columbus, which is to be razed soon to make way for a new modern $4,000,000 hotel on the site of the present structure.

This famous hostelry, located as it is in the center of the capital city of the state, which in turn is the center of the commonwealth, has been the scene of many memorable incidents. Before the present structure was reared, there existed before, on the same ground, an inn that was intimately associated with the early history of Ohio.

When the first stage coach office was built at the corner of High-st and Capitol Alley, more than a century ago, that spot was closely identified with the history of Ohio and the nation. Within the portals of that olden time inn many questions of state, of public policy and of the administration of government were planned and decided.

Statesmen of several generations found accommodations there. Henry Clay, enroute from Kentucky, to Washington, over the National Road visited there, as also has the during Andrew Jackson, soldier and President, passing from the Homelodge in Tennessee. William Henry Harrison, first of Ohio's line of Presidents was often seen about the historic spot and a General in the army signed a treaty of peace with the Wyandotte Indians across the Scioto river within sight of the little tavern of those days. Lincoln, martyred President, spoke there and later his funeral train passed by the draped hotel. It afforded shelter for James G. Blaine and Allen G. Thurman, the "noblest Roman of them all." The martyred McKinley, while Governor made his home in the Nell House and it was there that the memorable campaign was planned which made him President and fixed the financial policy of the American people. Other Presidents, Rutherford B. Hayes and James A. Garfield resided there and while a member of the Ohio senate, President Harding found comfort within the Nell House. While a young man, a candidate for admission to the bar, William Howard Taft was welcomed within its portals and there was held the conference that made him President of the United States.

For more than 75 years the various political parties in Ohio have made general headquarters in the Nell House during state conventions and campaigns. In its rooms were written declarations of principles that later became the law and policy of the commonwealth.

Many hundreds of Lima and Altoona people have found service at the Nell House. Its passing soon to come brings a flood of recollection to many. The historic hostelry will soon join its predecessor in history, to be succeeded by a structure of greater pretensions and more in keeping with the times.

Governor Davis has coined a new phrase for application to those who criticize his administration. Speaking before the New's Bible class of the First Christian church in Canton, Davis declared that "while honest criticism of public officials is always to be encouraged, the unscrupulous tongue of the 'political blaspheemer' is as hurtful to the public cause as it is to the individual."

"Political blaspheemer" is good, but coming from Governor Davis is indeed from a strange source, when one recalls the incidents of the 1920 campaign and certain and sundry incidents that have occurred since that time.

"Personally," Davis said, "I have been undisturbed by such attacks against me and we have simply gone ahead carrying on our work in a way which will be backed by the public when it knows the truth."

He also made reference to "slandrous attacks" instead of fair criticism, but carefully refrained from any reference whatever to his plans concerning the next campaign, whether he will or will not be a candidate. The Governor is waiting for the word, but the party leaders refuse to say it.

One must at least admire the courage of C. C. Crabbe of London, Ohio, the author of the Crabbe act. Stricken off the visiting list of every man and woman in Ohio who feels that the aforesaid Crabbe and the law which bears his name have interfered with their personal desires in a reprehensible manner still he has the courage to announce his candidacy for the Republican nomination of Attorney General.

The London man probably has not as much to fear from opponents of the restrictive liquor law he penned as from those who are treasuring up and remembering in a lasting manner the sins of commission and omission of the party in Ohio to which he has given loyalty. Hitching his star to the G. O. P. wagon this year is considered risky business, politically, but friend Crabbe appears to fear it not.

In any event, Charley will likely have a strenuous time, when the natural enemies of his party get busy, to say nothing about the activities of those of his own political hue who cannot see his dry viewpoint. Mayhap, tho, Crabbe feels that he'll be lammed and that he may as well be killed for a sheep as a goat.

If a majority of the people of Ohio declare for Crabbe for attorney general, he'll have reason to feel that his policy is approved. Maybe that's what he wants to know.

The process of making a candidate for congress was perfected over at Kenton, in Hardin-co, in a hurried but altogether unexpected manner by the G. O. P. recently.

W. W. Durbin, Democratic chairman, renominated Harry L. Davis for governor on the Republican ticket, or rather protested when it appeared Harry's party was about to sidetrack him. That's because fuzzy old Bill wanted his party to be the beneficiary when the people of Ohio had an opportunity to register their estimate of the administration.

When Hubert W. Work, acting postmaster general, ordered that Carl W. Smith, Democratic postmaster in Kenton be removed "for the good of the service," he started a veritable volcano. Naming of Harry Harvey as his successor only added fuel to the flame.

In the first place, any citizen of Kenton will tell you that Carl Smith has been a very efficient postmaster and that Harvey was removed as assistant postmaster, "for cause." As might be expected, Smith hasn't been a bit backward in presenting his side of the Kenton case and it must be admitted that it doesn't look altogether radiant for the G. O. P.

After the announcement of his dismissal, Smith became a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress quicker'n you could say cat. He'll go to the mat with Congressman Cole. Watch Smith!

Leave it to G. O. P. manipulators to stir up something among the enemy as a disconcerting proposition, when they plan to do a little plim picking via the ballot route.

The latest evidence of this accomplished on the part of the "friendly enemy" is the announcement from a Republican source that those who are opposed to the further activities of William Wallace Durbin as Democratic state chairman are backing the candidacy of Sage Valentine for Governor.

They go further, announcing that Durbin has alienated the friends of Valentine in expressing his approval of the candidacy of A. V. Donahey, G. O. P. leaders realize that the only hope of winning this year lies in the director of starting a fight among the other fellows. So why not get the Durbin and anti-Durbin forces fighting, say they.

It's a fine little scheme. But facts are backing and Democrats can see thru it like a sieve. Bill Durbin may have faults; if he didn't have he would not be human, but when it comes to serious opposition to his leadership within his own party, the wish is father of the thought with the G. O. P. plan, very likely. From a Republican source comes

THIN, FLAT HAIR GROWS LONG, THICK AND ABUNDANT

"Dandruff" costs only 35 cents a bottle. One application ends all dandruff, stops itching and falling hair, and in a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair. It will appear a mass, so soft, lustrous, and easy to do up. But what will please you most will be after a few weeks use, when you see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. Dandruff is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. This delightful, stimulating tonic helps thin, lifeless faded hair to grow long, thick, heavy and luxuriant.

the statement that "Donahey has fallen under the spell of the Cox-Durbin political outfit and the fact that Washington-co Democrats gave an endorsement to George White is likewise disquieting to the Donahey camp."

Democrats generally take with a grain of salt statements in G. O. P. organs that tell of alleged troubles in the Democratic camp.

There's more scandal in Columbus. At least, it is so charged. State Senator W. M. Miller of Dresden, chairman of the Senate finance committee and Representative Harry Carpenter of Steubenville, chairman of the House finance committee are accredited with having drawn $10 a day for attending sessions of the state emergency and control board.

Randolph Walton and W. S. Pealer, Columbus attorneys, in charges filed with Attorney General Price, cite records of the State Auditor, showing that Miller had drawn $1,901 and Carpenter $1,681 as salary and expenses since the Legislature adjourned. Of this total Miller has drawn $950 and Carpenter $750 for attending sessions of the boards, it is asserted.

Demand is made by the Columbus attorneys that the Attorney General begin proceedings to recover the amount.

DAVIS REGIME IS LAMBASTED

Kicked and Cuffed by Donahey in His Announcement

RIFT IN RANKS OF BIGWIGS

Factionalism in Virulent Form Is G. O. P. Menace

THE LIMA NEWS BUREAU

Columbus, March 3

COLUMBUS—(Special)—“Governor,” says Thomas Babbington, “is not a subject of his fine style of what subject is not important.” “Texts for the purpose of keeping peace, for the purpose of coming to us to settle our disputes by arbitration instead of settling them by force, for the purpose of compelling us to supply our wants by industry instead of supplying them by rapine. This is the only operation which wise men have ever proposed to themselves as their chief object.”

Such a larger vision is the vision of Abraham Lincoln when he said of a certain canvass that it was “people’s contest” and a “struggle for maintenance in the world that the leading object is to elevate the condition of men—to lift artificial weights from the shoulders, to clear the paths of laudable pursuits for all, to avoid all an unfettered start and a fair chance in the race of life.”

Since this is the season of “statements” and of “announcements,” why does not some candidate combine the two quoted utterances, which are by no means irreconcilable in principle, and announce that he will, if elected, moderate his ambition in sacrificing his comfort, his ease, his life itself upon the altar of public service? What measures but fatalities, may fatalities, unless directed by these major ends. It would seem to a man up to date as if the ends were simple in themselves, when the course had been marked out by the experiences of decades after decade of government in Ohio and in the nation. And how do the statements square with the major premises thus enunciated by these two great writers on government, passing on to others who have in various forms given us much the same substance?

That, indeed, as Mr. Hamlet observed is the question. Study of the present announcement can be made, now that A. Victor Donahey, of New Philadelphia, has issued forth and told the world where he stands. That he seems to have encompassed some of the major points seems to be conceded when he speaks of “lower taxes, economy, constitutional government and common sense.” For what could be better than any one of the quartet, any two, any three or all of them taken together? It will argue that something is “long in the present regime that any one of all of them should be mentioned as being good enough to stand upon. In specifications, Mr. Donahey probably as definite and particular as one might be in the course of a short statement. If he had had more space he might have defined himself more closely in his bill of particulars. He did only have more definitely challenged Governor Harry L. Davis, who is called upon to meet the allegations and to hurl back the imputations cast upon him. The Governor preceded his statement by a wailing complaint that he had been misrepresented and that the people in their wisdom will deal severely with those responsible for the base deception. So be it!

Again, if there be any virtue in the Donahey pronouncement which may be taken as more or less of a party expression rather than of a personal one (since the candidate’s position is so clearly challenged even if someone should contest the Democratic nomination with him) it will turn upon the contrast with Mr. Davis. It assumes that in standing for the four cardinal principles of “lower taxes, economy, constitutional government and common honesty” he is offering a contrast to the existing regime and if that there is not much sense in his own candidate. The same argument may be made by the candidate’s friends. It is a task to see whether the words correspond more or less to reality with the general index and with the Luchinsque principles of the “I” of our sages on government.

Taking them in the order named, there is “lower taxes” and under this comes the cramming thru of new state tax levies, setting the example to the people of increased levies all along the line, until 1923 taxes were back in rate levels to 1908, while property is assessed at 100 per cent instead of the old-fashioned 40 per cent. Really taxes are three or four times as high as they were then, and a natural increase in real estate taxes. Economy is dealt with in showing as to appropriations, one then extra snappers, old Ohio for 1915, for jobs and traveling expenses, and an extra $650,000 for the “agency” purposes, covering everything that a little knot of five men decided for their friends. In construction of government, he has the specifications as to the left column and its position in the enactment of the right column. And on common honesty, the nature of numerous officials after measure of crookedness in the State Treasurers Department. One would come from this enumeration that the specifications had been fairly well elaborated.

Now if we apply the Luchinsque and there can be an argument as to whether these things would “elevate the condition of men” and few there is he who will deny such to be the case. The fact that all that the Donahey Roosevelt was wont to call “service” or “loyalty” to the principles would support the claim. When we take the phrase which refers to the “lifting of artificial weights from the shoulders,” the phrase will utter one grand chorus of approval, but if we take the remaining phrases perhaps the connection may not be so clear. Still, good government will give all a fair chance and clear the path for a good race, perhaps more largely in a moral sense than in a material one. It is at least far better as a statement of principles and motives than a whine of complaint because one is misjudged. The claims are susceptible of proof. We have had the general indictment and bill of particulars and denials. Denial proof will be better than applications for a change of venue or affidavits of prejudice. Let’s hear the answer.

In passing up William E. Halley, Ohio Senate clerk, as secretary of the Republican National committee, and giving the job to one Lockwood, editor of the National Republican, one may get a glimpse of ever so slight a rift in the ranks of the bigwigs. It appears that President Harding and Attorney General Daugherty agreed to this selection, but there is wonder whether anyone had to step on their toes to help them formulate their judgments. It seems that there is a group behind the scenes determined not to let the President get too much of a grip on the party machinery. They remember the case of William Howard Taft in 1912. Any successor of that might have been nominated was, of course, due for a sound beating, but it might have been less disastrous had there been another and the Roosevelt rebellion against Old Guard rottenness prevented from being so much of a debacle. Are the men who remember this lesson applying it now? In their minds, they will let Harding have a chance to vindicate himself at the coming congressional election, but if he fails, they may relegate him to retirement like they did nearly two generations ago with Rutherford B. Hayes. The Halley incident is one of several pointing that way.

Outcroppings of factionalism of a most virulent kind are not confined to nation nor yet to state; they are present in the districts and counties. It seems as if the big wind of 1920 operated something like the east wind did on Ephraim. It got them all fed up. Take Greene-co for instance, whose treasurer tossed some twenty-five hundred good round iron men back into the strong box when an examiner got after him. There is war mixed there between the factions. They could not agree on a candidate for State Senator, also it was the “turn” of Greene-co to contribute a Republican to the old Fifth-Sixth District. Not even peaceful old “Mike” Broadstone, of Xenia, who is a regular angel of good cheer, would have done. So Highland-co gets Ross and Clinton to join it in abrogating the old rotation one-term proposition. Under this arrangement General George O. Pence will come back to the Ohio Senate, if the landslide isn’t too doggone big. It may take Highland-co over into the Democratic column, conceivably it could carry Ross, but it is unlikely to take Fayette, Clinton and Greene. The General will fit into the scheme of things as a candidate, for he voted right with Governor Davis all the time, and no emergency clause was too rare for him.

Fondness of politicians for Scriptural texts has long been observed and when they preach sermons on them quoting the Word as it is in the book to find fault. But one may have a doubt about deviations from the text and the religious classics “modernized.” Just now there is floating around one from the Twenty-third Psalm. It reads something like this: “Harding is my shepherd, and I am in want. He maketh me to lie down on the park benches, He leadeth me beside the free soup houses, He restoreth my doubt in the Republican Party, He leadeth me in the paths of destruction for his party’s sake, Yea, tho I walk thru the valley of the shadow of starvation I do fear evil for thou art against me. Thou preparest a reduction in wages before me in the presence of mine enemies. Thou anointest my income with taxes, my expenses runneth over my income. Surely poverty and unemployment will follow me all the days of this normalcy administration. And I will dwell in a rented house forever.”

Really, is not this rubbing it in a bit strong? There are so many other things to illustrate our troubles, bad as they are, that it is doubtful to this Zachaeus, up a tree, so to speak, whether the Scriptures should be paraphrased. Still there is no law against it; just a matter of taste.

Statesmen, tho, must expect to be misunderstood. It’s their fate, perhaps undisturbed, but nevertheless, their fate. Now, let us take Hon. W. W. Durbin, of Kenton, chairman of the Democratic committee by incurable habit, and occasional wit by choice. He “renominated” Governor Davis, finding him exactly to his liking as an opponent and recollecting that there will be no 400,000 national majority this fall to be overcome. And he is misunderstood, altho the state laughed at the stunt. Not so long ago his son, Francis, the lawyer, is accosted by those who would have a certain prisoner released from the Ohio Penitentiary, a difficult feat seeing that he was not a Greek, self-confessed of mistreating a girl. “But,” says the scion of the Durbin family, “I don’t take such cases as a matter of business and anyway, you know I would have no chance to do anything for you, seeing that I am not of the Governor’s followers.” Forthwith came the statement that his father had generously given Davis a second nomination and the friends of the prisoner-felt that the Governor might reciprocate to some extent. Yea, the way of the statesman, like that of the transgressor, is hard.

Additional light on the dark places continues to fall in effulgent rays as the inquiries into matters mysterious are pushed in state affairs. Take the case of that holiest of men, Hon. William M. Miller, of Muskingum, whose saintly fingers have nabbed, snatched, grabbed, hooked and clutched some two thousand iron men, which is Chinese for dollars, for his “work” on the emergency and controlling boards. It was the Honorable William who helped get thru the King bill for this payment and who laid his hand on his heart as he protested he’d have none of the lure himself. Now, it develops this bill had a history. It was drawn up two years before by big good-natured “Rasty” Lloyd, when he was Senator from Franklin. But “Rasty” had an eye for the welfare of the taxpayers as well as for the welfare of the finance chairman who were compelled to sacrifice their time and money to attend the meetings and he limited the sessions to two a month, which would enable each chairman to draw only $20 each lunar period. When the bill came into the Davis legislature it was shorn of that little provision and “Rasty” has been retired by voters and was not there to watch. Maybe that suggests why it was not pushed the first time.

As the months fade into eternity, so does the regular monthly statement of disbursements as furnished by Hon. Rudolph W. Archer, Treasurer of the State of Ohio, continue to show that the Davis administration in 1922 is beating its record in 1921. It is ever spending more money, more and yet more. The net disbursements for February, for example, were some three-quarters of a million dollars above February, 1921. The comparative net figures, automobile disbursements and schools being eliminated, are $1,585,189.16 and $2,650,449.88. The why of this is not readily apparent. There is no great state building program in progress, nor are roads being built at this season of the year, no outstanding purchases have been made and it is difficult to conceive where the sums go. It is hard to believe that the petty nips on the treasury could swell such a total, but maybe they do. Further along the bills for coal tar and other highway delicacies will come along if the state buys coal tar in the volume it did a year ago when the bids for tar were just about twice as great as for asphalt and when tar was bought nevertheless and notwithstanding. The highway department has “under consideration” a new purchase of tar and asphalt and the old discrepancy of prices has appeared. Who’ll get the business? Make one guess and if you are wrong this liberal spender will buy a hand painted shaving bowl!

In more ways than one the case of Charles W. Morse, the ship builder, is interesting to Ohio and Ohio folks. Morse, of course, isn’t an Ohioan, so far as anybody now knows, altho he may be. But he had an Ohio lawyer Hon. H. M. Daugherty, that time he nearly died in the Atlanta prison and was pardoned by an Ohio President, Hon. William Howard Taft. Now that he is again indicted thru the instrumentality of an Ohio Attorney General it develops that if the law or theory of the law in his case is good, many more fish can be caught in the same doggone net. In other words, if the United States government is cheated, there is a federal conspiracy. And how the Department of Justice can revel in those Ohio roads! When they sink a boring machine into them these days the only question one need to ask five times out of six is how much the road is short of specifications. It will be short, all right, all right, that is about five times in six or four in five or three in four or six in seven, no one can say accurately, because they have adopted the grand silence policy in the department and no one is permitted to find the truth in scores of jobs federal money has been used which makes the offense a federal one. Some district attorney may pluck fame by going after the cases, seeing that the state’s legal department appears to be utterly paralyzed and helpless in the situation. Cheaters have found Ohio easy in recent months, but one wonders whether the federal government will be just as soft. If Morse may be brought back from France for a trifling ship irregularity, the question arises whether a highway contractor may be nipped for a greater crime proportionately. And what of those who acquiesced in the offense? MARCUS.

NATIONAL PRESS CLUB CUTS BIRTHDAY CAKE FOR HARDING

PRESIDENT HONOR GUEST AT PARTY

First Anniversary of Inauguration is Celebrated.

HAZED BY NEWSPAPER MEN

Rounds Out Year in Splendid Physical Trim.

WASHINGTON—President Harding closed the first anniversary of his inauguration Saturday night by attending a big birthday party at the National Press Club.

Harding mingled informally with the Washington correspondents, exchanged shop talk and related humorous incidents of his first year in the White House.

A huge birthday cake, three feet high, topped with one blazing candle, was cut. The ceremony offered opportunity for friendly hazing by the newspapermen, which was followed by a tribute to the president from officers of the club.

Harding spent one of the quietest days of his administration Saturday, seeing practically no visitors and working hard at a pile of mail on his desk.

IN EXCELLENT HEALTH
President Harding rounds out his first year in excellent physical trim, according to Brigadier General C. E. Sawyer, his personal physician, altho the lack of exercise during recent weeks, is beginning to show its effect.

The president has not taken one day off because of illness, altho he has had one or two slight colds. These were never serious enough to prevent his working at the office.

Harding has missed his golf this winter, however, as he is never up to par unless he gets in two or three rounds on the links a week. Snow and rain have made the Washington courses unplayable and the executive has been compelled to resort to walks around town and in the evening and an occasional horseback ride for exercise.

SAWYER'S REPORT
Here is how General Sawyer diagnosed the condition of his patient:

"The president has gone thru a trying, strenuous year of many great responsibilities and much anxiety in a splendid way.

"Physically he is apparently as well today as when he started a year ago.

"Regardless of all privations of close confinement and lack of usual outdoor exercises, in which he has always engaged, he reports as near normal today as any man could possibly do. In other words, I dare say that President Harding is in prime physical condition, equal to what he was a year ago.

"No man could have improved much under the load that he has carried. He has done well to hold his place.

"No man can come into his office with his long hours and responsibilities and change of normal habits, including official duties and official and exacting social obligations, and have stood it any better than has Warren G. Harding.

MUST CONSERVE
"But," his physician went on, "a bank which permits its resources to continually dwindle away soon faces failure. This also is true of human beings, and the president is no exception."

President Harding gets great fun out of his golf, aside from the physical benefits, and Dr. Sawyer thinks he should have gone south during the winter for a week or so of golf. Washington weather made golf impossible.

"He should do it now," he declared.

"Fact is he forgets himself entirely and devotes himself to the duties of his office. He is unfair to himself."

General Sawyer has determined that from now on his patient must do more "to maintain himself to a high degree of physical fitness."

He has advised the president that physically "he must be an example to the rest of the nation."

The president averages 20 conferences a day with persons of worth while. Some of these conferences last from one to two hours, altho the average is about 15 minutes.

Between conferences he must study reports and recommendations, read and answer letters, and often write speeches.

There is hardly a night but that Mr. Harding does not carry with him from the executive offices to his private study in the White House important papers and reports which he must read.

The night before he submitted the arms conference treaties to the Senate, Mr. Harding remained awake until 3 o'clock writing his message.

Even aboard the presidential yacht Mayflower on trips down the Potomac, he took papers to study and recommendations to read.

During the year he went to New York twice, to New England once, to Birmingham and Atlanta once, and once to Yorktown, Va., and Valley Forge, Pa. But everywhere he went there were speeches to deliver, reception committees to meet.

Following his Plymouth speech at Boston he went up to Secretary Weeks' summer home in New Hampshire for what he thought would be a few days' rest. It turned out to be a festive occasion for the New Englanders with the president making five speeches in one day and traveling 150 miles in an automobile from town to town to make them.

TO REST IN ALASKA
These are some of the reasons why General Sawyer is looking forward to the proposed Alaskan trip this summer.

It will give his patient the opportunity to forget politics, to get out into the open and to rest.

Before he goes to Alaska Sawyer will insist that Harding play more golf, walk more, ride more and take time to go to baseball games.

General Sawyer has one other patient—Mrs. Harding. The official social duties of the mistress of the White House are exacting, but the general reports Mrs. Harding has stood the strain well.

"She looks younger and she feels better than at any time in recent years," he said.

ACTIVITIES OF Y. W. C. A.

Mrs. Harry Taylor, chairman of the industrial committee of the Y. W. C. A., and Miss Grace Reynolds, industrial secretary of the Y. W. C. A., left Saturday morning for a two days' conference in Columbus. At this conference the industrial departments of all the cities in southern Ohio and West Virginia will be represented.

Miss Mary Garford, physical director leaves Sunday for a week's vacation at her home in Elvira. Her classes will be in charge of Mrs. E. G. Weadock, chairman of the Health Education department. Mrs. Weadock was formerly a physical director.

Mrs. A. N. Wisely, a member of the local Y. W. C. A. board is representing the board at the Mid-Winter conference in Piqua. Mrs. Wisely was one of the speakers at the Saturday morning's session.

"She Has Style"

If that is said of you, you may cheerfully forego any other praise.

It is so easy to be pretty. Almost anyone with a little cleverness can be called good-looking. But style makes one woman stand out above all others in a large gathering—it makes her distinctive.

The secret of style is correct corseting—the poise and carriage that you get from Binner Corsets. These exquisite corsets may be had in a variety of beautiful fabrics. The new models show the popular low bust with long straight hips.

Our corsetiere will be glad to show you the wonderful new Binner models we are now showing. You will find greater satisfaction than you have ever known before.

HOUSE RENTS ARE TAKING TUMBLE

Big Cuts Have Been Made, According to Realty Board Head.

Rents in Lima have tumbled considerably from the figure of a year ago, in the opinion of J. L. Motter, president of the Real Estate Board. According to Motter, rents in other cities of the same population as Lima are 20 per cent higher and in many cases, the homes for rent at this figure are not nearly so modern as the ones in this city at a lower figure.

"Six and seven room houses are renting at from $16 to $25 a month," Motter said. "Many of the property owners are making only five per cent on their investment and I do not believe that anyone is making over eight per cent."

Apartment house owners, Motter says, have also greatly reduced rentals. One apartment he said that started out charging $120 a month for an apartment not so long ago has reduced this figure to $75 and $85. He says at the present rental the owner has a losing investment.

This reduction in rentals is not due to a surplus of homes in the city, however, Motter stated. There are not many empty structures available. Neither is there a dire shortage, altho new homes are needed for the future.

There is very little chance for rentals to take a further tumble, Motter believes and his opinion is voiced by other real estate men. The bottom has been reached and lower rents cannot be given if property owners are to make even a small earning on their investment.

Spring Fashions

Emphasize Fringes

The edict comes—"to be stylish is to wear fringes"—dainty narrow fringes for edging and luxurious long fringes for cape collars or the ends of panels, as well as being popularly used on the bottom of sweaters.

Silk Fringe

Black fringes may be had in widths ranging from 1 1/2 to 18 inches in many stylish effects—single or knotted. They are popularly used for dress trimming and in the wider widths for the bottom and collar of capes. Colored silk fringe is shown in large assortment—single or knotted styles that are used for lamp shades as well as dress trimming.

Uncut Fringe

Uncut fringes are to be had in the narrow widths in black and many colors—silk or ribbon. They are modishly used as edging or might be fashioned into pretty rosettes.

Chenille Fringe

Chenille fringe in about a 4 1/2 inch width gives a beautiful effect to dress or cape and makes a gorgeous trimming for lamp shades. It is here in black and a good selection of colors.

SUNSHINE BRINGS ACTIVITIES

Two Hundred New Homes Await Easing of Money Market.

FIFTY UNDER CONSTRUCTION

Deals Increasing In Number and Importance Daily.

Optimism over the future in Lima building and real estate activities is the basic keynote which city realtors are using as a foundation for spring business and the general building outlook. While generally over the country there is a spirit of pessimism prevailing, Lima real estate men are cherishing hopes that are not entirely groundless or unfounded.

I am confident 200 homes would be built in Lima right now, new ones, if money conditions were right, J. I. Motter, president of Lima Real Estate board, declared in discussing the situation. "Nearly 50 homes are being constructed right now, a figure above the average for this time of year, altho times are undoubtedly hard."

Frank Bentz, Roy Pletcher and W. R. Mumaugh are the builders of the 50 homes Motter mentions.

Motter further declared that several new apartment houses and business blocks are being planned right now. Homes that are being built are not small ones, but are very good structures.

J. W. Green, who is with Motter in the real estate business, believes that when Lima plants start working their full forces, there will exist a house shortage in the city. Right now he declares, with a number out of work, there are homes enough, but it will be different, he believes, when times begin to get better and business starts on the increase.

A number of good homes are for rent now, Green added, which will not be before long. The poor man must do a little with the resumption of the industrial world at present; the future is going to be entirely different, however, he says.

J. E. DeVoe, another realtor, says a large home is being erected at Woodlawn-av while another beautiful residence is going up on Lake-wood-av. When the sun shines, DeVoe opines, real estate business picks up.

"On a recent sunny day I completed 25 deals," he said. "It is that way when the weather begins to feel like spring."

TWO LEASES CLOSED
Two leases have been closed by Fred B. Williams & Company. The leases were made for the Art Craft Sign company, on S. Union-st., and for Ross Hands, 115 S. Elizabeth-st.

Williams is enthusiastic over the outlook for the future. February was the strongest month we have had during the past 14 months, he said. "We sold during the month 14 different pieces of property."

Building will continue to go on, he believes. Around fifteen homes are being built in the southwest part of Lima now, he declared, and they are good structures, nothing cheap. "I really think the slump has been to the bottom," is the opinion expressed by R. O. Woods, who has been in the real estate business for number of years.

R. D. Spruiell says the future of building and the outlook generally hinges on farming and whether or not the farmer will be helped. He believes that normally is not a thing of the exact present, but that there is a gradual trend for better times. His belief is that when the shops open building will increase.

Men who have a few hundred dollars now are not going to put it in a home with times like they are," he stated. "They are hanging on to it."

A few outstanding facts came to the front during a discussion with city real estate men, facts which are worthy of consideration. They are:

OUTLOOK IS BETTER
Prices of building are a little on the decline. Have tended toward a decline for some time and hence assure better times and more home building.

Homes that are being built are substantial structures that will beautify the city.

With a return to normal in the industrial world, Lima is going to need more homes. The present supply is inadequate. This is not the seller of all city realtors, but it is the firm conviction of many. Last, and most important, times are getting better, not worse. The "tough time" has been weathered. Weather is going to play an important role in the building play, it is almost unanimously believed. Several of the realtors said they noted on sunny days that people consulted more about homes. With an early spring, building should take on impetus sooner and probably stronger than if winter hangs on. To give a careful diagnosis of what is going to happen in building circles in the next year is a hard proposition, most realtors agree.

Frankly, however, they are strong for Lima and predict that much more will be accomplished in this city within the next twelve months than in any other city of like population in the country.

BUSINESS CONDITIONS

THE past week has brought still more optimism in business circles the country over. Stocks and bonds have enjoyed the strongest markets, despite flurries, of any week in two years. Reports for 1921 have been generally made, and some have been exceedingly flattering, including our own Lima Locomotive Works. Money in the east is noticeably cheaper, four per cent having ruled in private loaning almost through the week.

Trade reports are distinctly better; logs are at a new high; grains well above the point assuring good profit to the farmer. Agriculturists will be back in the retail market this spring, and it is well known they have been absent for almost two years since the collapse in May, 1920.

Locally, the undercurrent of optimism is strong; and developments seemable, apparent. Railway shops have replaced men; new orders have come to some of our larger industrialists, including the motor truck factories; small concerns are receiving spot requisitions; the steel plant continues to operate and more trainmen are being employed. The B. & O. will announce the coming week its new Detroit-Louisville passenger service; trains running thru Cincinnati and engineers operating out of Lima to the Kentucky terminal. These trains will all arrive and depart from the Grand Central station. It means concentration of passenger trainmen and motive men in Lima.

Financially, there has been little change in local conditions. A very high bid was made for school monies: building and loans are making few, if any commitments. This, unfortunately, may retard building operations here this summer. In commercial lines, borrowers are being taken care of so far as needs are concerned, but there are no idle funds even in commercial banks, most of them being borrowers from Federal Reserve or private correspondents. A plan to refinance a local industry is in the making and may mean rejuvenation, taking it out of receivership and giving more employment, as new orders there are strong.

We are in the beginning of a long, steady swing upward, and Lima is for the first time in many months gaining in population. City carrier distribution of The News plainly proves this, with a steady net gain in home delivery. And some of them new people just arriving as residents here.

26 PIECES OF MAGIC

LOTS occur in Sofia, because the Bulgarians resent having a letter eliminated from their alphabet by their government.

They have 32 alphabetical characters—could lose six and still have as many as we.

But the Bulgarians are tinkering with fundamentals.

Take away from Americans the 26 letters of the alphabet and our reversion to an animal state would be a matter of only a short time.

Those 26 characters, "a" to "z," are wonderful pieces of magic, our greatest invention. Our whole civilization is held together by these 26 coupling pins.

Without the alphabet, there could be no making of records and very little communication and transfer of thought.

Civilization began when man invented an alphabet of sounds, the basis of speech.

Each alphabetical character has a peculiar significance. The letter or sound "s," for instance, is expressive of the hidden, obscure and mysterious. You see this when you analyze words in which it occurs—stealthily, silent, suspicious, sneaking, sporadic, stupendous.

The letter "r" is dramatic. Observe its use in this line by Edgar Allan Poe: "And the silken, sad uncertain rustling of each purple curtain thrilled me..."

Each sound, now represented by characters of the alphabet, originated in man's spontaneous outcry to express his emotion or thought.

It took many thousands of years to produce the alphabet. It is a gift from the dead. To grasp its importance, try to talk or write intelligently with any one of the 26 letters eliminated. Leave out the letter "e," which occurs most often, and the whole system of communication is close to paralysis.

TRANSPORTING EXPLOSIVES

LIMA narrowly escaped a blast Friday which certainly would have killed many and wrecked thousands of dollars worth of property. An automobile and a truck loaded with nitro-glycerine, enough to wreck half a dozen city blocks, collided in a residence section. Fortunately the impact was not sufficient to set off the explosive.

This city, we are informed, does not have an ordinance against transportation of explosives thru the streets. Such an ordinance should be enacted without delay. Nothing could endanger life and property to a greater extent than the promiscuous hauling of this treacherous material about the city.

YOUR VIEWS

ATTENTION of the thousands of readers of The Lima News has been directed to the service this newspaper extends to its great family of patrons—that of printing their views on various subjects. This service opens to hundreds and thousands a way to get their ideas before the public, which otherwise would be impossible. It establishes a forum of inestimable value to the community.

There is no charge for this service, altho it means an outlay of a large sum yearly to this publication. The only stipulations are that letters be brief and signed to show good faith, altho the name of the writer will not be published if such a request is made.

Your letters are welcome and will receive attention in the order they are received.

WOMEN

MEN, all of whom are animated by vanity andegotism, constantly are discovering they have problems they imagine are of stupendous importance.

They notice, especially lately, that women do not pay much attention to what men consider solemn problems.

Hence, the men reason, women must be surface thinkers. The men discuss this among themselves, and nod gravely. "You tickle me, I tickle you."

Women, who reason only in the subconscious or instinct, realize that little is important except making a living for the family and perpetuating the human race by having children.

That is sound thinking—fundamental. Women concern themselves only with the really important. Hence they yawn when the men become excited about nothing.

A Page from the Diary of an Antiquated Reporter: Up fairly betimes and dressed about, awaiting George busied preparing the fish sent me by Ed Hiner, the

How pretty the shop windows are becoming, with the beauties for Mi Lady and springtime; and glancing therein find prices much lowered. Had my wife, poor wretch, her last year's bills paid, what a week she could make of a century certificate. But alas, it is only the undies she can afford to display this season. Saw a mighty Noble State street colony woman pointed out as having seven stars in her D. A. R. belt, all her descendants seeming having rebelled against King George. And her husband, I hear, also feeling like doing it.

To the office and in came D. Buchanan, the pamphleteer printer and blinder. And he wanting aid on a church program. We busy, but could not disappoint a house of worship. And mayhap I should attend, as the sermon is anent "how a camel can get thru the eye of a needle or making 50c buy what a dollar wouldn't." A preacher should know much about economics. Once I knew one who was an expert. On a windy day, his coat blew aside and there was only a dickey.

Waived to Dr. Roush, the Lima hospital cut-up. A grand old man he is. Did a beautiful job of carving

Sat awhile with Herb Snyder, the motive engineer and bowler; and he optimistic and enthusiastic especially about bowling. Waived gaily to Alan Brady, who always looks so well in his Tuxedo; and his dancing, flapper friends say, is not half-bad, y'know. At Patterson, the stone king and he didn't look up; never owed him a cent, but it isn't my fault. Albeit, I like to be noticed, not taken as part of the High street scenery.

Which makes me think of C. W. H. L. Dick, or some such initials, who made McKinley governor, then president, then himself senator; and Godyear made him a fortune. And think of what has happened to Godyear. Now the fun is over; for that makes me think of Fisk.

FROM OUR READERS

Editor, The Lima News:—
My attention has been called to the very crude and unfortunate references made in a recent edition of your paper to the Greeks in the United States.

If there was the least foundation in fact for suggesting that the Greek residents of the United States did not do their duty during the war, not only by the purchase of Liberty bonds, contributions to the Red Cross and other patriotic movements, this sort of thing could go unchallenged. But, as the army records show not only did the Greeks here do their duty in such ways, but they fought several thousands of them, for Old Glory and for American Institutions and five Hudson employees are former veterans of the World War, some of whom saw real service in the field and one in Archangel and now, too, there are many of them serving in the Greek army for the identical cause that called Uncle Sam's native sons to the Colors.

They are fighting for the civilization that is threatened by the Turk, and to do this they have left their homes and business as a matter of principle. Are you of the type of American who is not prepared to give the Greek in America credit for what he is doing? Do you realize that the Greeks of this country are a law abiding, splendid class of citizens, the equal in industry and intelligence of the native born, and do you not know that you can hurt their feelings just as much by such rot as that to which I am directing your attention as you could the boys of the American Legion by an attack on them?

If you knew to what extent American civilization and letters are indebted to Greece, you might possibly be more careful.

GUS NASTOS

Editor, The Lima News:—
I would like to say something thru your columns in regard to our Soldiers' State Bonus. Now some four or five months ago, you and I and the good citizens of Lima voted for the State bonus. The purpose of this bonus was to help those who were in need and out of employment, but it seems to me that if the boys depend on it, they will be in very bad circumstances when they get, according to the methods they are using in the paying of such. It is true the voters went to the polls and helped them get it, but still they haven't received it. I believe it is still our duty to see if there isn't a much quicker way.

JACKSONVILLE

In Jacksonville I found it chill,
The cold wind blew about each dwelling,
The stores were full of furs and wool
And overcoats were briskly selling.
Dull was the sky, "Oh where," said I "Is all this south they say is sunny?"
New York, I wis, is warm as this,
I might as well have saved my money."

There up spoke then a citizen
And he with rage was fairly wheezy;
"Sir," he declared, then choked and glared,
"Down heah we call this merely breezy."

This air has zest"—he swelled his chest,
"Besides, the weathab's bound to soften;
It's never chill in Jacksonville—
At least it isn't very often."

I'm willing to believe that's true,
For Jacksonville's a pleasant city,
Its streets are jammed with cars and crammed
With handsome men and women pretty;
A busy place that moves apace,
Whose climate, commonly, is dandy—
Or so they say, but on my stay
My winter overcoat came handy.

Open Child's Bowels with "California Fig Syrup."

Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." If the little tongue is coated, or if your child is listless, cross, feverish, full of cold, or has colic, give a teaspoonful to cleanse the liver and bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the constipation poison, sour bile and waste out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child a toiling year. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup. — Adv.

HEALTH TALKS

Common Sense Ways to Keep Well

EGGS—MEAT SUBSTITUTE

(By DR. R. H. BISHOP)
People who for reasons of health are required to eliminate meat from the diet fall back on eggs as the chief article of food.

Consequently, they require eggs cooked in various forms to rule out monotony in diet. Then arises the problem as to which form is the most digestible.

Tests have been made of the digestion of eggs cooked in the following ways: soft boiled, soft cooked, hard boiled, fried, fried on both sides, using excess fat; poached, scrambled, scrambled, using excess fat; shredded, pickled, deviled; plain omelet; Spanish omelet; bacon and eggs, and scrambled eggs with "fried beef."

The results of these tests show that a soft boiled or soft cooked egg is digested rather more rapidly and satisfactorily in the stomach than is an egg prepared in any other way. But the margin in favor of the soft boiled egg is nevertheless slight since the stomach gives a hearty welcome to all sorts and conditions of eggs, including even the much abused cold storage egg and the frozen egg.

Another interesting experiment has elicited the information that people who have an antipathy for eggs can digest them just as well as people who like them.

This would indicate that so-called "food idiosyncrasy" is not necessarily associated with the stomach. There is some evidence that the white of a raw egg is not used as completely in the body as the white of a cooked egg.

Showing Different Plans for Ideal Homes

By NEA Service
MINNEAPOLIS. — Are you going to build that home of yours in the spring?

The best brains of the architect's profession will be at your disposal for the first time this year—and at a price you can afford to pay.

You can build an artistic small home of three to six rooms more cheaply and with more refinement and good taste than ever before.

This has been made possible because more than 100 complete house plans and cost estimates were made for a "railroad brakeman and his wife" by some of the best architects in the United States.

And the Lima News will give you the ten best plans.

SOLVE SMALL HOUSE QUESTION
A group of Minneapolis architects recently drifted into a discussion of the small house problem. All agreed the waste of material and lack of good taste was deplorable.

The result was the formation of the Architects' Small House Service Bureau. Fourteen prominent architectural firms were taken into the corporation and the best experts in their employ went to work to cut down every possible expense for the builder and give character and individuality to the plans for the homes.

Each architect was instructed to confine himself to what was in the employ of a "Small House Service Bureau." Fourteen prominent architectural firms were taken into the corporation and the best experts in their employ went to work to cut down every possible expense for the builder and give character and individuality to the plans for the homes.

A quantity survey or buying list for each home was provided, giving the number of bricks necessary for the chimney, the facing on the front porch and fireplace, the amount of cement necessary for various pillars and steps—in fact, everything needed and no more.

CHECK UP PLANS
The plans and estimates were all checked and rechecked. It was agreed that they were correct. But they knew that other architects, contractors and homebuilders would probably question the figures. So houses were actually constructed according to the plans, to prove that the estimates were right.

The Architects' Small House Service Bureau is not organized for money making. The parent company consists of fourteen architectural firms. Each architect owns one share of stock on which he is permitted to receive a dividend of not to exceed $3 a year. All profits over and above that go to improvement of the service.

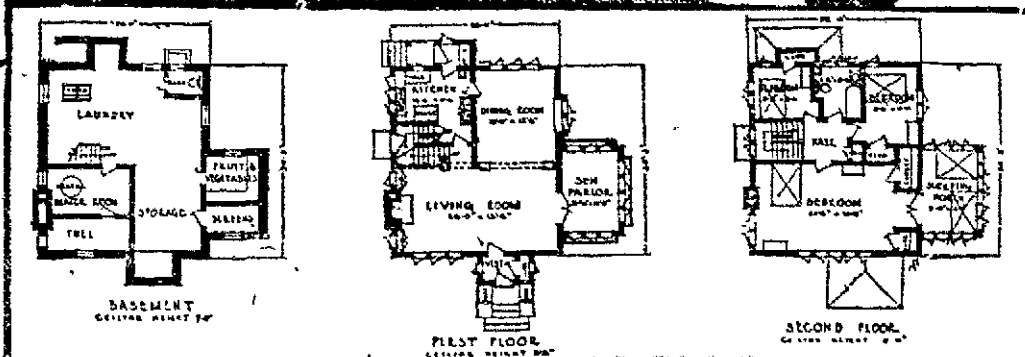

WHAT PLANS COST
The plans for the houses, including estimates, survey of materials, advice on decorations and furnishings, etc., vary in price according to the cost of the home and range from $17 to $2250.

The showing the types of houses built for the brakeman and his wife, sell for $2.50 and not only contain sufficient information to enable the intelligent homebuilder to make an intelligent selection of plans but much valuable information as to how he may finance his building project.

If there is any alteration desired to suit the client's individual need, the architect can easily take care of that and still not be put to the necessity of taking the unprofitable job of preparing an original design for a small home.

Since the formation of the bureau in Minneapolis more than 200 homes have been built there and the estimates found surprisingly accurate.

This is the first of 10 small house plans—the best of the 100 plans prepared by the Architects' Small House Service Bureau—which will be printed in the Lima News.

You can build this home for $7500. Below are shown the plans for basement, first and second floors.

the completed house.

The house contains six rooms,

bath, sun porch and sleeping porch.

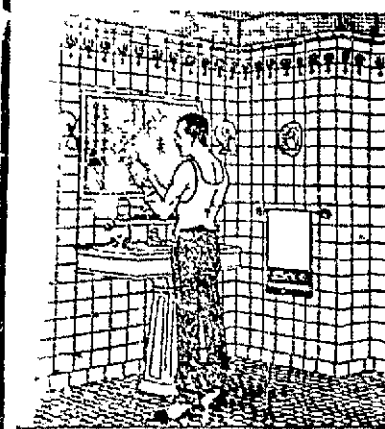

The exterior is of gray stucco. Dimensions are 26-11 by 30-3.

The house in the photograph is the parsonage of St. Andrew's Episcopal church, Minneapolis, one of the first houses built in accordance with the Architects' Small House Service Bureau plans.

Another set of home plans will appear in the Lima News next Sunday.

PLAN DRIVE FOR BALL PARK REMODELING FUND

TO GIVE AID

IN a special drive that will be conducted this week, Lima fans will be asked to subscribe for season tickets for the independent season to assist in remodeling the Murphy-stall ball park.

Over a hundred loyal, tried and true fans here will be approached on the proposition of purchasing a combination season ticket that will admit a lady and gentleman to each of the 29 games that will be played by the team this season, according to the plan outlined by Manager Bernie Hol-loran.

Each of the tickets will cost $15,
and fans will be saving $15 on each.
The cost of remodeling the grandstand and building an addition to it will be in the neighborhood of $11-$200, Holloran has estimated. There was approximately $1,000 surplus left in the club treasury at the end of last season and it will be turned over to the men in rebuilding the stands.

About 125 letters have been sent out to fans whose loyalty is well known, and it is expected to be immediate.

The improvement will be so decided that the seating capacity of the amphitheatre will be increased from 10,000 to 12,000. Anything less than that will not be satisfactory.

Each fan, however, will be asked to contribute the make-up of at least every year. Last season, when extraordinary rain turned hundreds away.

It will not only be a fine opportunity for the fans to save money on their tickets, but they will do much toward promoting the club.

MANAGER HOLLORAN "SHIlling" a letter to fans from Frank Gil-hooley, Captain of the team.

Jack Shaffer, Wise and Bill Main, players whom he has offered berth-with the independent for 1922.

Each of them were given an iron-clad proposition, and there is every reason to believe they will accede to the wishes of the local management.

Favorable comment is heard on every side from the fans with respect to Gilhooley. They would like to see the league stay here and pitch the club on the field.

Gilhooley has not left Toledo to join the Yankees, as was persistently rumored for the last several days.
He is still at home considering the offer made him by Holloran.

No other players are being considered, Holloran says. If he succeeds in securing the five he already approached he will have the nucleus of an aggregation that will, with a few additions, be an unbeatable combination.

REMEMBER, fans, when Billy Southworth, captain of the Boston Braves, held down first sack for the independent last season?

All probably so, but few have known up until this time that Billy when he left here that he would bring his Braves to Lima for an exhibition game this season.

Holloran has been considering the proposition more seriously than he did at first, and what could better than to have the Bostonians brought here early in the season, or better yet, the opening game?

But Southworth wasn't the only big leaguer who made such a proposition. Harry Clark, who had held in 1921, offered to do the same. Harry will pilot the Milwaukee club of the American association this season and declared any time he could arrange it his diamond performers would show up here.

So, for a start, the fan has two big league exhibitions to bank on. It will in all probability be an impossibility to watch them up, but the independents may play them on different dates.

BEAT ST. JOHNS

The Big Five of St. Rose parochial school trounced the Lightning quintet of St. Johns school Saturday afternoon 18 to 2. "Daddy" McGriebe has the honors of the fracas, engine four baskets, while Ed McNamara made two.

P. Forche was the only St. Johns player to pierce the St. Rose defense, scoring one basket from the forward position. The game was played in St. Rose auditorium.

UPSET THEM

St. Johns High school of Delphos tasted the dregs of defeat for the first time this season Saturday night when the speedy Central High parochial school quintet of Ft. Wayne jolted them on their own floor, 31 to 17.

The hometown basketballers played more than a score of games this season without a single defeat. Their opponents lost but one encounter in 20 starts. The Hoosiers trounced St.
Rose High school here Friday night,
28 to 17.

WRESTLERS MEET

CHICAGO — Johnny Meyers, of Chicago, champion of the middleweight wrestling crown, and Helmut Engel, of Dubuque, Iowa, will meet here tonight in a twelve-round res-tling match. The rounds will be ten minutes each with two minute rest periods. The men will not make weight, one fall will decide.

second place Kiwanis six will stage a determined fight in the dinner club volleyball league Tuesday night.

The Rotarians are undefeated and the Kiwanis lost but one of six games. An interesting match be-

"GOLFING PROFESSOR" TAKES A RAP AT SO-CALLED LINK EXPERTS

BY BILLY EVANS
H ELLERBERG, a pro who doesn't believe in books or golf books, at last.

I have referred to Victor E. Hel-leberg of the University of Kansas, known through the west as the "golfing professor."

The professor swings a mean stroke on the course of the Lawrence Country club at Lawrence, Kan.

While not ready to take on Chick Evans, Jim Purpus or Walter Hagen, he is far from being in the "dub" class as a golfer.

Professor Helleberg insists that the golf experts who have been laboring for years with pen and type writer to make clear to the would-be golfers as to how the game should be played, are all wrong.

Professor Helleberg teaches psychology at the University of Kansas.
He declares all golf authors are ignorant of the psychology of the game, to judge from their writings.

"Practice is the only sure way to learn to play golf properly," says Professor Helleberg.

"A golfer learns his strokes by trial and error. He is guided by the pleasurable feeling that accompanies a successful effort."

"One is utterly unaware of the details of co-ordination, and if any attention is paid to some particular detail of the stroke as outlined in the golf books the usual result is failure until that detail is automatically assimilated by innumerable trials."

In explaining the difficulty in following the instructions as they appear in the many books that have been written on golf the professor quotes from one of them as follows:
"Now as to the simultaneous, yet rhythmic, movement which completes the shot."

"At the moment of impact (right at the instant) not the slightest traction of a second earlier or later) the player should straighten the elbows, stiffen the wrist, and let the body go forward a few inches with the club."

"The quick action of the elbow and waist will push the face of the club under the ball as both go forward and the body moving slightly in the same direction will assist in the process."

"This description may make the shot appear like a piece of jugglery, but it is a faithful explanation of the shot as I plan it myself, and as I have seen others plan it."

The impossibility of doing what the author has directed in this bit of writing is explained by Professor Helleberg by a mathematical calculation.

"A moving picture of a golf player has been taken," he says, "showing the club head and the ball as nearly as possible at the moment of contact."

"The speed is so great that the picture is nearly blurred, but it is evident that the club could not have been in contact with the ball more than while travelling the width of the head—not more than one-ten thousandth or one-fifteenth of a second, according to Professor Tait's calculation."

"This shows the utter impossibility of doing what the author first quoted requests the beginner to do."

The professor does not deny that some valuable suggestions might be made in books, but he does deny that any golfer can know his shots thru introspection.

Only thru pictures taken by a speedy camera such as used for motion pictures can the actual analysis of a stroke be made, he believes.

LIMA WILL BE BASKETBALL
MECCA FOR FIVE COUNTIES

ALLEN and four adjoining counties will participate in a basketball tournament at the Lima Y. M. C. A. gym March 31 and April 1, I. G. Maxwell, physical director, announced Saturday.

Twenty-five teams are expected to participate. Van Wert, Vaughnsville and St. Marys already have signified their intention of entering. A number of the local teams, including the

Lima Locos, Leads, Grace M. E., Lima Trust company and others will compete. The industrial and church teams will also be largely represented.

There were 16 entrants in the 1921 tournament, which was won by the Lima Mikados.

In an effort to finish the tournament in two days, the halves of the preliminary matches will be cut down to 12 and one-half minutes.
Semi-finals and finals will go the usual distance.

The counties that will participate are Allen, Auglaize, Hardin, Van Wert and Putnam. A cup similar to the one given last year by R. S.
Marshall will be the prize.

Checkers at all hours, prompt, courteous, Main 3161.

HOLD PRELIMS
WEDNESDAY

Preliminary games in the state Y.
M. C. A. volleyball tournament began here Wednesday with four teams entered. Lima will be one of four Ohio cities in which preliminaries will be held, the other three being Cleveland, Columbus and Cincinnati.

At 2 p. m., Wednesday, teams from Toledo and Marion begin the tournament at the Y. Lima and Van Wert will play at 2:45 and the two winners will then meet at 3:30 p. m.
Two out of three games will be the rule.

The local Y. M. C. A. six will be selected from among the following:
physica director Maxwell said: C.
L. Waller, Dr. William S. Pierce, Dr.
J. B. Poling, Dr. E. J. Curtiss, Frank Cutter, Ernest Bolkins, Earl Rolin, Frank Schenk, F. C. Kattner, Frank McClain, George Dupois and possibly others.

Frank Gilhooley, baseball survivor, may wear a Lima Independent uniform this season, expressed his opinion of capital punishment at Toledo several days ago when called for service on a murder jury.

He told the court that he is opposed to capital punishment.
But he only laughed when the prosecutor inquired of him: "Do you object to capital punishment even in the case of an amir?"

GOSSIP OF THE CAMPS

BY HILLY EVANS

THE college, amateur and semi-pro players are going to get a big chance in the training camps this year.

The failure to get the minors to agree to a universal draft plan is the cause. Having their field curtailed, the major league magnates have invaded the ranks of the college, amateur and semi-pros.

The remarkable success achieved by Frankie Friesch of Fordham College as a member of the Giants, has caused the major league magnates to give considerable attention to the college. In the spring every important college game has its full quota of scouts.

The Cleveland club has found the college a worthwhile institution for developing major league talent. University of Alabama has sent some worthy timber to Manager Speaker. Joe Sewell, now rated a star shortstop, got his start there. Second baseman Stephenson and Catcher Mike Sewell are also Alabama alumni.

In the preliminary work this spring much interest will center around Glen Killinger with the New York Yankees and Johnny Mohardt of Notre Dame, who goes with Detroit.

It is a rather interesting fact that Killinger and Mohardt were two of the most talked about football players in the country last fall. Killinger was given a place on Walter Camp's All-America eleven. Mohardt was so honored by many other football critics.

Killinger is an infielder. At Penn State he played about every position on the infield. Hugo Bezdek, who coached Penn State in baseball as well as football, says Killinger is ready for the big show.

Bezdek says Killinger is best at third base. In all probability he will be worked out at that position by the Yankees. It is a certainty that Frank Baker will play only a few more years. It Killinger has the goods he has a real chance with the Yankees.

Johnny Mohardt is a pitcher. Mohardt is evidently a very bright young man. He has brains as rated in college. If he can apply them to the ball field, he will have an additional advantage.

N college football and baseball, Mohardt is regarded as the best. Mohardt was one of the best college players in the country. He is equals at having the forward pass. In baseball he was rated one of the best college pitchers in the country. He also won his letter in track.

Aside from the great success he had in athletic circles, Mohardt was a brilliant student. He has completed one of the most difficult courses at Notre Dame with an average better than 90 for his four years' work. Few students have graduated from Notre Dame with a 4.0 average.

Mohardt, altho weighing only 170, has a powerful physique. In three years of football, with the exception of a broken nose, he has not been seriously hurt. Manager Cobb of Detroit is hopeful he will dominate his college deeds on the American League diamonds.

Accompanied by his manager Earl Satchel, and a score of followers, Jake Goss left early Sunday morning for Kokomo, Ind., where he will be one of the main bouts of a card the Eagles Athletic Association will stage.

Goss is slated to meet Banta, of Marion, Ind., in one of the two main ten-round fights of the show. He is in great shape and boxed in Saturday night at 137 pounds.

All put up one of the best fights of his career against the Hoosier. If he wins he will get another crack at the Kokomo ring, March 21, his contract for the first stipulating that if he wins his second appearance is a surety.

The pride of Lima's boxing fans will take short periods of unimpaired today and will step into the ring with a night with the sage advice of Indian Homer ungling in his ears. The winner was taken along by Smith to put the edge on Goss' training.

Race In Church Loop Becomes Warmer As End Nears

SEVERAL fast games developed in Saturday night's playing in the church league, but standings were not materially affected. Trinity and South Side Church of Christ are tied for top position, with eight won and two lost apiece. There are only four more rounds. The season closes April 1.

South Side Church of Christ showed a clean pair of heels to the Grace All-Stars, having gotten away to a good lead which the Grace five was unable to overtake. The final score was 17 to 12.

Two foul goals were all Grace could coin in the first half. Jehoske played his usual strong game at the right front position for the South Siders and made four fouls and three field baskets.

Substitutions—Durbin for Dewese; McClain for Durbin; Hughes for Armstrong; Dupuis for Snodgrass; Gilmore for Hall; Roeder for Gilmore.

The second game was a heart-breaker for the Reformed squad. Being nosed out by one point is much worse than losing by a larger margin. Smith, U. B. center, was largely responsible for Reformed's defeat, having registered half his team's tallies.

THREE RENOWNED RING GENERALS

LEO FLYNN is one of the best known figures in fight circles. During Tex Rickard's regime at Madison Square Garden Flynn acted as matchmaker.

FLYNN has 23 fighters in his stable, including such good boys as Bill Brennan, Kid Norfolk, the Shade brothers (Dave, Billy and George), Bobby Michaels and Roy Moore.

JIMMY JOHNSTON, like Leo Flynn, has a big stable of boxers and managers to keep them busy. He looks after the affairs of Kid Lewis, who at one time held the welterweight title. Lewis is now matched to meet Carpenter in London.

The one object in Johnston's life is to develop a heavyweight to dethrone Jack Dempsey. Any big fellow who looks as if he has a chance to take on Dempsey in a day or so "if it is necessary."

Having gone this far, all the proposed bout needs are the public and a promoter. Both will be landed after a struggle.

Everything to be—if the public wants it. Dempsey says he will fight—if the public wants it, and Wills acts like an echo.

Governor Edwards says the two can pound each other "in Jersey"—if the public wants it.

No one seems to know what the public wants, and the ticket office is the only place to get the pulse. The Jersey boxing commission says the public doesn't want the bout, and the money back of the game seems to be similarly inclined because the police reserves have not been called out to keep in line the crowds of promoters battling to dangle bags of coin before Messrs. Kearns and Dempsey.

If the public means the ordinary man on the streets "the public" is not widely agitated over the question of who is the best flat swinger in the world.

Most of the "public" is too absorbed in the hustle to feed himself and his family to think of saving up $50 to watch a few rounds of battling under a hot sun for the chief purpose of keeping Mr. Dempsey in gasoline another year.

PLAY IDLE HOURS Lima Trust company basketball squad will hook up with the fast idle hour quintet at Kenton Monday night. It will be one of the strongest teams the Trusts have tackled. They have met such teams as the Grace and Trinity church teams, Lima Locos, etc. Owing to late organization they have appeared less than other local quintets. The team is composed of a number of good players.

Cook, a guard, is a former O. S. U. fraternity player. The other watchdog, Stephenson, starred on the Huntsville High school five. Madigan, center, is a former Lima Shamrock. Nye, Fankles, Bassler, forwards, and Manager Davies all have had experience on the court.

TOLEDO — An innovation in grand circuit racing will be introduced at the opening meeting of the grand circuit at the Ft. Miami track here July 10 to 15, when eight stakes will carry $10,500 added money, according to any announcement by officials of the Toledo Driving club.

While the stakes will be for the same classes as were raced here in 1921 at the opening meeting, all the events, except one, will carry added money instead of purses.

Never before has the added money plan been tried on the grand circuit, excepting sweepstakes, but it has proved successful in the West and in some parts of the East, and word has been received by the local reinsmen of the circuit who expressed themselves as heartily in favor of the plan.

CINCINNATI — Frank Thornton of Pittsburgh, semi-professional baseball pitcher, has offered to pay his own expenses at the training camp of the Cincinnati National League club at Mineral Wells, Texas, provided the Reds gave him a chance to show his pitching wares.

Pitcher Victor Johnson, who was obtained from the United States army, was the first out-of-town find to report for the spring training trip. The members of the team who will report in Cincinnati, will leave for the training grounds next Sunday.

'NOTHER ONE

Waynesfield took the count Saturday night in a red hot court skirmish with the Wapakoneta Reds, rejuvenated "everything, including "Windy" Arnold, "Bud" Siferd and the rest of the old timers of yore in the Indian town.

The score was 17 to 15, and it took every minute of play to decide the game. Arnold's goal shooting was largely responsible for the Red's victory. He tickled the binder twine on the basket rings four times. Mearl May was the only Waynesfield player to score consistently, but unfortunately his seven markers were of the single-barreled variety.

Wapakoneta hasn't had a good basketball team since before the war. The Reds' win over Waynesfield is taken as an indication that the boys have "come back." Lineup and summary:

Waynesfield (15) Wapakoneta (17) Butcher LF Liokumovitz May RF Anderson Minter C Arnold Shields LG Williams Harrod RG Siferd Field goals—Liokumovitz, 1; Anderson, 1; Arnold, 4; Williams, 1; Siferd, 1; Butcher, 1; May, 1; Shields, 2. Foul goals—May, 7; Anderson, 1. Referee—Ward Young, Lima South.

OFF SUNDAY FOR KOKOMO

Accompanied by his manager Earl Satchel, and a score of followers, Jake Goss left early Sunday morning for Kokomo, Ind., where he will be one of the main bouts of a card the Eagles Athletic Association will stage.

Goss is slated to meet Banta, of Marion, Ind., in one of the two main ten-round fights of the show. He is in great shape and boxed in Saturday night at 137 pounds.

All put up one of the best fights of his career against the Hoosier. If he wins he will get another crack at the Kokomo ring, March 21, his contract for the first stipulating that if he wins his second appearance is a surety.

The pride of Lima's boxing fans will take short periods of unimpaired today and will step into the ring with a night with the sage advice of Indian Homer ungling in his ears. The winner was taken along by Smith to put the edge on Goss' training.

OVERLAND MAKES REDUCTION

Lower Prices to Take Effect on Overland and Willys-Knight.

A deep reduction in prices of Overland and Willys-Knight cars, was announced Saturday evening by officials of The Willys-Overland Company. The new prices are effective immediately.

The new price of the powerful, easy-driving Overland touring car, which by sheer merit of economy, quality and comfort has attained a dominant place in the light car field, is $550. One year ago, this car sold for $1035.

This is an additional reduction since the reduction of 42% recorded from September 1929 to September 1931, a total reduction of 47% in a year and a half, the most radical reduction in motor car prices in the history of the automobile industry.

In 1916, the Overland sold for $615, a price that was thought could never be bettered. Today it is $115 lower.

The Willys-Knight touring car is now listed at $1375, a further reduction of $150 since the starting reduction of 34% made last September, a total reduction of 49% in a year and a half.

The new prices and those of September 1929 follow:

Overland chassis $450 formerly $855; touring $550 formerly $1035; roadster $550 formerly $1035; coupe $550 formerly $1255; sedan $895 formerly $1675.

Willys-Knight Roadster $1330 formerly $2300; touring $1375 formerly $2300; coupe $1375 formerly $2300; sedan $2095 formerly $2050; chassis $1100. All prices are f. o. b. Toledo.

DETECTS THIN OIL

A meter is being marketed which is intended to keep the driver informed on the condition of the oil in his crankcase. A continuous stream of oil flows across a dial on which is a temperature gauge. If the stream rises above the temperature reading, it is a warning that the oil needs changing.

Tests of motor cars running on alcohol and benzol will be made April 2 in France.

BATTERY PALMISTRY IS NEW NAME GIVEN DOPE

An entirely new field that, bat- (ery palmistry) it pays its promoters nicely until the car driver gets wise to the trick. It is the most natural thing in the world to be attracted by claims of wonderful solutions that charge batteries instantly, especially if you have had recent trouble with that particular organ of your car.

A storage battery is made of lead and lead compounds which absorb acid from the battery solution as it delivers current. The acid is driven from the plates again when the battery is recharged either while on the car or at a service station. Thus a continuous interchange of acid to plates and back to the solution is kept up, says Mr. H. W. L. Kidder, local Willard battery dealer.

"To begin with, the battery is fully charged," says Mr. Kidder, "and has a solution which contains the proper amount of acid. Because the plates absorb this acid as it discharges, some slight-of-hand artists have been making a nice living by pouring more acid into it. Of course the additional acid makes the battery operative but when it is charged on the car thru normal driving, the acid in the plates comes out and then there's the dickens to pay."

It seems that there is where the "palmistry" comes in. According to the Willard Storage Battery Company of Cleveland, Ohio the battery solution becomes too strong in such cases and some of it has to be taken out and replaced with distilled water. The innocent autoist has paid the dealer for acid he didn't really want, certainly didn't need and finally had to throw away. There's no secret about the dopes at all, but it is best to let only an authorized battery service station take care of storage batteries.

BIG BUSINESS FOR FORDSONS

Start of Second Year of Production Looks Very Good.

The outlook for the year's business in the Fordson industry is much more optimistic than it was the corresponding period a year ago. The primary reason for this is the response of the agricultural and industrial world to the recent extensive cut in the price of the Fordson.

Increased activity in production at the River Rouge Fordson plant was evident early in February. Toward the middle of the month a daily output of 100 Fordsons was the schedule under which the plant is working. This is a higher production figure than the same period in 1931.

The tractors are being sent to many parts of the country. This is the start of the second year of Fordson production at the River Rouge. February 23, 1931, marked the first tractor to be built at this plant. In little less than a year of production at the Rouge, in which period facilities for output have been highly developed, the price of the tractor has been reduced from $625 to $395, the big reduction being made at the start of 1932 Fordson production.

More than 36,000 Fordsons were built by the company during 1931. However, with the new price and with business of greater production than a year ago, it is believed 1932 will show great improvement.

AUTO NOTES

Steer in the direction of the skid. Nearly 40,000 tourists camped last year in Denver's camping park. More than 30,000 motor cars were exported last year.

Sudden and excessive application of air brakes ruins tires. Great Britain has 600 motor trucking companies. Let the engine warm up to overcome missing and to run smoothly. Drain the gasoline tank of sediment regularly.

Ohio has more than 750,000 motor vehicles. Use the motor as a brake going down hill. Denver is the motor gateway to 12 national parks and 32 national monuments.

Value of motor vehicles and parts, including engines and tires, exported last year was $102,945,610. United States manufacturers exported automobiles last year to 114 countries.

Ordnance manufacturers of New Haven, Conn., are turning to automobile manufacture. Haste in replacing punctured or blown-out tubes may cause further accidents.

In 1931 there were 415 gasoline refineries as compared with 373 the year before.

At the present rate of consumption there would be enough fuel to last the United States for 100 years. Air-cooled engines require heavier oil than a water-cooled motor because of higher operating temperature.

ECONOMY MAKES POPULARITY

Ed Hawisher Tells of Outstanding Features of Studebaker.

"Economy of operation is one of the outstanding features of the New Light Six," says Ed Hawisher of the Hawisher Motor Co., on being asked the reason for the Studebaker light six popularity. "Its light weight and scientific balance induce unusually low fuel consumption and high fire mileage. With the standard 32x4 cord tire equipment, you will average twelve to fifteen thousand miles. Perfect and efficient combustion is obtained by the arrangement of the intake manifold and internal hot spot, exclusive Studebaker inventions. By this new and exclusive construction the gasoline is completely vaporized and all of it is used in the actual development of power."

This prevents the accumulation of unburned gasoline in the combustion chambers and the consequent seepage of raw gasoline in the crankcase. The result is increased economy in gasoline and lubricating oil and the absence of carbon deposits.

In making your original investment in this car, you receive the benefit of the manufacturing savings estimated at 20% to 25%, made possible by complete manufacture in the new modern $20,000,000 Studebaker plant at South Bend, Indiana, because—

"The price includes but one manufacturing profit on castings, forgings, stampings, motor, axles, transmission, frame, body top, etc."

"The amount of overhead expenses included in the price is very small."

"Excess weight is eliminated without sacrifice of durability or quality. The shipping weight of the car, 3500 pounds, is distributed equally over the four wheels."

Energy required to move an automobile, experts say, equals the power needed to life the great Japanese dreadnaught Mutsu three feet.

Put a tablespoonful of kerosene into each cylinder once a week to keep the engine free of carbon. If the engine backfires continuously check up the wiring and timing of the ignition system. Do not pass another car going your way while turning corners or crossing an intersection. Moving the steering wheel while the car is standing puts an undue strain on the steering mechanism.

PAIGE

The Most Beautiful Car in America

THE Paige 6-44 is a smaller brother of the famous 6-66. There is a difference in power, wheel base, seating capacity and price. But both cars have one thing in common—the spirit and beauty of a Kentucky thoroughbred.

To merely look at the 6-44 is a pleasant experience. But to drive it, to tap that mighty reservoir of fifty horse power, to sink back in the cushions and feel the gentle sway of perfect spring suspension—these are things that mean the real thrill of living.

Surely you are entitled to a good motor car when it means so much in health and happiness. The 6-44 has always been good, but this year it is much better than ever. And at the greatly reduced price of $1465, where can you find a sounder, safer investment?

AUTOMOBILE NEWS

AUTO PRICES NOW BELOW 1914

Editorial From Denver Times
Tells Its Own Story

The following editorial from the Denver Times should interest every prospective buyer of a new automobile, particularly at this time.

"The automobile industry has adopted heroic methods of restoring business and has cut prices until they are little short of irresistible. In justice to one of the half dozen leading industries of the nation it should receive credit for this policy. In many instances it is said to have brought the cost of the 1922 car down to the price level of 1914, which is more than can be said for the vast majority of industries.

"The fact is particularly upsetting to the buyer who has already owned a car because, every chop in the price of a new model of the make he drives means a straight, proportionate, inescapable reduction in the value of his used car. And there, naturally, is the rub. It is a strange thing that the car owner is willing for the factory to cut the daylight out of its price schedule, but he cherishes an idea that the value of the car he owns is unaffected when he wants to dispose of it or trade it in. Another instance of 'let George Do It.'

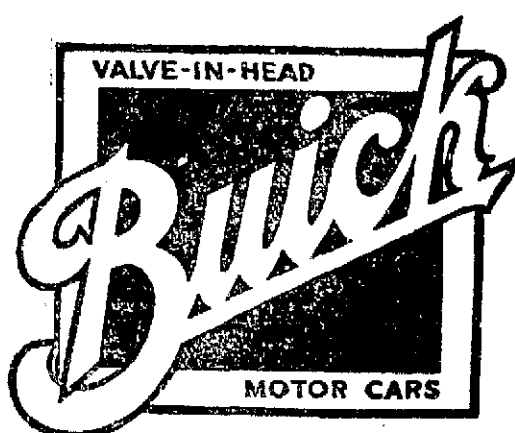

"We believe the retail automobile business would be greatly speeded up if the car-owning public, which talks about the high cost of living and the 'profiteering' of merchants, would disabuse its mind of its own unwarranted notions regarding the value of used cars, accept its loss, trade in the old busses at their actual value today and start with a clean slate and not even a regret for the past. There is no known method of sustaining the prices of used cars while the prices of new ones are being slashed and the sooner the car owner realizes it the quicker business will pick up.

NEW BUICK FOUR LIVES UP TO ITS REPUTATION

Fulfilling the promise for serviceability made by Buick Fours of other years, the new Buick four-cylinder car is held with high regard by motorists everywhere. In every respect it is reflecting the experience and knowledge gained by its designers and manufacturers in building Buick Valve-in-Head Fours for many years. It is proving itself to be everything that should be expected in a good motor car value.

The New Buick Four of other years built to modern standards. What has been said of previous Fours is now being said of the New Four.

More Facts You Should Know!

- 1 For the calendar year, January 1, 1921, to January 1, 1922, Buick built and actually sold over 80,000 automobiles.
- 2 These sales for the calendar year 1921 exceeded by over 12,000 cars the sales of any automobile manufacturer having a six-cylinder automobile in its line.
- 3 These sales for this period likewise represent a volume of business greater by over $9,000,000 than the sales of any other automobile manufacturer excluding Ford.
- 4 These figures are taken from official reports and are absolutely reliable.

Flier Whose Plane Hit World's Roof Explores Wildest West in Auto

Roland Rohlf's Tries Roughing It In a Franklin After Deciding Rancher's Life Is Next Best Thing to Frolicking In the Air

Roland Rohlf, noted aviator who represented America in the International Gordon-Bennett Races in France, and who gained world-wide fame at one time as the breaker of the world's altitude record, recently drove a Franklin sedan many thousands of miles thru the wildest and most unexplored parts of Colorado, Utah, Arizona and New Mexico.

At the conclusion of his trip, while at the factory for a new touring limousine, one of Franklin's latest body designs, Mr. Rohlf told a few incidents of what was probably one of the most interesting trips any automobile was ever called upon to undertake.

It was not due to the persistent effort of any salesman that Mr. Rohlf became a Franklin owner. Possessed of a wide knowledge of automotive mechanics by reason of his experience as an aviator, Mr. Rohlf inspected every high-grade car on the market and found Franklin construction in accordance with his idea of what a real motor car should be. The experiences which he went thru on his western trip provided a most strenuous and unusual test of the car's capabilities.

With the idea of taking up a rancher's life, he proceeded to explore some of the wildest and least developed parts of the United States. He forded mountain torrents, to attempt to cross which even the natives dubbed as foolhardy. He sought the most strenuous and unusual test of the car's capabilities.

After driving a Franklin 50,000 miles under practically every kind of road condition, Mr. Rohlf expresses the opinion that the average speed of an automobile is regulated by the comfort of the passengers and not by the horse-power.

FIVE SIXTHS OF AUTOS OWNED BY AMERICANS

"Recently compiled statistics reveal the amazing fact that the United States owns and operates five-sixths of all the automobiles in the world. Ten and a half million automobiles in the United States, twelve and a half million in all the world. And here in this fact is disclosed one of the prime reasons for the greatness and prosperity of the United States and its mighty position among the nations of the earth—transportation," says Walter C. Davis, secretary and sales manager of the Davis Motor Car Company.

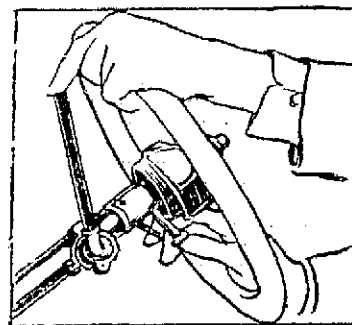

China, with four times our population, has only 8,000 motor cars. Lack of transportation has kept China centuries behind. Russia, with its enormous territory has only 35,000 motor cars. Little Mongolia is at the bottom of the list with only three automobiles!

"The wealth, power, civilization and transportation go together, the better the transportation the higher the civilization, the richer and happier the people. And the motor car, which is the highest development in transportation, has reached its highest usefulness in the United States."

EASY TO BLOW HORN

No need of removing your hand from the steering wheel—if you own a Ford, and have the lever shown here attached. It is the invention of Charles G. Walther of Detroit. The button is placed on the side of the steering post, and the lever reaches from it toward the steering wheel. All that is needed is to pull the lever.

CERTAIN TRUCK TIRES OPERATE ON LESS GAS

Truck owners may be interested in the following authentic comparison of gasoline mileage as furnished by C. D. Steele, of the Atlas Tire & Rubber Co.

"A two ton White truck equipped with Caterpillar tires makes a regular trip of 129 miles per day. The average gasoline consumption being 18 gallons. When the Caterpillar tires were worn out they were replaced with other tires and the truck continued in the same service, the claim being made by our competitor's salesman that the tires would deliver as great a mileage or more and give the same amount of traction.

"There was one big thing however that was overlooked by everyone concerned, that was the gasoline consumption. After our competitor's tires were put into commission it was found that they could not make the trip of 129 miles without using 28 gallons of gasoline.

"This truck was taken to the White Company for examination when it was discovered that there was a difference of ten gallons of gasoline consumed in every 129 miles. The White people went over the truck carefully, turned it back to the owners and stated the truck was in perfect shape. The owner continued to operate this truck until the tires were worn out and inasmuch as they had not delivered as many miles as the Kelly Caterpillars, the 'Cats' were again applied and on the first trip over the route they made it with a consumption of 18 gallons, which proved that the Caterpillar tire is a gasoline saving proposition.

"We should be glad to furnish the name of the owner of the truck who will corroborate this statement.

"Assuming the life of either set of tires to be 10,000 miles, this user could afford to pay $195.00 more for Caterpillars just on the saving of gasoline alone."

BUICK SPECIAL ROADSTER WINS PRIZE AT SHOW

Driven by Miss Fern Smith, this Special Six-54 Roadster was awarded first prize at the Automobile Style Show, Saginaw, Michigan. It surpassed the forty-seven other cars entered in its class because of its unusual beauty, its remarkable performance, and the ability of its driver to handle it gracefully and easily. The new Buick roadster was received with great enthusiasm by both spectators and judges.

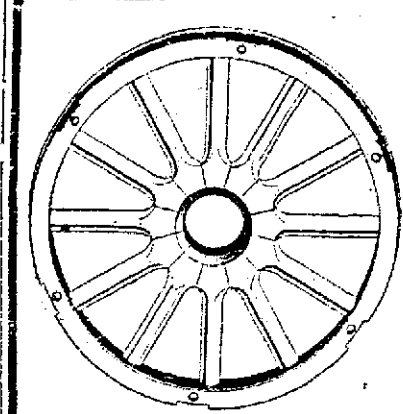

Save the brakes by coasting to a stop as much as possible.

TIRE HINTS

Does it pay to have tires retreaded? The fabric is the strength of the tire. In most cases when the tread is worn out the fabric is also in bad condition, but in many cases a carcass will wear out another tread.

If the fabric has not been exposed to the elements, broken down or separated from underinflation or overloading, rim-cut or beads broken, it should be in good condition for retreading.

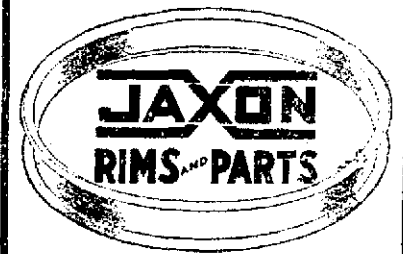

There is no doubt that a retread can be put on to stay if the vulcanizer knows his work, and has the proper equipment.

Your satisfaction with a Sedan depends largely upon construction you'll never see. Since you can't see it, you want to be all the more certain what's there.

And the chances are you'll buy from the manufacturer in whom you have the greatest confidence.

Studebaker's reputation for fine coach work was established in your grandfather's time.

This LIGHT-SIX Sedan body is built complete in Studebaker plants and is as good as the chassis. It will last, without rattles or squeaks, as long as the chassis—and that's longer than the average life of many other cars. There's nothing flimsy about this body. It has a sturdy frame-work of selected ash, the best lumber for the purpose that can be bought.

Eight stout ash pillars, running from floor to roof, insure permanent strength and rigidity which means freedom from body rattles. The joints of the steel panels of the outer surface are perfectly welded. Doors are hung with great precision—open freely and close with a sound of finality. Windows open without binding, yet are so firmly set that they are rattle-proof.

And unless you choose a Sedan with the quietness and flexibility of the LIGHT-SIX motor you will be disappointed.

DOCTOR EXPLAINS TRUTH SERUM

Discoverer Grants Interview to Lima News Correspondent

LONG SILENT ON SUBJECT

Experiments on Criminals Urged by Texas Physician

DALLAS, Tex.—(Special)—Dr. Ernest House, country physician of Ferris, Tex., who startled the nation by his discovery of "truth serum," at last has broken his silence. He granted his first interview today to The Lima News correspondent here.

Dr. House's "truth serum" is a drug that he says paralyzes the imagination and renders one who takes it incapable of telling a lie. Its practical value is in the examination of criminals and crime suspects.

The active element in this drug is scopolamine, the same substance that is used in the "twilight sleep" method of painless childbirth.

When Dr. House's discovery first became known, Dr. House refused to discuss it. He even refused to let his name be made public. All because of medical ethics.

After successful tests of the drug had been made here—

After a negro in the Dallas-co jail obtained his freedom when he took the "truth serum" test when state witnesses refused to accept the ordeal—

After state authorities decided to permit tests at the state penitentiary under joint supervision of Dr. House and State Health Officer John H. Florence—

Dr. House decided he could safely

I speak only with the intention of aiding those peace officers who wish to test the efficiency of "truth serum," Dr. House said.

ENCOURAGES EXPERIMENTS
"The best way to develop the peculiar qualities of this drug and its value in criminology is to encourage many experiments as possible."

"I make no extravagant claims for the drug. I simply state that in the cases of 500 women to whom I have administered scopolamine in childbirth cases in the last six years, the drug has proved its power to inhibit imaginations and prevent the patient from telling anything but the truth."

The method of administering "truth serum" is entirely different from the technique advised for the administration of scopolamine to induce twilight sleep.

Stronger doses can be administered for mind tests. The woman in childbirth is safest when a condition known as amnesia has been induced.

BETTER SLEEP
"But in dealing with a criminal a deeper sleep, known as analgesia, must be brought about."

"In making tests important questions should not be presented until memory tests convince the operator that the patient's mind is in a receptive mood."

"Further to insure absolute reliability, the patient may be given a few whiffs of chloroform, the anesthesia being carried far enough to prevent possibility of the patient feigning.

TWILIGHT SLEEP DISCOVERER

"I want to emphasize that scopolamine is harmless. The United States Pharmacopeia says there's not on record a single death from its use."

MEXICO CITY TIED UP BY GENERAL STRIKE

MEXICO CITY.—The Mexican capital is in the grip of a paralyzing general strike Saturday night.

The city is without water or street cars, while the electric lighting system was damaged. The street railway strike was followed by a strike of taxicab drivers and it was reported that others would follow for the purpose of consolidating all labor groups into a political party.

The power company, which has been cut off, is owned by British interests and it was rumored diplomatic intervention might be asked.

The war department is protecting the power lines and plants, and troops are keeping order.

Rig is Up in New Territory Just North of City Limits.

Discovery of a new pool of oil may result from development of a hitherto untapped tract of land just north of Lima city limits.

Drilling will commence Monday on the old Shanahan place, a 199-acre farm leased to Charles Egan, Washington, Pa., oil operator. The derrick is erected and drilling will be started under direction of George W. McMillen, who has brought in a number of large wells in the Ohio and Indiana fields.

The well is going down as a test. Should a good well or gusher come in, offset wells will be sunk on a number of other farms to the south, leased by the Spellacy Realty company. Egan and Spellacy have a total of 750 acres under lease.

The tract lies immediately north of Lima, between the B. & O. and Western Railway tracks. Three miles to the west is a group of paying wells. Several miles northeast, toward Beaverdam, is the site of the Younkerman well, the largest in that territory.

Egan is said to be connected with operators at Pittsburg and thru the Pennsylvania fields.

SAFE STOPPING DEPENDS ON HUMAN ELEMENT

Time to Sense Emergency Must Be Considered

WHAT is the shortest distance required to stop your car going at a certain speed in an emergency?

The answer to this, in the opinion of E. W. Weaver, Cleveland engineer, depends on two things:

First—Condition of brakes and the road surface.

Second—Time required for the driver to sense the emergency before applying the brakes.

Of these conditions the second is most important, says Weaver. Tests have set certain minimum distances for stopping, based on knowledge of brakes and road surfaces, in relation to the various speeds of the motor car.

For instance, 56 feet has been fixed as the minimum distance required to stop a car with good brakes, going 30 miles an hour on a dry, level road. With poor brakes on a slippery road the distance is 256 feet.

But the human element must also be considered, says Weaver. He figures it takes one-half a second for an experienced driver to sense an emergency before he begins to apply the brakes. In this one-half second of time, at a speed of 30 miles an hour, the car will have gone 22 feet.

Therefore, in stopping an automobile from a speed of 30 miles an hour, for example, the total distance required would be 108 feet, with good brakes and a dry, level road; 280 feet, with poor brakes and a slippery road.

Other distances can be judged with the aid of the chart Weaver has prepared, dependent on the car's speed and the driver's own alertness in sensing the emergency.

Look at the Caterpillar from Any Angle

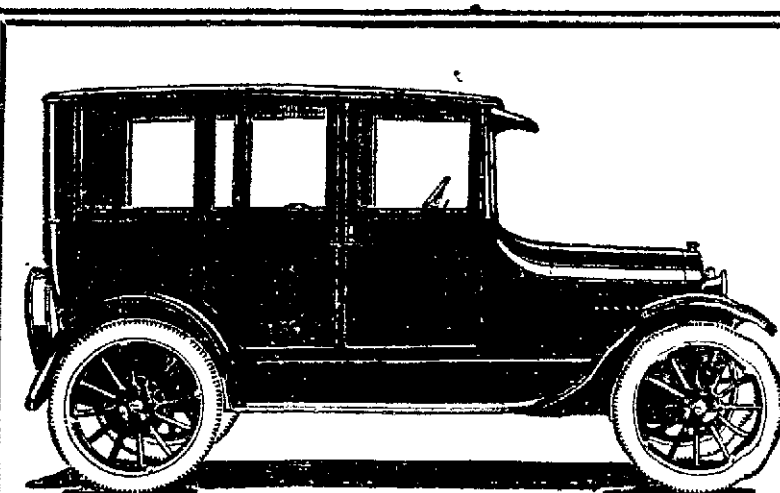

The Kelly Caterpillar is unequalled in traction. It is more resilient even than a properly inflated pneumatic tire and, being free from punctures and blow-outs, it is absolutely dependable.

Its first cost is considerably less than the pneumatic and it will give so much more mileage than either the pneumatic or the ordinary solid that its purchase is a real economy.

Look at the caterpillar from any angle and you will find its superiority unquestionable.

DEAN A DIRECTOR OF LAND BANK

First Formed in Ohio Under Farm Loan Act.

MORTGAGE LOAN TO FARMERS

Lima Man Chosen Officer to Represent Allen-Co.

Howard P. Dean, vice-president of the Lima Trust company, has been elected a director of the Lawyers Land & Mortgage company and First Joint Stock Land Bank of Cleveland, directors were chosen Saturday, the bank being the first to be formed in Ohio under provisions of the federal farm loan act.

Other officers selected are: James T. Begg, Sandusky, president; R. A. Schryver, president of the Citizens Savings & Trust Co., Columbus, vice-president; John H. Kraft, formerly with the First Trust & Savings Co., of Chicago, managing director of the bank.

Dean stated that he has been elected to represent stockholders in Allen-co. The Lawyers Land & Mortgage company is the holding company for the bank, which is a privately owned concern, but operating the same as a federal land bank.

"The first duty of business," Dean said, "is to make the farmer, the largest buyer in the country, prosperous."

"The land bank will will the farmer with long term mortgage loans. The rate is six per cent, with a one per cent payment on the principal each year under the amortization plan."

"The parent company has a capital of $1,000,000 and the land bank a capital of $250,000."

On this capital, Dean said, the bank is allowed to loan up to $2,750,000. When this amount is reached the capital may be doubled and loans made up to seven and a half million dollars. Mortgages deposited with the treasury department are security and bonds are issued to cover. The bonds are the instrument of the United States government and are tax free save for inheritance taxes.

Loans in two states. Loans will be made in Ohio and Michigan, as is permitted under the plan.

Loans can be made to run not less than five years nor more than 40 years. Amount of loans will not exceed 50 per cent of the value of farms appraised under federal supervision.

PROHIBITION FAILS FOR KELLER

Divorced as Habitual Drunkard—Two Wives Win Decrees.

National prohibition failed to disarrange Henry Keller's habit of becoming intoxicated frequently, according to testimony of his wife, Mrs. Pearl L. Keller, who was awarded a divorce decree in common pleas court Saturday.

Keller, according to her story, was habitually under the influence of liquor. She also related instances of cruelty, that caused Judge Fred C. Becker to award her a divorce.

Keller was not in court to make a defense. Custody of her son Joseph, Jr., was granted Mrs. Laura E. Davis, 8 Union-st, when she was granted a divorce in common pleas court Saturday.

Mrs. Davis told the court that her husband Joseph E. Davis, Sr., deserted her eight years ago and she does not know where he is. She was awarded a decree on grounds of desertion.

RENOWNED SINGER IS COMING TO LIMA

THEO KARLE TO BE PRESENTED BY MUSIC CLUB

Great American Tenor In Program of Songs at Memorial Hall Tuesday Evening—Is Praised by Critics In All Parts of the United States

(By ROSEMARY CHRISTEN)

THEO KARLE, America's great tenor, will be presented by the Women's Music Club Tuesday evening at 8:15 o'clock at Memorial Hall.

Of this gifted singer, Herman Devries, critic of the Chicago American formerly baritone at the Metropolitan, Covent Garden and LaScala and member of the French Academy, says: "Mr. Karle is, in my humble opinion, the greatest American tenor of today." In the Cleveland Leader, Archie Bell writes: "As certainly as the sun shines, this young American is the sort of timbre that flashes on the horizon a few times in a generation," while in the New York Tribune is found: "The genuinely beautiful quality of his voice asserted itself. Karle also has an ingratiating personality, and a certain interpretative kinship with John McCormack in his sincerity and ability to humanize songs."

The following program will be given by Mr. Karle:

"Aria di polissena".....1720 Handel-Bibb
"To Zelinda".....1737 Putti
"Over the Steppe".....Gretchaninoff
"Au Pays".....Holmes

"Aria" from "Gioconda"—Cielo e mar.....Ponchielli
"Stornello".....Cimara
"Quando tu canti".....Tirindelli
"At Night".....Rachmaninoff
"Songs of Russia".....Rachmaninoff

"Moon of My Delight"—Persian Garden.....Lehmann
"Who Knows".....Stickles
"To a Hilltop".....Cox
"Peggy".....Cox
"Boats of Mine".....Miller
"Life".....Curran

Thomas George will preside at the piano.

Mrs. Arthur Daniels, of N. Washington-st., welcomed the members of the Amice Bridge club and a group of guests at her home Friday afternoon. In the bridge games, Mrs. F. W. Thirkfield held high score among the members and Mrs. H. E. Scheide among the guests. At 5 o'clock the hostess served tea. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Howard Helmer and Mrs. J. J. Pettler.

Rankin, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Burgoon, Misses Helen Boose, Thelma and Mary Burgoon, Francis Davis and Mr. and Mrs. Davis.

Miss Corrine Burroughs, of W. North-st. will be hostess to the members of the Tri Theta sorority at her home, Monday evening.

HATS ON A SLANT

(By MARIAN HALE)

NEW YORK — Loath to forsake that charming off-the-face line, designers of the new hats are modifying it for this season's millinery. Modified as it is, however, practically every hat, silk, metal cloth or straw, slants slightly away from the face.

The milan straw hat with its spear-like ornaments is quite tailored, an excellent suggestion for the woman who spends the greater part of her day in a trim suit.

Crepe marocain, soft and lustrous, is used for the fashioning of the paneled hat with its swag side dip. The loveliness of the material is the hat's only claim to ornamentation.

The aigrette mounts of the black satin model suggest a sparkling fountain—an illusion enhanced by the twinkling of a profusion of jet beads below.

Mrs. I. W. Brown, of W. Market-st., received the members of the Martha Washington club at her home Thursday afternoon. An attractive color scheme of red and white prevailed. A musical program was enjoyed and in a contest, Mrs. Edward Jones was successful. A dainty two course luncheon was served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Ross Stapleton and Miss Helen Creps.

The guests included Mrs. Earl Snyder, Mrs. Ralph De Ver, Mrs. John Cashman, and Miss Helen Creps.

The next meeting will be held in two weeks with Mrs. Edward Jones of W. High-st.

Mrs. John W. Roby, of W. Market-st., will open her home to the Merry Circle of King's Daughters for an all day meeting, Wednesday. The assistant hostesses for the day will be Mrs. P. M. Hulsken, Mrs. S. F. Coleman and Mrs. T. R. Terwilliger. The morning will be devoted to sewing. A business session will follow the luncheon and a report of the benefit bridge given recently at the Elks' Home will be given.

Mrs. Clara Smith, of 615 S. Main-st., will entertain the Rambler club, Monday evening.

Members of the Quence club will meet with Mrs. C. L. Pughst, of 712 W. Kibby-st., Wednesday afternoon.

The members of the Oracle club will meet with Mrs. W. H. Kerman, of Richie-av., Tuesday.

Mrs. Sanford Sparks, of W. Vine-st., entertained the members of the Armistice club, Wednesday afternoon. Following the business session the afternoon was enjoyed informally and in a contest Mrs. Minnie Saltz and Mrs. Charles Shockey were successful among the members and Mrs. H. T. Craig among the guests. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Craig in serving a dainty lunch. Mrs. Ferd Davis and Mrs. Craig were the only guests.

The next meeting will be held with Mrs. Minnie Saltz, of the Allen-town-rd.

The Koala club met with Mrs. M. C. Leist, of N. Metcalf-st., Thursday evening. A pleasant social hour followed the business session and a dainty repast was served by the hostess. The only guests were Mrs. Charles Heldman, of Ravison, and Mrs. C. Ferguson.

Mrs. Alfred Wemmer, of S. Cole-st., will entertain the members of the Marine Bridge Club at 1 o'clock luncheon at the Hotel Argonne Thursday.

Mrs. E. A. Siferd, of N. Jameson-av., opened her home to the members of the Winodoughs circle Friday afternoon. Mrs. Lee Faurot was the assistant hostess. Noodlework was the pastime and Mrs. J. E. Curtiss favored with a group of vocal numbers. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess.

The Winodoughs circle has recently become affiliated with the City Federation of Women's clubs. At each meeting a small contribution is taken. The funds derived will be given over to the City hospital when the building of the new hospital starts.

Guests other than members at the meeting included Mrs. George Faurot, Mrs. C. E. Reeves, Mrs. D. W. Brown, Mrs. A. G. Gekeler, Mrs. J. E. Curtiss and Mrs. Charles Hosselman.

The next meeting of the club will be held in a fortnight with Mrs. T. M. Johnson, of W. Market-st.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Kiser, of S. Main-st., welcomed the members of the Bungalow club at their home, Friday evening. Music and euchre, in which Mrs. Della McPherson and Judd Shepherd held high scores and Mrs. Charles McPherson and J. Fenton, low, were the diversions. A two course luncheon was served by the hostess.

Those present included Mr. and Mrs. Judd Shepherd, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Clavenger, Mr. and Mrs. Charles McPherson, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. The next meeting of the club will be held in two weeks with Mrs. Frank Sealts, of N. Charles-st.

Members of the Aloha club met with Mrs. Earl Young, of W. Kibby-st., Tuesday. The afternoon was enjoyed informally and in an interesting contest, Mrs. Berry Percy and Mrs. Earl Leach were successful among the members and Mrs. Frank Leach among the guests. Mrs. Leach favored with readings from Dunbar while Mrs. N. F. Hall gave "The House By the Side of the Road." At 4 o'clock the hostess served a dainty luncheon.

Guests other than members were Mrs. Frank Lex, Mrs. Otto Hoffman, Mrs. James Bowers, Mrs. Wilbur Robenalt, Mrs. John Kenyon and Mrs. Mary Allman.

The next meeting will be held in two weeks with Mrs. Oliver Sullivan, of Nye-st.

Friday evening Mrs. T. R. Schoonover, of S. Jameson-av., entertained informally with a 7 o'clock dinner at the Elks' Home in honor of the birthday of Mr. Schoonover.

Misses Fannie and Carrie Niebling, of Fremont are over Sunday guests of Mrs. George A. Burgoon, of N. West-st.

The Woman's Missionary society of Bethany Lutheran church will meet with Mrs. F. A. Burkhardt, of 717 W. Elm-st., Wednesday afternoon.

ASH WEDNESDAY
OPENS SEASON OF PENITENCE

Society Is In Sackcloth and Ashes for Period of 40 Days—Few Social Affairs are Planned Until After the Coming of Easter and Close of Lent

FOR the next few weeks society will be in "sackcloth and ashes." This is figuratively speaking. Very few will attempt any large or pretentious social affairs during this period, which is devoted primarily to meditation and prayer. However, there will be some few events that will bring pleasure and enjoyment to those who care for it.

A few of the card clubs have discontinued their meetings during Lent, but literary and sewing clubs will meet as usual.

One of the most interesting events in clubdom for the week will be the joint meeting of the Lotus, Woman's, Arbutus and Delphian clubs, Monday afternoon. The members of the Delphian club will act as hostesses at this time and Mrs. Harry Wright, of W. Market-st., will extend the hospitality of her home for the occasion. The speaker for the afternoon will be Dr. T. S. Lowden, of Columbus, who will lecture on the subject, "Our Subconscious Life—Sleep and Dreams."

Miss Gladys James, of this city and Marion Charles Watkins, of Bluffton were united in marriage Friday evening at the home of the officiating minister, the Rev. W. L. Steeves, of Faurot-av. Mr. and Mrs. Watkins will make their home in Bluffton.

The meeting of the Sorosis club, which was to have been held Monday has been postponed for one week. At the next meeting the annual Guest Day will be observed and Mrs. J. A. Carpenter, of State-st., will open her home for the occasion.

In celebration of her birthday anniversary Mrs. Ora Young, of E. Second-st., entertained the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hubble and children, Mrs. Jennie Workman, Mrs. Frail and children, Mrs. Pretty, Mrs. R. H. Newell and children, Mrs. W. H. Hubble and children, Miss Florence H. Hble, Messrs. William Shobe, Ora Young, George Vulmermont, Russell Steinbaugh and Mr. Norman.

The "Anti-Can" Class of Grace M. E. church met Wednesday with Miss Katherine Meffley, of N. Metcalf-st. In the election of officers Katherine Meffley was chosen president and Ruth Davis, of E. Second-st., a social hour followed and a delicious luncheon was served by the hostess.

Present were Misses Helena and Vera Jewell, Evelyn Schoonover, Mildred Lewis, Olive Blank, Ora Howard, Mae Kirkendall, Ruth Davis, Pauline Hart, the teacher and Katherine Meffley.

The Young People's Missionary society of Bethany Lutheran church will meet with Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Baker, of 1036 W. Elm-st., Monday at 7:45 p. m. promptly.

Members of the Twentieth Century club will meet with Mrs. Walter S. McNairy, of 627 W. High-st., Monday evening.

The Past Worthy Matron's club of the O. E. S. will meet Monday evening with Mrs. Clara Rish, of 598 Elmwood-pl.

Members of the Domestic Science club will meet with Mrs. Ira Wagner, of W. Spring-st., Tuesday afternoon. The special feature of this meeting will be the towel shower for the Girl's Club House. Members will respond to roll call with "Pudding Recipes" and Mrs. T. C. Pennell will have a paper on "Up To Date Housekeeping."

The Dorcas Circle of Zion Lutheran church will meet with Mrs. Fern Miller, of No. 3 Phoenix-apts., Thursday afternoon.

St. Martha's Guild of Christ Episcopal church will serve luncheon on Saturday in the parish house.

The Woman's Board of Managers of the Day Nursery will meet at the nursery at 10 a. m.

Mrs. Frank Wright, of S. Cole-st., is home from a visit in Chicago.

Members of the Altrurian club will meet with Mrs. Louis Fall, of W. Spring-st., Friday.

RIBBON IS POPULAR

NEW YORK—Ribbon is playing a very big part in the ornamentation of summer frocks. It does a very novel thing in this Claire gown when it fashions itself, by means of little squares, into a very handsome insertion for a very bouffant skirt.

The unusual treatment given the ribbon is that of being folded into squares and caught together by a narrower ribbon, thus forming a trimming with an openwork effect thru which may be envisioned a bit of lovely lavender petticoat. Verily the season seems to be one of lavender.

If the frock itself is not lavender then there must be somewhere about it a touch of lavender ribbon or a lavender flower.

The bodice of the gown is snug and wears very short and very snug sleeves, while the skirt is full and quite long. Undoubtedly long skirts are on the way. Panels never stop short of the ankle and those skirts which are panelless and straight hemmed are rarely more than seven inches from the floor.

CORAL
Coral is one of the smart colors for evening wear. It is used a great deal as a background for beaded designs. Sometimes the coral tone is effected by the use of autumn brown tulle over pink.

ELIMINATE SMOKE
To prevent oil stove wicks from smoking, soak them in vinegar and dry them thoroughly before using.

DRIVING NAILS
Before driving nails into the walls, dip them into hot water and they will not break the plaster.

CONVENIENCE
A metal top on the kitchen table is a great convenience. It is easier to clean than wood and dough can be rolled out on it without the use of the customary wooden board.

POLLY AND PAUL --AND PARIS

By ZOF BECKLEY.

THE MARKETS

The city was not yet awake when Polly and Barry issued from their little cafe, but dawn had come. It gave Polly a feeling of strangeness and adventure to see the first pinky-gold sun rays slanting along the narrow streets, to smell the clean outdoor freshness of early morning. One turning brought them upon the vast markets, Les Halles. The great arched glass roofs of the different sheds—one for meats, one for fruits, one for vegetables, etc., etc., covering many acres, made Polly gasp in surprise.

Deep baskets of watercress, arranged with the heads of the bunches inwards, forming a sort of well, evoked a squeal from Polly.

"Why do they fix it that way?" "Um-m" Barry considered "partly their innate sense of beauty; partly to keep the leaves from being bruised. The French regard their vegetables like flowers. They'll rhapsodize over a beautiful carrot, and almost weep over an artichoke with smashed leaves!"

"Oh, do look at these heavenly onions! I never knew an onion could be so beautiful! And these little polished new potatoes—like woodcarvings! Um-m, smell that parsley—and what are those little round things on green leaves?" "Fresh figs—ever eat them?"

Try some. The market woman serves them smilingly, with the grace of a duchess dispensing tea. Polly thought them a bit tasteless, but no more gave them tang.

The great market looked more like a flower garden than a place where vegetables were hawked. Most of the stalls were presided over by women—big and fresh faced and businesslike, who sung out their wares with the dignity of opera stars.

"Even the cheeses and fish are like perfume from Araby," chirruped Polly, enchanted.

"Food is a science and an art with them," said Barry. "They love and respect it, from the seed to the finished dish."

A clamor arose nearby. "The mushroom auction," said Barry.

A man in a blue smock, with a purple neckerchief, stood on a barrel surrounded by great baskets of mushrooms, beautifully neat, each basket so full that not another speck could be added, yet all so safe and firm. He was shouting at terrific speed, but unexcited and casual.

"What is he jabbering about?" cried Polly, crowding to the edge of his circle.

"Quoting prices asked and offered, down to quarters and eighths of a centime. The price that finally stands without further bidding sets the rate for that day through the market, and practically all over Paris. The same procedure covers asparagus and butter, fresh eggs and forget-me-nots, mackerel and macaroni—almost everything!"

And how is your royal highness feeling—a little tired?

Polly hadn't realized it, but she was weary to the dropping point. The morning sun was bright now, and with its fullness the mystic spell was waning. . . . The adventure

EVANGELIST JOSEPH HOGUE</

OHIO FEDERATION NEWS

"Let us make good music popular, and popular music good."

That, the motto of the music department of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, has also been adopted by the music department of the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs. Music, it is announced, is to be made a force and not merely an adjunct in the life of every club woman.

Mrs. Warren P. Williamson, No. 1440 Market street, Youngstown, head of the Ohio Federation's music department says: "If we are to spread an interest in music throughout Ohio, we must carry the message of good music to these places where music is rarely heard. The work of the women's clubs in music is of supreme importance. The best means for co-ordinating all the music forces of our community in the interest of good music is through a music memory contest, and every club is urged to start a contest of this kind in its own community."

"Every community today is facing the problem of making the music in the homes, schools, churches, Sunday schools and clubs a part of the daily education of young people. It must not be an educational movement alone, for good music ought to be a joy and not a task for the listener. The music memory contest is the most attractive form of presenting good music to the younger generation and it is a stimulus to musical appreciation of the older folk of the community. It teaches them not only the message of the world's greatest composers and helps them to inculcate a love for the best in musical literature but it helps also to learn how really to use their ears and how truly to listen."

"Let every town in Ohio have a music week, including a music-memory contest. Music week is just a call to all the friends of music to rally to the cause of music, each in his own field and in his own way. Free community concerts are a feature of many cities and towns. Can you not arrange to give, under the auspices of your club, such a concert, or a series of concerts, using the musicians of your own community as the artists?"

Immediately following the ceremony in Dulin and his bride left for Portsmouth, where they will make their future home.

The Congregational circle will meet Tuesday afternoon with Miss Josephine Dunan, of 563 S. West-st. Mrs. James Gamble will be the assistant hostess.

GIRLS! LEMONS WHITEN HANDS

Press the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, which any drug store will supply for a few cents. Rub well, and you have a quarter pint of harmless and delightful lemon bleach lotion to soften and whiten red rough or chapped hands. This home-made lemon lotion is far superior to glycerin and rose water to smoothen the skin. Famous stage beauties use it to bleach and bring that soft, clear, rosy-white complexion, because it doesn't irritate. —Adv.

SUSIE SMART'S ADVICE

Dear Miss Smart: I AM a young girl 20 years old. As I am living away from my own home I am making my home with a very fine and highly respected family. I have been keeping steady company with a young man since I have been in this city. He comes to see me four or five times a week and he does stay rather late, but I think I am old enough now to stay up as long as I want. The woman with whom I room and board does not think it right for me to stay up so late. She thinks I am too young. I told my friend about this and he said he didn't think it was any of her affair. He feels that I should leave them. What do you think I should do?

DORA.

MY dear girl, the very first thing you should do is to congratulate yourself on your environment and to realize how fortunate you are in having found such an excellent home. It would be a grave mistake for you to leave it for the reason you mention. The fact that this young man is trying to influence you to leave indicates that perhaps he is not a desirable person for you to have for a friend.

It is natural that the woman with whom you live should be concerned over the fact that you are giving so much time to this young man and that you are keeping late hours. You should not resent her attitude in this as meddling and interfering. She realizes that your mother is not with you to advise you and she is only trying to give you the interest and safeguards that any kindly woman would wish to give a girl under the circumstances.

Dear Miss Smart: (1) I am a married woman and have three children. My husband and I get along fairly good, but there is one thing that he does that I don't understand. We are in debt. He comes home and gives me some money and tells me to pay bills. He says he is broke and hasn't a cent. Then in two or three days he has money in his pockets, but won't give me any of it. Where does he get it? (2) Do you think a woman ought to carry the pocketbook and be boss over it? (3) Don't you think a woman ought to have a little spending money too? (4) If I could I would go to work myself, but I have three small children. The youngest is a year old. Please tell me where I could get someone to stay with my children.

DESSIE.

(1) I haven't the least idea where your husband acquires all of his wealth in so short a time. I think that it is only fair and just, however, that you should ask in a kind way where he receives his money. If you have any doubt, whatever, as to whether or not he has gained it by false and deceitful methods, it is only right that you should know.

(2)—So you think the wife should have supreme control over her husband's earnings and that she should be lord and master over all her possessions? No, I really do not agree with you. I think every husband should share his earnings as equally as possible with his wife. He should give her a specified amount for groceries and the household necessities, together with a small portion for personal pleasures and diversions. Of course, the last depends largely upon his salary and how much he can afford to give his wife.

(3) If your husband is able to provide for you, do not think of work—yourself. Make him feel his responsibility towards you and the children, and then it is he, not you, who should be the provider. Your children are young and they need you. At least be willing to sacrifice for them and if necessary deny yourself of personal pleasures.

I am studying to be a doctor. Do you think this is a good course for one to take up? Tell me where I can go to study and come back with good results. How high must I go in school before taking this course?
K. A. H.

Yes, it is a splendid course for a young man if he feels he is sufficiently interested in his vocation to successfully undergo the long and strenuous years, which are required in taking a medical course. (2) I should advise you to talk with either the superintendent or the principal at your school. (3) If you have not already plotted your high school education you should take this matter up with your principal. He can help you greatly and tell you what subjects will be required of you. Before entering a medical school, a student must have a certain number of credits and must have taken certain subjects in high school.

MOVIE PROGRAM FOR THE WEEK INCLUDES WIDE VARIETY OF SUBJECTS

SPECTACLE, MELODRAMA AND COMEDY

There Is Also Romance, Mystery, Crime in Film Offerings in Lima Cinema Houses

Gorgeous Showings in Pageantry Form to Dazzle Devotees of the Screen are Heralded

(BY ESTHER WAGNER)

At the Sigma we shall see a picture of the gorgeous pageantry of King Solomon's court, "The Queen of Sheba," produced in all the splendor and beauty possible. Betty Blythe, the lovely statuette star of the screen, plays the role of Sheba while Fritz Leiber is cast as King Solomon. Thousands of extras were employed to give the story color and effect.

This great drama will continue at the Sigma theatre for one solid week, starting today.

The Faurot will house for our delectation the widely heralded Cecil B. DeMille masterpiece "Fool's Paradise," said to be this famous producer's most worthwhile offering. Settings of rare beauty, a wide scope of action and the culmination of the plot in a crocodile den are set forth as only a few of the reasons why we should see "Fool's Paradise." The other reasons are Dorothy Dalton, Conrad Nagel, Theodore Kosloff and Mildred Harris, in whose hands the leading roles have been entrusted.

The Lyric, not to be outdone by any means, comes forward with a new Pearl White vehicle in "The Broadway Peacock," a stirring drama of cabaret life in New York with some exceptionally attractive scenes. Miss White has the able support of Doris Eaton and Joseph Stryker. The showing of "The Broadway Peacock" is for four days only, starting today.

May Allison, the popular blonde star, is booked to appear at the Lyric the last three days of the week in "The Last Card," a domestic tale with Miss Allison in the role of a young matron.

"Idols of Clay" is scheduled for appearance today and Monday at the Majestic. Mae Murray and David Powell are co-starred in the production which is a novel story of the South Sea isles and London society life.

The Rialto presents, as its Sunday attraction, "Across the Deadline" starring Frank Mayo.

The Majestic Pictures
A picture that is destined to eclipse the remarkable popularity of previous Mae Murray productions is "Idols of Clay," written by Ouida Bergere and produced under the personal direction of George Fitzmaurice. David Powell plays opposite the star.

"Idols of Clay" is a flaming story of human hearts and human passions; a drama of love that embraces the luxurious South Sea isles and a beautiful garden in Greece, the revels of London's bohemian society and the sinister dens of the famous Limehouse underworld. The picture has been produced with all the rich, luxurious settings and spectacular effects for which Mr. Fitzmaurice is noted.

Miss Murray is at her vivacious best as Faith Merrill, the daughter of a South Sea island recluse and pearl smuggler. Dorothy Cummings, David Powell and George Fawcett lend adequate support.

In addition to this feature picture, which opens a two-day engagement today at the Majestic theatre, the program contains a new two-reel Torchy comedy.

TEN years ago today Adolph Zukor, the first and present President of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, producers and distributors of Paramount pictures, gave to the public its first film production employing a distinguished star and a well known play. Mr. Zukor had studied the great possibilities of the motion picture and proceeded upon the lines that the public was ready for something more than the crude productions and stories then current and that eventually photoplays would become the most popular thing in amusement the world over.

Associating himself with Daniel Frohman, his first production was Anthony Hope's "The Prisoner of Zenda," with James K. Hackett in the role he had acted in the stage version. This was followed with Mrs. Fiske in "Tess of the D'Urbervilles," Mary Pickford in "In the Bishop's Carriage" and other productions which immediately caught the public fancy. Soon Mr. Zukor merged his organization with that of Jesse L. Lasky and Cecil B. DeMille, and Paramount pictures were born. Of their success it is unnecessary to write. They are known from one end of the world to another as the standard of quality.

The Faurot takes particular pride in celebrating this birthday with the Paramount organization, for it was one of the first theatres of the country to grasp the possibilities of the new organization and has been aligned with it ever since. It also takes pleasure in the fact that the birthday celebration is to be enhanced by the latest and by all means the greatest production of the pioneer Paramount director, Cecil B. DeMille, whose "Fool's Paradise" will not only be presented at the Faurot today but at 250 of the other leading theatres of the country.

Mr. DeMille must have had this anniversary in mind when he conceived "Fool's Paradise." He took his central idea from Leon and Merrick's brilliant story, "The Labyrinth and the Labyrinth," and has surrounded it with nearly everything of which a modern motion picture is composed. Scene after scene of utter magnificence, sen-

"Fool's Paradise" and Paramount's Birthday are the big things of the week all over the country. You can participate in both at the Faurot for six days starting today.

The Lyric Pictures
TWO stars of wide renown appear on the Lyric's weekly program today, with Pearl White opening the calendar in "The Broadway Peacock," and May Allison scheduled for the last three days of the week in "The Last Card."

Pearl White, known as the most popular star of the screen today, will excel the hopes of her many admirers when they see her in "The Broadway Peacock." Her striking blonde beauty was never shown to better advantage than in her role of the Broadway cabaret hostess.

Her role is suggestive of both demon and angel. As Myrtle May, the hostess of the Dansant Rouge, a famous Broadway resort, she chooses as the object of her mad infatuation, the

TWO STAGE PLAYS OF MERIT ARE BOOKED FOR FAUROT OPERA HOUSE

SUCCESSES OF SEASON ANNOUNCED

"Mr. Pim Passes By," with Laura Hope Crews in Title Role, Here Next Saturday.

Laura Hope Crews in "Mr. Pim Passes By," at the Faurot Opera House, matinee and night, March 11.

At the Faurot next Saturday, matinee and night, A. L. Erlanger will present the comedy, "Mr. Pim Passes By," which was played for a year at the Garrick Theatre in London and throughout the season at the Garrick and Henry Miller Theatres in New York. It is not too much to say that this is one of the real treats of the local theatrical year. Written by A. M. Milne, one of the leading humorists of the day and a former associate editor of London Punch, after its long London engagement, it was produced in New York under the auspices of the Theatre Guild and is presented here by Mr. Erlanger with the original players in the leading roles. Miss Laura Hope Crews heads the cast as Olivia and is surrounded by such artists as Dudley Digges as George Marden; Erskine Sanford as Mr. Pim; Leonard Mudis as Brian; Alison Bradshaw as Dinah; Augusta Haviland as Lady Marden and Madeline Barr as Anne. Miss Crews has long since established her position as one of the leading comedienne on the American stage. Mr. Milne, as a playwright, will be particularly recalled in "Belinda," in which Ethel Barrymore toured the country and the new New York success, "The Dover Road."

Primarily "Mr. Pim Passes By" is one of those brilliant comedies that keeps the audience in a rare good humor from the rise of the first curtain to the fall of the last. The action takes place in the country home of George Marden, a rather staid English gentleman. His wife, Olivia, when a mere girl, has married in Australia one Felworthy, a company promoter, who had gone to seek for his irregular business methods and died. The home life of the Mardens is quite ideal save that they slightly differ over the proposed marriage of their niece to a rising young artist, until one day in pops Mr. Pim, an aged and somewhat forgetful Englishman recently returned from Australia. He, thru a chance remark, quite upsets the Mardens by announcing that Felworthy is alive. This would naturally put the delightful Olivia in the unenvied position of a bigamist, but, of course, she isn't, for Mr. Pim clears up the entanglements in the end. The complications that ensue in the meantime are startling and the fun, for the audience at least, unbounded. New York made "Mr. Pim Passes By" the really worth while comedy of the year. Everybody went to see it. It comes here direct from the long Chicago engagement.

Otis Skinner Coming

OTIS SKINNER is one of the most picturesque figures in the American theatre and his appearance in a new role is always an event easily looked forward to with joyous anticipation by a veritable army of admiring theatregoers whom his performances have so often thrilled with varying emotions. Given a character like Hajji, the beggar, in "Kismet" or Col. Bridal, in "The Honor of the Family," or the philosophical organ-grinder in "Mister Antonio" (only mentioning a few of his most recent impersonations) a character whose portrait he can paint with vivid colors, and Mr. Skinner is in his element, an element where he has hardly a living peer.

From advance information it is just such a character that Mr. Skinner is playing in "Blood and Sand," the drama by Tom Cushing, founded on the novel of the same title by Blasco Ibanez. As the hero of this new play Mr. Skinner appears as a bull-fighter, an adept in the national sport of Spain and the idol of the Spanish people. Of the humblest origin, his courage and his egotism have placed him on a lofty pedestal from which he is toppled by the wiles of a heartless coquette—an aristocrat for whom he is merely the toy of the moment. As a story, the novel is full of romance, and as the hero El Gallardo, Mr. Skinner it is said, and it is easy to believe, makes the character a most memorable one. At the Faurot on Thursday night, March 16, Mr. Skinner and his company of twenty-nine people will give the first Lima performance of "Blood and Sand."

The Rialto Pictures

Every emotion an actor throws is the result, supposedly, of some strong influence—grief, joy, hate, anger, love. Sometimes actors run across situations, however, where the cause doesn't produce the effect, and it's mighty hard to stimulate it.

For example, in Universal's "Across the Deadline," the Frank Mayo vehicle coming to the Rialto theatre today, Josef Swickard, famous character man, has one big situation wherein he is supposed to display a habit of going insane whenever there's a storm. In this case Swickard was up against a thing contrary to his own personal "predilections."

"When there's a storm, I'm filled with the calmest, strongest sort of spirit," he says, "and it's a pleasure to walk out into the storm and tramp for miles. When the winds tear off branches of trees and the thunder and rainfall are like a great symphony of the elements, I feel the presence of something very spiritual and quiet. Nothing in the storm makes me nervous or unsettled; it makes me the opposite."

Conrad Nagel, Dorothy Dalton and Theodore Kosloff, in "Fool's Paradise," at the Faurot theatre for six days, starting today.

The Sigma Pictures

"QUEEN OF SHEBA," a William Fox super-special which enjoyed a sensational run on Broadway, is booked for the Sigma theatre next week. It is described as a stupendous spectacle and a great love story. Its magnificent pageantry and thrilling chariot race are loudly heralded.

Betty Byrnie, playing the Queen of Sheba, and Fritz Leiber, Shakespearean star of the stage, portraying King Solomon, head the cast. Well known screen players in their support are George Siegmann, George Nichols, Pat Moore, the child actor, and Neil Craig. J. Gordon Edwards directed the photodrama. Some gigantic battle scenes are a feature of the big picture. Betty Byrnie is said to have 26 changes of costume in the production, each said to be dazzlingly beautiful. Among the notable scenes are historic arrival of the Queen of Sheba at King Solomon's court; the marriage festival at the court of King Aram; the great chariot race between Sheba and the Princess Vashti; the battle between the forces of Solomon and Adonijah, and the pathetic final departure of the Queen of Sheba for her own realm.

Next to "Cleopatra"—a former Fox picture—there is probably more feminine flesh exposed in "Sheba" than in any other picture. Very probably queens and lesser female personages dressed as they do in this film; a careful study, it is said, has been made of those times. The impression must not be given that the picture is revolting. On the contrary it is majestic; the costumes are dazzling, and the sets are worthy of any great producer. The spectacular must never be without its thrills. Fox has seen to it that there are a couple of real causes for tremors. The chariot races fairly lift one from one's chair.

VICTOR ARTISTS COMING SATURDAY

BILLY MURRAY will soon be with us again. The Johns Music Co., local Victor dealers, have succeeded in securing the Eight Famous Victor Artists for another engagement at Memorial Hall, on Saturday evening, March 11.

When the eight artists appeared here last season Murray completely won his local audience shortly after stepping upon the stage. For years he has been winning audiences, by way of a little disc and a machine to reproduce it.

Murray has been making many records many years, in fact his earliest recordings were in the days when the talking machine was considered little more than a toy, and most people failed to see its possibilities as a great educator and entertainer. Since affiliating with the Victor Company millions of his song recordings have been reproduced and today his records are to be found in nearly every home.

Other members of the party are: Henry Burr, tenor; Albert Campbell, tenor; John Meyer, baritone; Frank Croxton, bass; Monroe Silver, vocalist; Fred Van Eps, banjoist, and Frank Ranta, pianist. As was the case last year the Sterling Trio and the Peerless Quartet are programmed for several numbers.

The program is entirely new from opening to closing.

There is Also Romance, Mystery, Crime in Film Offerings in Lima Cinema Houses

Gorgeous Showings in Pageantry Form to Dazzle Devotees of the Screen are Heralded

LIMA's motion picture program for the coming week includes a wide variety of films, with an instant appeal to almost every taste. Spectacle, melodrama, romance, mystery, crime, domesticity and comedy will all figure prominently in the photoplay offerings of the various cinema palaces.

At the Sigma we shall see a picturization of the gorgeous pageantry of King Solomon's court, "The Queen of Sheba," produced in all the splendor and beauty possible. Betty Blythe, the lovely stunner, stars in the role of the queen, while Fritz Leiber is cast as King Solomon. Thousands of extras were employed to give the story color and effect.

This great drama will continue at the Sigma theatre for one solid week, starting today.

The Faurot will house for our delectation the widely heralded Cecil B. DeMille masterpiece, "Fool's Paradise," said to be this famous producer's most worthwhile offering. Settings of rare beauty, a wide scope of action and the culmination of the plot in a crocodile den are set forth as only a few of the reasons why we should see "Fool's Paradise." The other reasons are Dorothy Dalton, Conrad Nagel, Theodore Kosloff and Mildred Harris, in whose hands the leading roles have been entrusted.

The Lyric, not to be outdone by any means, comes forward with a new Pearl White vehicle in "The Broadway Peacock," a stirring drama of cabaret life in New York with some exceptionally attractive scenes. Miss White has the able support of Doris Eaton and Joseph Stryker. The showing of "The Broadway Peacock" is for four days only, starting today.

May Allison, the popular blonde star, is booked to appear at the Lyric the last three days of the week in "The Last Card," a domestic tale with Miss Allison in the role of a young matron.

"Idols of Clay" is scheduled for appearance today and Monday at the Majestic. Mae Murray and David Powell are co-starring in the production, which is a novel story of the South Sea isles and London society life.

The Rialto presents, as its Sunday attraction, "Across the Dead Line" starring Frank Mayo.

The Majestic Pictures

A picture that is destined to eclipse the remarkable popularity of previous Mae Murray productions is "Idols of Clay," written by Ouida Bergere and produced under the personal direction of George Fitzmaurice. David Powell plays opposite the star.

"Idols of Clay" is a flaming story of human hearts and human passions; a drama of love that embraces the languorous South Sea isles and a beautiful garden in Greece, the revels of London's bohemian society and the sinister dens of the famous Limehouse underworld. The picture has been produced with all the rich, luxurious settings and spectacular effects for which Mr. Fitzmaurice is noted.

Miss Murray is at her vivacious best as Faith Merrill, the daughter of a South Sea island recluse and pearl smuggler. Dorothy Cummings, David Powell and George Fawcett lend adequate support.

In addition to this feature picture, which opens a two day engagement today at the Majestic theatre, the program contains a new two-reel comedy.

TEN years ago today Adolph Zukor, the first and present President of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, producers and distributors of Paramount pictures, gave to the public its first film production employing a distinguished star and a well known play. Mr. Zukor had studied the great possibilities of the motion picture and proceeded upon the lines that the public was ready for something more than the crude productions and stunts then current, and that eventually photoplays would become the most popular thing in amusements the world over. Associating himself with Daniel Frohman, his first production was Anthony Hope's "The Prisoner of Zenda," with James K. Hackett in the role he had acted in the stage version. This was followed with Mrs. Fiske in "Tess of the D'Urbervilles," Mary Pickford in "In the Bishop's Carriage" and other productions which immediately caught the public fancy. Soon Mr. Zukor merged his organization with that of Jesse L. Lasky and Cecil B. DeMille, and Paramount pictures were born. Of their success it is unnecessary to write. They are known from one end of the world to another as the standard of quality.

The Faurot takes particular pride in celebrating this birthday with the Paramount organization, for it was one of the first theatres of the country to grasp the possibilities of the new organization and has been aligned with it ever since. It also takes pleasure in the fact that the birthday celebration is to be enhanced by the latest and by all means the greatest production of the pioneer Paramount director, Cecil B. DeMille, whose "Fool's Paradise" will not only be presented at the Faurot today but at 260 of the other leading theatres of the country.

Mr. DeMille must have had this anniversary in mind when he conceived "Fool's Paradise." He took his central idea from Leonard Merrick's brilliant story, "The Lascars and the Lady," and has surrounded it with nearly everything of which a modern motion picture is composed. Scene after scene of utter magnificence, senpansion of Mr. DeMille's art or the vast improvement made in motion pictures under the Paramount banner.

Not alone in scenic and sensational display does "Fool's Paradise" excel. Mr. DeMille has assembled a cast of principals that is another valuable asset to the picture. Dorothy Dalton has the role of Poli Patchouli, a dancer in the Mexican cantina. It will remind you of her role in "The Flame of the Yukon," which made her a star in a night, and is decidedly the best part she has ever had. Then there are Conrad Nagel, Mildred Harris, Julia Faye, Theodore Kosloff, John Davidson and others of the Lasky company, with thousands of extra people, dancers, natives, etc., etc.

"Fool's Paradise" and Paramount's Birthday are the big things of the week all over the country. You can participate in both at the Faurot for six days starting today.

The Lyric Pictures

TWO stars of wide renown appear on the Lyric's weekly program today, with Pearl White opening the calendar in "The Broadway Peacock," and May Allison scheduled for the last three days of the week in "The Last Card."

Pearl White, known as the most popular star of the screen today, will excel the hopes of her many admirers when they see her in "The Broadway Peacock." Her striking blonde beauty was never shown to better advantage than in her role of the Broadway cabaret hostess.

Her role is suggestive of both demon and angel. As Myrtle May, the hostess of the Dansant Rouge, a famous Broadway resort, she chooses as the object of her mad infatuation, the scion of a blue-blooded New York family, altho her best friends warn her that no good can come of the affair. The growing coldness of the young millionaire, caused by outside interference, finally maddens the girl to a point where her better nature is vanquished by her passionate love for the aristocrat, and she becomes a demon who tears a family asunder. The ending of the picture is as startling as it is clever.

In the supporting cast is Miss Doris Eaton, known thruout the movie circles as "the girl who can weep at will." Others in the cast are Joseph Stryker and Harry Southard. The cabaret scenes are all magnificently carried out and Miss White wears some striking gowns.

The engagement of "The Broadway Peacock" is for four days only, after which May Allison will hold the boards, appearing in "The Last Card," an adaptation of Maxwell Smith's Saturday Evening Post success "Dated." The plot deals with two families who are neighbors. An act of infidelity in one home enfolds the other home in a curious chain of circumstantial evidence, and a young wife is compelled to use her intuition and wits to clear her husband of guilt. Miss Allison is superb as the wife and the development of the plot is thoroughly enjoyable. These two splendid attractions are each accompanied by two-reels comics and latest issues of International News.

TWO STAGE PLAYS OF MERIT ARE BOOKED FOR FAUROT OPERA HOUSE

SUCCESSSES OF SEASON ANNOUNCED

"Mr. Pim Passes By," with Laura Hope Crews in Title Role, Here Next Saturday

Otis Skinner and Company to Bring "Blood and Sand" Here on March 16

At the Faurot next Saturday, matinee and night, A. L. Erlanger will present the comedy, "Mr. Pim Passes By," which was played for a year at the Garrick Theatre in London and throughout the season at the Garrick and Henry Miller Theatres in New York. It is not too much to say that this is one of the real treats of the local theatrical year. Written by A. M. Milne, one of the leading humorists of the day and a former associate editor of London Punch, after its long London engagement, it was produced in New York under the auspices of the Theatre Guild and is presented here by Mr. Erlanger with the original players in the leading roles. THEO KARLE AT MEMORIAL HALL

On next Tuesday evening, at the Memorial Hall, the Women's Music Club will present to the music lovers of Lima and vicinity, one of the most interesting and thoroughly enjoyable programs of the season. Mr. Theo Karle, American-born and educated tenor, will appear in a vocal concert.

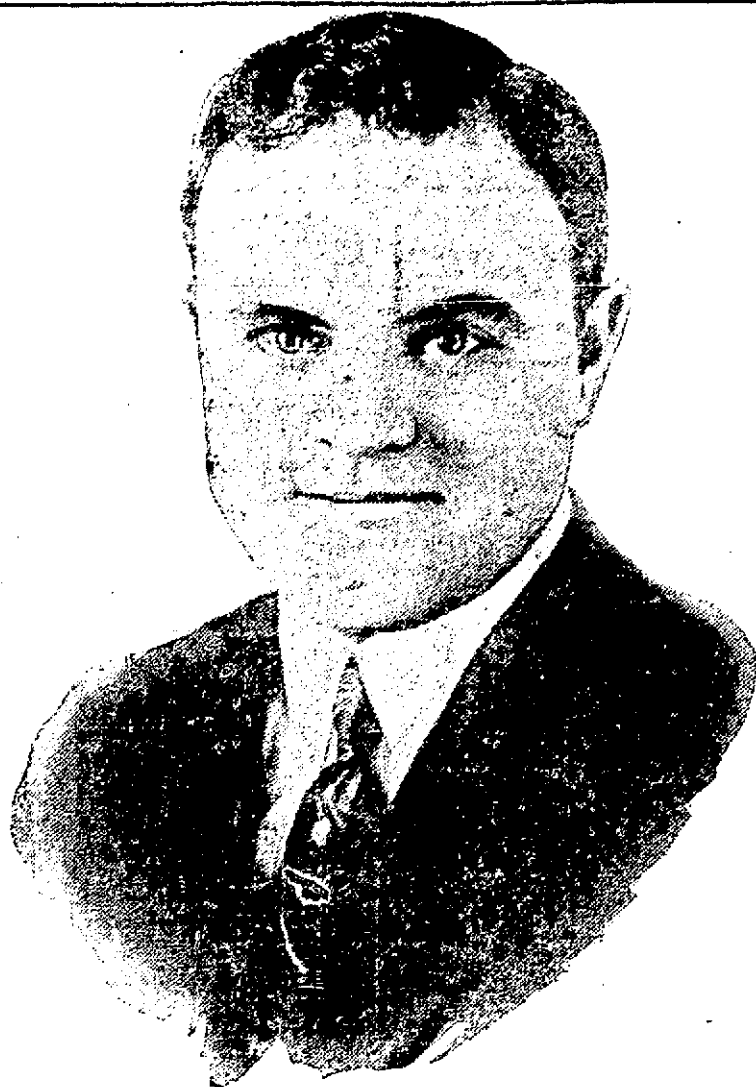

Mr. Karle has won instantaneous fame as the greatest of American tenors. In a recent interview, he said: "The American audience, comprising as it does, the best elements of all the other audiences on earth, is the most inspiring gathering and the most difficult to 'approach' while its united criticism amounts to a musical education in itself," says Mr. Karle.

"During my 14 trips to the Coast and back—I am now on my 15th, by the way—I have been compelled to employ all my skill as a program maker to meet the local managers' wishes for in one section a preponderance of Scandinavian and Russian songs is wanted, while other districts prefer French, Italian, or a nearly all-English programme. Of course, sometimes this merely means giving prominence to a certain national group, but often it has meant changing an entire programme at short notice."

"But in the large cities the huge audiences comprising ten or fifteen national groups, are the most inspiring and helpful critics in the world. I say quite gratefully that I could not have arrived at my present happy position without their kindly assistance. I like to know that my songs are understood, as well as appreciated, and after all intelligent criticism is the only kind an artist cares about. If he is true to himself and his art. Please say for me that I have found the American audience invariably intelligent and just in its criticism of my work, as well as kindly and patient in its attitude to the young artist, and lavishly with its praise and the expression of its goodwill."

NEW BILL AT ORPHEUM TODAY

As you no doubt have seen Minnie Burke, the clever leading lady with the Starland Girls, it will be no surprise to you to know that by popular request Minnie Burke and her Starland Girls will remain over for another week with an entire new offering of show. Starting at today's matinee Minnie Burke will offer "Passing Inspection," a dandy comedy that is guaranteed to keep you in a happy frame of mind. Johnny Gilmore will be seen in an Irish comedy part, Jack Arnold, who made an impressive impression with Orpheum patrons last week will be seen in an entire new character, in Billy Murray, coming to Memorial Hall, Saturday.

Indigestion
Sourness

Gases
Acidity Flatulence
Palpitation

"Pape's Diapepsin" relieves stomach distress in five minutes. You don't want a slow remedy when your stomach is bad—or an uncertain one—or a harmful one—your stomach is too valuable; you mustn't injure it with drastic drugs. Pape's Diapepsin is noted for its speed in giving relief, its harmlessness, its certain action in regulating sick, sour, gassy stomachs.

Keep this perfect stomach doctor in your home—keep it handy—get a large sixty-cent case from any drug store, and then if you should eat something which doesn't agree with you, if what you eat lays like lead, ferments and forms gas; causes headache, dizziness and nausea; eruptions of acid and undigested food—remember as soon as Pape's Diapepsin comes in contact with the stomach all indigestion vanishes. It is the most efficient antacid known—the certainty and ease with which it overcomes stomach and digestive disorders as a revelation to those who try it.

PARAMOUNT'S 10th ANNIVERSARY will be celebrated every day of March in every town of the U. S. Every day brings renewed gratitude for motion pictures.

You know by instinct that you were not made for only the dull routine of workaday life. You deserve a life spiced by adventure and romance!

And Paramount knows it! Paramount knew in 1912 when it made the first feature picture—and Paramount has made the vast majority of the best feature pictures every year since!

The Name Paramount Stands for Whatever is Best in Motion Pictures

The history of Paramount is the history of motion pictures—all the way from the day when Adolph Zukor started the world by starring "the divine Sarah Bernhardt" in "Queen Elizabeth," and Jesse L. Lasky and Cecil B. De Mille made "The Squaw Man"—up to such successes as today as Cecil B. De Mille's "Fool's Paradise," Gloria Swanson in "Her Husband's Trademark," and Wallace Reid in "The World's Champion."

That's why this tenth birthday is worth celebrating!

Enjoy Paramount's Birthday at Your Theatre

You are going to enjoy it if the Paramount Showmen in your town and every town have their way! There will be something happening all the time in the way of stimulating Paramount entertainment.

Here are a few of the wonderfully successful pictures of the last few years—all Paramounts—just a handful chosen from hundreds.

Amazing Life Melodrama of the Nurse With the Flaming Titian Hair

"From the First, Mrs. Cauley's Smile and Bright Red Hair Hypnotized the Millionaire Truckster."

"She Needed Money for Her Graduation Gown—a Bagatelle to Sherard, but the First of a Staggering Series of 'Touches.'" his hardest years were behind him, when he could take a brief breathing spell to sit back and enjoy the fruits of his labor, brought a gleam of rosy romance into his drab life.

Less than a month after he left the hospital they held their first tryst in Sherard's office at No. 60 Stone street. She told him she had finished her course at the hospital. She was about to graduate. But she needed money to pay for her graduation gown. And Sherard, who believed her a plucky little widow, striving to support a baby girl, willingly let her have it, so he says.

The cost of a gown for such a red-headed charmer he considered a bagatelle, little dreaming it was to be exactly that compared to the sums she was to coax and wring and gouge from him before he was pumped dry and flung aside like an old shoe.

This was, according to Sherard, but the first "touch" in a staggering series of gifts, loans and advances which she secured from him on various pretexts over a long span of years—the first of the many occasions when, as he put it, his tender heart could not resist the bright red hair and pouting lips and caressing eyes of his Indian Summer innamorata.

Her hints, says Sherard, quickly became open requests. And her requests before long were exorbitant demands. When he feebly protested, she threatened to go to Mrs. Sherard. So, month after month, the wealthy trucking boss paid and paid, he says, and groaned at each slice into his dwindling pile.

At last Fate itself seemed to have chosen to deliver him from his bonds. Mrs. Sherard died. Immediately he made a valiant effort to break away. He served notice, he says, on his hypnotizing charmer that she had drawn her last check from him. His decision inspired her to her most brazen attempt of all—a case of "shake-down" which will live as unique in New York court annals.

Mrs. Cauley sued Sherard for $25,000, charging breach of promise. The revelation of his romance shocked his family and brought his first break with his friends. Sherard, smarting under his troubles, sought the services of a well-known detective, Louis Hart. The detective quietly made a little investigation, with startling results.

Came the day of trial. Mrs. Cauley took the stand. She was dressed in rusty black, one finger protruded from her worn glove, traces of tears marked her thin cheeks; she was the picture of outraged, deceived widowhood.

The jurymen listened with sympathetic attention to her story of how wealthy Dave Sherard had wooed her and pursued her, finally won her love and trust on his promise to marry her, and then turned his back on her and her starving child with the brutal message that he was "expected to marry his sister-in-law."

During this recital Sherard appeared curiously unmoved. Even when Mrs. Cauley described the death of her husband, Edward Cauley—"killed in a railroad accident at his post of duty," she said—and wept a little over his memory, the man she charged with betraying her only set his jaw a little firmer and stared at the ceiling.

Then the attorney for the defense rose. "Call Edward Cauley," he said.

And Edward Cauley, a young, dark-haired brakeman, obviously bewildered by a summons to a hearing of which he declared he knew nothing, came in and took the stand and pointed out Helen Cauley as his wife.

"Married ten years," he told the jury. "Sure, we're living together. Why, she cooked my breakfast this morning."

Sherard's detective had done his work well. Instead of gouging her benefactor for $25,000, Mrs. Cauley was indicted, tried and convicted for perjury, and sent to prison at Auburn, N. Y., for three years.

This extraordinary attempt at extortion, with its boomerang twist, would appear to have ended Dave Sherard's troubles with his red-haired enchantress for all time. But, as Dave has bemoaned time and again since, he "has a tender heart."

To the outraged astonishment of his friends, Sherard renewed his acquaintance with Mrs. Cauley as soon as she was released from prison. She came to him, crying that he had disgraced her and ruined her life that the very least he could do for her was to give her a new start.

And Dave Sherard, fascinated by the old lure, says he handed her $2,500 in cash and two notes for $2,500 each, so she could buy the contents of a house at No. 158 West Forty-fifth street and make herself a little home. Nor did he stop there. When Mrs. Cauley said she could do nothing unless her citizenship was restored, Sherard says he presented her with $5,000 to restore her citizenship. When, having run through that money, she came back for more, Dave weakened again and signed two notes with which she said she was going to make a part payment on the Hotel Cosmos. She wanted to make some money and pay him back, she declared.

Faced by business failure because of the steady drain on his bank account, Sherard at last rebelled. When a year had passed without a cent returned to him by Mrs. Cauley, he sued her for $5,000. The court gave him a judgment for that amount.

"But I didn't file it then," confessed Sherard.

"I didn't think I could collect, and—well, I didn't have the heart."

However, his forbearance did not placate Mrs. Cauley or her displeasure over his suit. In turn she sued him for the two notes of $2,500 each he had given her, and when he ignored both the summons and the judgment she was awarded, she had him jailed for contempt of court.

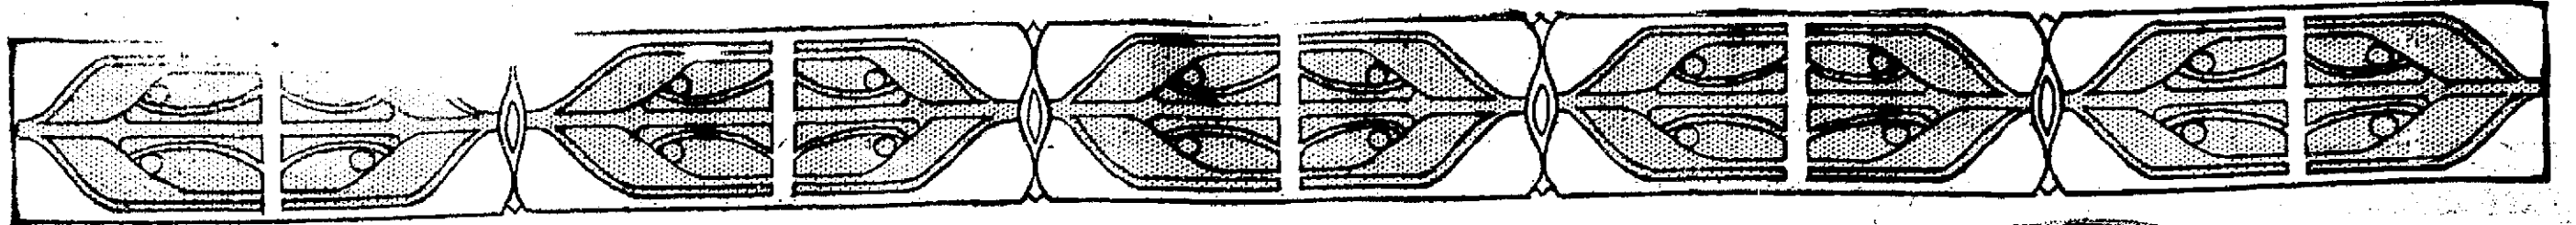

For two days Dave Sherard remained in prison, bitterly reflecting on this sordid, tragic climax to the romance begun so blithely ten years before, when first he looked into Mrs. Cauley's dancing eyes and admired her bright red hair.

Mrs. Cauley finally consented to his release. But the degradation had been too much for him. Old, broken-hearted, bankrupt, Dave Sherard no longer has a heart to fight against his fate.

"Do what you will to me," he said to the court. "I'm through."

Crushed though he is, Mrs. Cauley still pursues him for money, according to his friends. He has lost his vast fortune. His second wife, the present Mrs. Sherard, helps out the family finances by doing embroidery.

"And still," says Mrs. Sherard, "that woman barks on his trail. She telephones me and sends me postal cards, denouncing Dave. She camps on his doorstep and waylays him on the street. He's down and out, as broken as a man could be, we are all but penniless. When, oh, when, will she stop bleeding my poor husband?"

Married the Man Who Killed Her Husband- and Then -

Sid Hatfield, Famous Feudist, Who, According to Court Evidence, Killed C. C. Testaman, and Who Two Weeks Later Married Testaman's Young Widow. When He Was Killed in Turn She Married Sylvester Petry.

When He in Turn Was Slain, She Wed an Officer of the Feud Forces That Again Made Her a Gun-Widow

Mrs. Testaman-Hatfield-Petry, Twice a "Gun Widow" and Thrice a Bride in Less Than Eighteen Months.

A STALWART, hooted mountaineer was kneeling at the feet of the prettiest widow in the West Virginia hills. As he knelt they looked steadily into each other's eyes. Each seemed to be challenging the other.

The woman was the widow of Sid Hatfield, famous feudist and gun-fighter in the Mingo mine wars. And the man was Sylvester Petry, State trooper and member of the "Law and Order" clan that had slain Hatfield.

It was the man who broke the silence, with a startling question.

"Will you marry me?" he asked. "Oh, now can you dare to think of such a thing?" the young widow gasped. "I dare because you did it once before," replied her suitor—and she lowered her eyes, for it was true.

Less than two years earlier, according to court testimony, which is of official record, she had married the man who killed her husband.

On this former occasion she had been the sixteen-year-old girl-bride of C. C. Testaman, Mayor of the little town of Matewan. Testaman was shot dead in the famous "Matewan massacre"—a battle between strike sympathizers and detectives. And a State witness swore that the shot was fired by Hatfield, who was then acting as Mayor Testaman's own chief of police.

Two weeks later, Hatfield married Mrs. Testaman.

And now that Sid Hatfield, in his turn, had been laid in the grave, making his wife a "gun widow" for the second time, Sylvester Petry was asking her hand in a third marriage.

He must have read surrender in her lowered eyes, for they were wedded within a week, and the lovely girl of the feud country found herself a bride for the third time within the brief period of less than eighteen months.

Three times the matrimonial wheel has spun for her. Three times she has been lifted for a brief time into the sunlight of love on the apex of its upward swirl, and twice she has been dropped suddenly into the shadows of widowhood when flashing guns set the wheel revolving again.

Though scarcely twenty years of age, she has already lived long. If life can be measured by tragedy, romance and the mysterious play of fate. She was born in the mountains of West Virginia, and the grim setting of her life has never changed. She was herself of the "mountain people"—a daughter of the mysterious rugged hills whose richness in coal has brought about feuds, and massacres and strife and civil warfare.

Here, particularly during the past three years, intermittent guerrilla warfare has raged. Her first marriage occurred in the midst of one of these clashes. Her first husband, C. C. Testaman, was Mayor of the little mining town of Matewan, friend and sympathizer of the miners in their industrial struggles. Sid Hatfield, Testaman's boy chief of police, was on the same side. Throughout that entire section, he was regarded as one of the most dangerous "killers" allied with the striking miners against the private detectives, the "Cossacks." State troopers and strike breakers who were fighting the battles of the "coal barons."

There was no known feud between Testaman and Hatfield, but prior to the street battle in which Testaman was slain, according to whispers which were repeated openly in court and became part of the official court record, Hatfield, the chief of police, had noted the beauty of Testaman's girl bride, by far the most attractive woman in the little mountain town.

Then came the fatal morning of the "Matewan massacre," on May 19, 1920. A band of coal mine detectives, clothed with State authority, had entered Matewan and evicted a number of families of striking miners, whose houses were wanted for imported strike breakers.

Though the Mayor, the chief of police and practically the whole population of the town were their bitter enemies, the detectives were allowed to complete their work, while the residents watched in sullen silence.

The detectives, nearly a score of them, were assembled on the platform of the railroad station, in the sunshine, waiting for a train that was due within an hour. Mayor Testaman and a few citizens were standing near. Hatfield was nowhere in sight.

Suddenly a single shot rang out. Almost immediately a fusillade followed. The quiet scene was instantaneously changed to bloody confusion. Testaman lay writhing on the platform, mortally wounded. Several of the detectives were down, clutching at their breasts. And from doorways, from behind trees, from behind the corners of houses, rifles and pistols were spitting fire.

The detectives who had not been hit darted for shelter, returning the fire as they ran. More than a hundred shots were discharged.

Ten men lay dead or dying in the streets of Matewan. Seven were detectives, two were miners and the tenth was Mayor Testaman.

It occurred to no one at the time that Sid Hatfield could have had anything to do with the slaying of Testaman, for they were friends, and were both on the same side in the mining feud. Or if it did occur to any one, he kept silent. When the news of the battle was flashed to Charleston, a force of State police rushed to the scene. Nineteen persons were arrested and put on trial at Williamson, the county seat of "Bloody Mingo."

The principal defendant was the rugged, youthful smiling Sid Hatfield—now a bridegroom. But he wasn't on trial for killing Testaman. He and the others were on trial for the battle with the detectives, and "Smiling Sid" surrounded by his friends in the heart of Mingo County, was confident of a general acquittal.

His confidence was in a way justified. Though still a young man he was a feared and famous character. He was a cousin of the noted "Devil Anse" Hatfield, and a member of the noted Hatfield clan, known throughout all America in connection with the Hatfield-McCoy feud that raged for many years along the West Virginia-Kentucky border.

Witnesses after witness was examined, and "Smiling Sid" still smiled. Beside him sat his bride, the "gun-widow" of a few weeks.

Suddenly the name of Testaman was heard from the witness stand—and just as suddenly Sid Hatfield ceased to smile.

"The shot that killed C. C. Testaman was fired from inside the door of a hardware store," the witness was saying, "and the shot was fired by his own chief of police, Sid Hatfield."

A silence like death filled the courtroom. A hundred pairs of eyes stared at Hatfield, whose jaw was set in grim defiance, and at the woman who was flushing crimson by his side.

Captain S. B. Avis, attorney associated with the prosecution, lifted an accusing arm and pointed dramatically to the pair. "And the fact remains," he said slowly, "that within ten days the widow of Testaman became the bride of Sid Hatfield."

For a tense moment anything might have happened. What actually did happen, however, was that Sid Hatfield and the other defendants were acquitted, and

"Smiling Sid" and his bride resumed their honeymoon at Matewan.

A jewelry store which Mayor Testaman had owned was converted by Hatfield into a hardware store, which sold among other things, arms and ammunition. This store, it was said, became a popular meeting place for the striking miners, who recognized in him a leader. His sympathies were all on the side of the miners as opposed to the coal operators and the "Cossacks," who were now in complete control of the district and were keeping a watchful eye on "Smiling Sid" and his companions. Sid was known as a dangerous character and a "two-gun" man.

One night the little town of Mohawk, where old miners had gone on strike and outsiders had been brought in to take their places, was "shot up."

Hatfield, his boon companion, Ed Chambers, and several others later were arrested charged with participation in the shooting.

On the day of the trial Mrs. Hatfield and Mrs. Chambers decided to accompany their husbands to Welch.

It has never been proven in court exactly how Hatfield was slain. Just as he and Chambers, with their wives on their arms, approached the court house a shot rang out, followed by a fusillade. Hatfield and Chambers both fell dead, riddled with bullets. A group of "Cossacks"—detectives, the "law and order" men—stood on the staircase, holding smoking pistols.

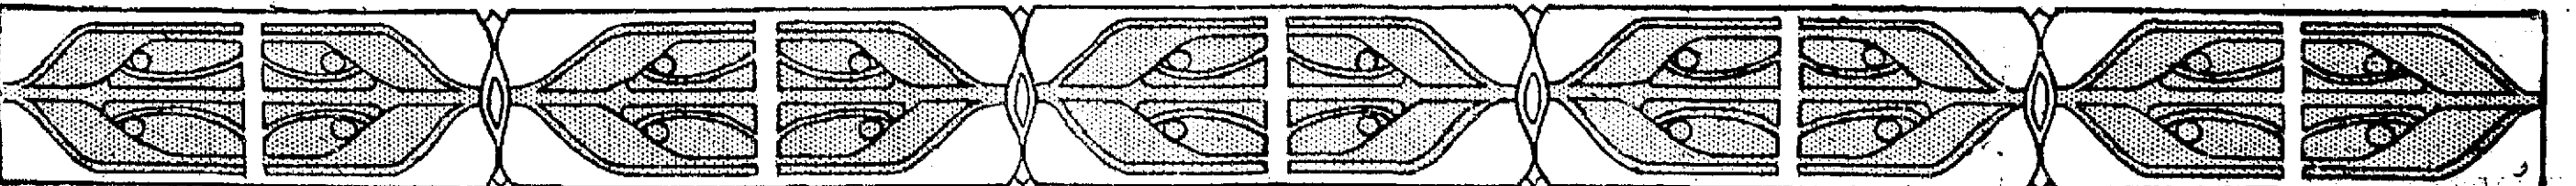

According to their story, they fired when they saw Sid reach toward his pocket. A pistol was picked up from beside the body of the slain "two-gun man." Reports were conflicting. Mrs. Hatfield declared that her husband was unarmed.

Hatfield's body was carried back to Matewan by his widow. The largest crowd of mountaineers ever seen in that section gathered for the funeral. Mrs. Hatfield clad in deep mourning, stood at the head of the coffin as the long line of mountain folk filed by for a last look at the face of their dead friend and hero. As the coffin was being closed the black-garbed widow fell across it and sobbed: "I'll never forget you, my sweetheart."

But fate stood at her side. Six months later, almost to a day, she became Mrs. Sylvester Petry, wife of a member of the law-and-order armed force that embraced the man or men who had slain her second husband.

How Came the French Beauty to Have the Royal German Watch?

"A Very Compromising Gift," Whispers the Vivacious Mlle. Beurrier—and Paris Is Beginning to Buzz with the Secrets of the ex-Crown Prince and His "Bomb-proof Harem"

The "Death's Head" Wrist Watch, Identified as Having Been Worn by the ex-Crown Prince, and Conceded by Mlle. Beurrier "a Very Compromising Gift."

PARIS.

A GUNMETAL watch, its back studded with glittering diamonds in the shape of a death's head, is the tiny instrument that has furnished France its biggest sensation since the Landru trial. An entire province seethes with anger, a beautiful woman trembles in fear and shame and the boulevards of Paris ring to the first authentic story of the vaguely rumored "trench revels" of the former German Crown Prince—all because the possessor of the watch cried once too often for wine in the Cafe le Ciel et de l'Enfer on the heights of Montmartre.

Felix Bosano, a little bourgeois of the town of Charleville, in Northern France, is the man who had the watch and whose confession of where he obtained it led to the exposure of Mlle. Fanchon Beurrier, loveliest beauty of the province of Ardennes, as one of the secret sweethearts of the Crown Prince in his bombproof harem on the western front.

Bosano came to Paris on a holiday. His pockets bulged with francs and his heart bubbled with romance; when night sheathed the city in an alluring garment of lights and sparkling eyes, Bosano hid him to that gay Bohemian quarter of which he had so often heard.

Midnight found him, poorer but jollier, in the Cafe le Ciel et de l'Enfer—the "Cafe of Heaven and Hell," where devilishly pretty "angels" serve drinks at one table and angelically beautiful "devils" give a kiss with each quart at the next. Bosano, however, had reached that stage of staggers where he was too boisterous even for Bohemia. Welcome neither in heaven nor hades, he was pitched out on a cold world. And, when he would have battered his way back by force, gendarmes came and escorted him to the nearest magistrate's court.

Bosano was searched. Valuable jewelry, evidently a woman's, was found on his person. Among the baubles was the watch—the flat, gunmetal watch with a gorgeous diamond in the stem and the replica of a skull and cross-bones set on the back. The gendarme who examined it was an expert. He looked—and clipped out a startled exclamation.

"The seal of the Death's Head Hussars!"

It was, in truth, the unmistakable, distinctive badge of what had been the most famous cavalry unit in the Germany army, the "own regiment" of the Crown Prince—Friedrich Wilhelm, its commander. At once the question was asked:

"Where did Bosano get the watch?"

Before a magistrate, the little bourgeois broke down. He had the watch, he said, along with other jewels, from Mlle. Fanchon Beurrier, of Charleville. They were close friends. When she heard he contemplated a jaunt to Paris, she had come to him, sworn him to secrecy, and delivered the gems to his keeping.

"Mademoiselle said she was in need of money. She wanted me to pawn the watch. Besides, it was what she called 'a very compromising gift.' She could not display it to her friends. She was afraid. She trusted me. But Montmartre was my downfall! I waited too long before seeking a money-lender."

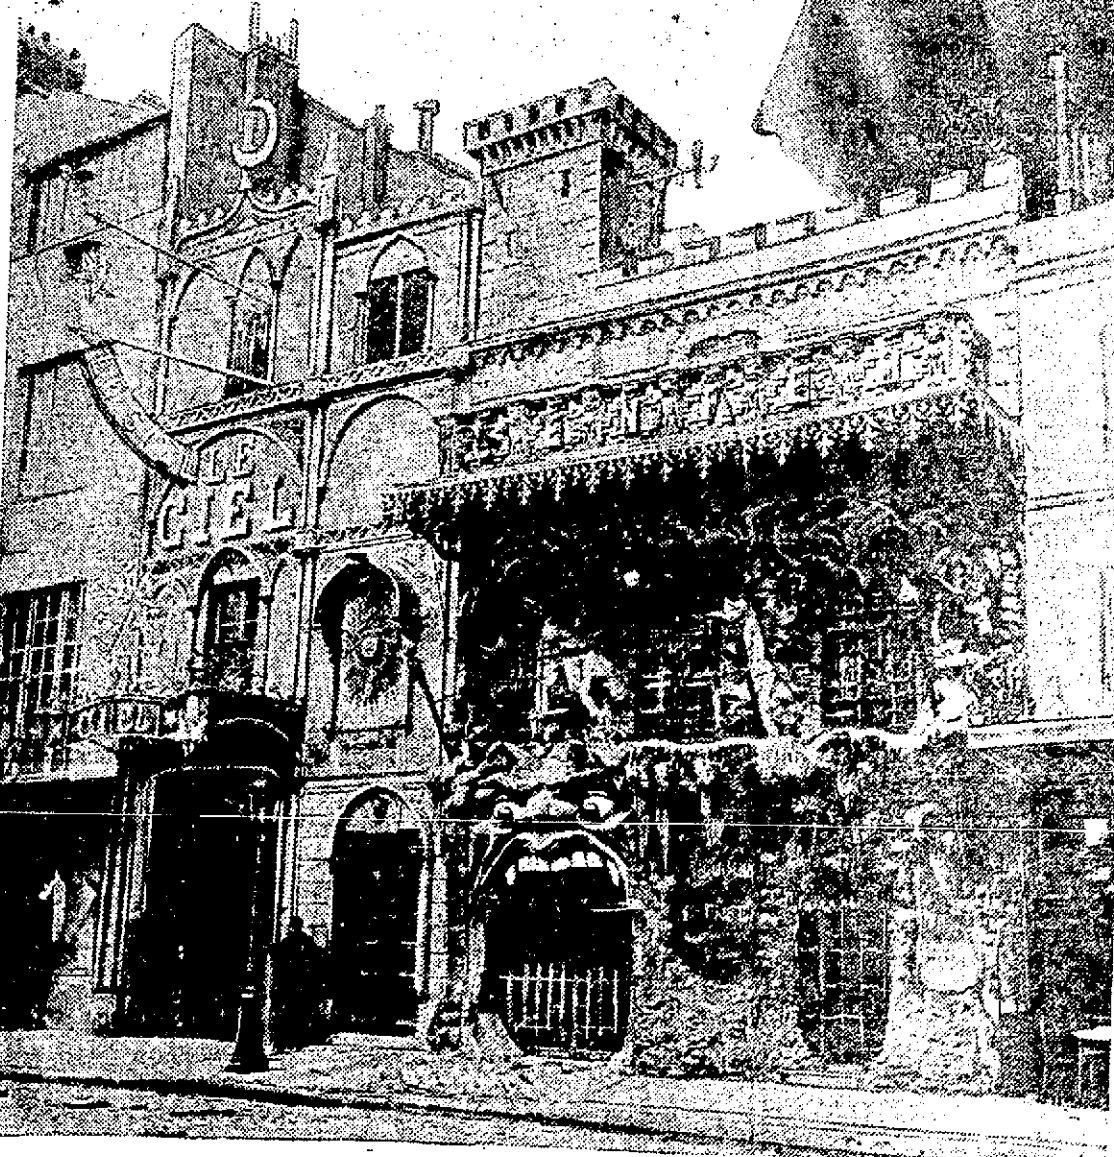

The Magistrate issued orders for Mlle. Beurrier to be brought to Paris for cross-examination to establish the truth or expose the falsehood of Bosano's accusation. But already Bosano's story had spread like a flame throughout Ardennes. The girl had been the flower of the province, a laughing brunette beauty with a score of suitors in her train. But now she found herself worse than an outcast. She disappeared—nor has a wide official search revealed her present whereabouts.

To realize the nightmare which life has become for this beautiful woman, one must understand the attitude of the French mind in every town in Northern France which was occupied by the Germans during the war and has since been rehabilitated by the French. As they showed at the Washington disarmament conference, Frenchmen still live in dread of the Prussian Eagle. Particularly along the border do the scars of war still throb in the heart of every man and woman. Added to the fear of these provincials and their hatred of the Germans is their memory of the occupation. A black cloud of suspicion, directed against every native rumored to have been at all friendly toward the invaders, hangs over hundreds of towns from the Channel to Metz. And especially does it threaten women and girls rumored to have carried on intrigues with Prussian officers. Such double dishonor calls for nothing less than suicide.

But, only in a few instances, has suspicion become certainty. And, though the world has buzzed with rumors of the escapades of the Crown Prince while he was, figuratively speaking, at the front, not until the Bosano exposure was the name of any specific Frenchwoman linked to his. Before the war, the love affairs of the Kaiser's eldest son were the scandal of Europe. He was, according to the revealing memoirs of the German Countess von Wildenbrun (lady-in-waiting to the late Kaiserin),—literally dragged into dissipation by his own father.

Until the age of twenty-one, wrote the Countess, the Crown Prince was an effeminate youth. On reaching his majority, the Prince had a wrathful interview with his father, who accused him of being a milk-sop and fairly ordered him to sow a few conventional wild oats or go into exile.

Court gossip had it that the Kaiser himself strove to engineer an amour between his son and the beautiful Lona Barrison, one of the four famous Barrison sisters who were then the rage in continental music halls. And, when the fair Lona flatly refused to throw over her string of millionaires even for the Crown Prince, the story goes that the Kaiser won to his purpose a beautiful, young and inordinately ambitious foreign girl, then first aspiring to the operatic stage, since become a world famous prima donna.

Thus, in a secret romance with the singer who was to achieve international success on the basis of this royal intrigue, did Friedrich Wilhelm take his first step along a road of unparalleled revelry. Freed from the thrall of his old companions, he became a prince of excess.

At the University of Bonn his plunge into depravity was the sub rosa gossip of the Empire. Dancing girls from gaudy cabarets appeared to strike the vulgar fancy of the Prince as frequently as more fastidious beauties. His carousals reached a climax when, with one boon companion and five painted damsels, all dizzy with champagne, he arrived at the new palace in Potsdam one morning in a military ambulance which had been driven thus all the way from Bonn.

"Mlle. Beurrier Had Been the Flower of the Province—a Laughing Brunette Beauty with a Score of Suitors in Her Train."

The Kaiser, furious, placed the Prince under arrest. He ordered marriage for the heir to the throne as a check to dissipation. But marriage to the Crown Princess Cecilie was only a formality to Friedrich. Dancing girls were still his forte; Germany still whispered of the wild escapades of the dissolute set of which he was the arrogant ring-leader.

War, when it broke, was no obstacle to pleasure in the case of the Crown Prince. Tourists to the western battlefields are shown to-day the luxurious digouts he caused to be made, well beyond reach of the enemy barrage—the tiled bathrooms, the banquet hall, the wine cellar, the couches, mirrors, women's garments and other telltale clues to his "trench revels" which were left behind in flight when the Allies finally swept over the German entrenchments.

he presented the affidavits of 1,500 soldiers revealing the amours of their Prince in the field. Worship of royalty still reigned in the new republic, however. The book was suppressed and Lehrman was fined 600 marks.

Lehrman named no names in his volume. The accusation of the little bourgeois, Bosano, therefore comes as the first direct charge involving a woman. Charleville, just across the border from Belgium, was headquarters of the Crown Prince for many months. It is there the tourist is shown his most sumptuous field rendez-vous—a chateau which was said to have been the scene of indescribable carousals while the guns thundered only a few miles away.

Was Mlle. Beurrier, noted for her beauty and heretofore untouched by the breath of suspicion, a secret visitor to these midnight debauches? Did the Crown Prince shower upon her gold and jewels, including the bediamonded gunmetal watch of the Death's Head Hussars—his favorite gift to a charmer when he was especially enamored of her? And, if Mlle. Beurrier is found and confesses, whom else will she involve? What other names will be branded?

That is what all France is asking as the result of his one night's fling at Montmartre by Felix Bosano, the little bourgeois who came to Paris on a holiday and drank one drink too many at the Cafe of Heaven and Hell.

CAPEES FOR SUMMER

By MARIAN HALE

NEW YORK — Summer sports dresses have taken a violent fancy to clever little capes. The dress which Regina Quinn wears under this fall, gathered-at-the-neck cape, is quite straight of line and is fashioned of sportswear, a lightweight fabric which is being used much for smart outdoor togs.

Of vivid orange it is inset with white at the shoulders of each cape and dress. The trend of sports clothing is naturally toward simplicity, thus this arrangement of material is the only trimming used the outfit.

The skirt is quite short, as only sports skirts dare be. There is a distinct difference between the length of sport clothes and those designed for ordinary town wear. The former may remain quite short, but the skirts of afternoon and evening dresses as well as tailored suits are longer.

Ruth were the week-end guests of relatives at Marion.

Misses Ida Tyler and Irma Scott were Lima visitors Tuesday.

Lonie Grubbs of near Ada was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Al Miller Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hittfield of McGuffey were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. Loy Sunday.

LIMA LOCOMOTIVE BOOSTS MARKET

Statement of Earnings Helps Whole Equipment Group.

STOCKS JUMP TO NEW HIGH

Steady Climb Shown in Review of Past Week.

NEW YORK.—The week on the New York stock exchange closing Saturday was one of alternate advances and profit-taking reactions, each recovery carrying the price level higher.

The greatest appreciation was shown in the more speculative issues of both stocks and bonds. The splendid earnings statement published this week of Lima Locomotive helped the whole equipment group. The statement showed a dividend of $21.50 on common, after preferred and taxes. New highs for the year were made by Chandler and Studebaker, leaders of the motor group. Studebaker got up to 100 early in the week, sinking Saturday, however, to 97.38, bearing the brunt of a profit-taking attack while the rest of the motors sold off easily.

HEAVY SELLING.

Traders looking for an opportunity to raid the market, seized upon the announcement of the soldier bonus plan in the middle of the week, although the proposal called for no tax burdens to stockholders.

In fact, the heavy selling following the announcement was said to have started in Pierce, Fenner & Smith, before the soldier bonus plan was made public.

High grade bonds on the market did little more than hold their ground and standard stock of the best grade gained only fractionally.

The gas stocks closed the week strong, and Consolidated Gas made a new high for the year. The advance of this stock, according to the Dow Jones Financial Agency, has been helped by the short interest built up at the time the uncertainty existed regarding continuation of the regular dividend.

POSITION STRONG.

Call money eased gradually, closing the week around four per cent. Sterling exchange rose to a new high for the movement at $4.44 3/4.

A well-known Broadway commission house comments on the market condition by saying:

"The technical position of this market is strong. If it breaks it will be because of interest in the soldier bonus plan in order to get stocks."

STOCK AND GRAIN GOSSIP

A direct cable from Buenos Aires quotes an American grain man in Argentina with saying that wheat continues strong and export purchases, to date totals 11,500,000 tons equal to 55,000,000 bushels, about half the surplus. Farmers are expected to be slow sellers in futures. Corn was materially damaged by drought and locusts.

Liverpool close on wheat Saturday was three-fourths penny lower than Friday's close.

Weather—Generally clear and fine all over the grain belt with the exception of the Ohio valley, where it is cloudy and showing in some sections.

Wheat precipitated heavy selling in corn and oats, and support especially in the former was lacking.

Net receipts were 6,000; market uneven mostly, but steady with Friday's average. Bulk of sales, $11.00 and $11.25. Tops, $11.35.

Russia will be in the market for wheat and corn next week.

According to New York advices it looks very much as tho the pool in Studebaker is disturbing quite a little stock lately.

Dow Jones says Sears Roebuck declared the regular quarterly one and three-fourths per cent dividend, payable April 1 on stock of record of March 15.

It seems to be quite generally accepted that after the close of the market Friday that the stock list had a very much tired appearance in the late dealings, and there were signs of a natural reaction seems to be in the process of development.

Dow Jones—American—When declared regular quarterly dividend of one and three-fourths per cent common and preferred stocks.

There were 629 failures in the United States last week, against 478 the previous week and 311 in the same period of 1921.

MARSHAL FIELD REVIEW

Marshall Field & Company in their weekly review of the wholesale dry goods trade, say:

Current wholesale distribution of dry goods showed a very slight decrease from the volume recorded last week and was somewhat less than during the corresponding period of last year. There was a large gain in orders from road salesmen during the week when the volume was not as large as for the same week of 1921. More customers were in market than a year ago. Collections are not quite as satisfactory as a year ago.

SUGAR MARKET

NEW YORK.—Raw sugar market steady. Raw sugar futures easier, unchanged to 5 points lower. Refined sugar active but no further changes in prices. Refined sugar without transactions.

ACTUAL BANK STATEMENT

NEW YORK.—The actual condition of the clearing house banks and trust companies for the week shows a deficit of $12,024,030 below legal requirements. This is a decrease of $56,256,550.

GREEN & GREEN now GUARANTEE the FRESHNESS of EDGEMONT CRACKERS

In This Improved DATED Package

This new style "Green Package" absolutely guarantees the freshness of every cracker. Think what this new method means to you.

You can now get "EDGEMONTS" that taste just as they tasted when they came from the oven.

We couldn't improve the Crackers --- they already are "Preferred by People who like the Best"---the problem was to deliver them to you FRESH.

Hundreds of thousands of GREEN Pantry Tins were marketed within the last two months, at a special price---

—so that you might know the goodness of FRESH "Edgemonts"

—so that you might have the chance to get a GREEN enameled tin to keep your Crackers crisp and fresh while in your pantry.

We would like to keep on furnishing GREEN Pantry Tins—but that would be an economic waste---and you don't care for too many in your home.

You know we could not go on indefinitely furnishing tins FREE, so we had expert package manufacturers help us---and this new package is the result.

We have so much confidence in this package that we guarantee its "keeping" quality. The contents of every package is Guaranteed to reach you FRESH.

The New Green Package is moisture-proof. The Crackers are protected by a moisture-proof lining, while outside is a moisture-proof wrapping. Double-wrapped, to keep the good flavor of the crackers in and to keep all moisture out.

Dampness is the greatest foe to Crackers---the better the crackers the quicker it causes them to become stale.

It has been the policy of The Green & Green Company to supply the consuming public the best Crackers that can be made of the best materials that money could buy---and then study and work to give them something better than that best.

—that's why we originated SALTED BUTTERS.

—that's why we originated new processes, new devices.

—that's why we installed our own FLOUR MILL.

—that's why "Edgemonts" are the only Crackers made in the United States with the sweet-wheat flavor.

—that's why we originated this new double-wrapped GREEN Package.

—that's why each package is certified and plainly dated.

When you break the seal of the new GREEN Package, you again expose the Crackers to moisture. That's the time to put those you do not serve into your GREEN Enameled Pantry Tin---to keep them fresh until all are eaten.

If you haven't a Pantry Tin, we can supply you. Read the plan on bottom of each package.
